ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 11.—Samuel Insull, wanted in Chicago to stand trial on indictments charging him with embezzlement and larceny in connection with the collapse of his two billion dollar utilities empire, was set at liberty today by Greek authorities.

The 73 year old former multi-millionaire has left his comfortable room in the police headquarters for the Petit Palace hotel, which is the most luxurious in the Greek capital. Prime Minister Venizelos formerly made his home there.

Will Remain Under Observation.

Although free to move about as he pleases, Insull will remain under the observation of police until noon tomorrow. If, by that time, the American legation has not supplied the Greek authorities with official documents showing cause why Insull should be detained, he will be accorded complete freedom. The documents demanded by Greece include a warrant for arrest or a copy of the grand jury indicement requesting his prosecution.

Following Insull's release, the American legation made a formal request for his detention pending the arrival of the warrant for his arrest from Rome, where it had been forwarded from Paris.

It was declared by the public prosecutor, however, that since the instruments of ratification on the extradition treaty between the United States and Greece have not yet been exchanged, the Chicago utilities man could not legally be held in custody.

Greek Premier Intervenes.

Insull's release followed the intervention of Premier Venizelos, who called on the minister of interior to determine whether his detention was legal. The order for the fugitives' release followed. The attorney general issued the following statement:

"In the Insull case the attorney general of the republic, after having examined the Insull affair, finds that there is no legal basis for his detention to be eventually extradited on the basis of the convention of extradition, which is not yet in force. The attorney general has formed the opinion that Insull should be liberated."

Experts tonight were discussing the possibility of Insull being handed over to the United States on the strength of another Greco-American treaty, which provides for the exchange of accused persons belonging to the two nations and residing in either country.

Matter to Go Before Court.

The entire matter will be brought before the court of appeals in Athens in order to ascertain whether the offense with which Insull has been charged is punishable under the Greek law. Insull has employed for his defense in this court M. Romanos, a famous lawyer and president of the Greek Order of Advocates, which corresponds to the American Bar association.

Insull and his lawyer both expressed confidence that his innocence will be established.

The fallen utilities magnate received a number of visitors before his release from jail. M. Constantimi, president of the Jewish community of Athens, who is also the Paraguayan consul here, was one of them.

Police treated Insull as a guest rather than as a prisoner. This is explained here as due partly to the influence of American friends, his age, and the position he once held. He had the best quarters in the station house and his meals were brought to him from a neighboring hotel.

"Willing to Return."

That Insull had the best of treatment was clearly evident when he left the police station this afternoon. He was freshly shaven and seemed none the worse for his night's experience in jail. He was wearing a new suit of gray linen which, it was said, cost $6.

Insull is reported to have told the police that he was willing to return to Chicago "after the election" to answer to grand jury indictments. He is said to have asked authorities for

DISCOVERS CAVE WHERE BIRTH OF ROME WAS SEEN

NAPLES, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Discovery of the ancient cave in which, according to the Roman poet, Virgil, the Cumaean Sibyl foretold the birth of Rome, was claimed today by Prof. Amedeo Maiuri, superintendent of antiques.

The cave, forty feet long and hollowed out of solid rock in Cuma hill, the professor said, conforms to the descriptions of Virgil's and to those of fourth and sixth century Roman writers. Leading into it from the hillside is a gallery 400 feet long.

The cave is the traditional place where, according to Virgil, Aeneas visited the Sibyl and received from her the prediction that he would found Rome. Prof. Maiuri discovered the gallery while excavating an ancient wine cellar.

NEW SPEED MARK FOR TELEGRAM AROUND WORLD

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—As part of the observance of the 100th anniversary of the day when the telegraph was first conceived by its inventor, Samuel F. B. Morse, Clarence Mackey, chairman of the board of the Postal Telegraph company, sent a message around the world today in the record time of 4 minutes and 45 seconds, beating by 1 minute and 45 seconds the best previous records.

The message, "What has God wrought," was the original one flashed from Baltimore to Professor Morse in Washington in 1844. It was sent by Mr. Mackay from the studios of a radio station on Broadway with the key which President Roosevelt used to send the first round-the-world message in 1903.

CROWDS FLEE AS POLICE BATTLE GANG OF BANDITS

Two of four bandits were believed to have been wounded in a spectacular gun battle with police at the busy intersection of Clark street, Diversey parkway and Broadway shortly before midnight last night. More than thirty shots were exchanged, causing pedestrians and motorists to flee for shelter. The robbers escaped.

Just before the fight the bandits invaded the Liggett drug store at 2800 North Clark street, menaced thirty patrons and clerks and stole $450. They fled through the parkway door. They were seen by Policemen Frank Slattery, John Leabeter, Edward Cole and Harry Schaef, of the Sheffield avenue station, and Frank McDermott of the state's attorney's office, and the battle followed.

Expect Milk Price Cut in Chicago Area

BY PAUL POTTER.

Chicago and some 16 nearby cities are being offered so much more milk than they are consuming at the present retail price of 11 cents per quart and 7 cents per pint that a reduction in these prices is expected in the near future.

This situation was discussed by representatives of Chicago dairy companies and officers of the Pure Milk association, the agency which supplies the milk produced by 19,000 dairy farmers in the Chicago area, behind closed doors Monday afternoon. Yesterday the advisory committees of local units in the farm organization also met in Chicago. The distributors and farmers are expected to meet together today with the possibility that they may agree on a reduction in prices.

Milk Peddlers Increasing.

Peddling of milk in suburban cities, the purchase of large quantities of milk by peddlers direct from farmers, and the sales of milk at roadside stands have grown rapidly in recent months, it was pointed out. In addition the normal increase in retail consumption which accompanies the opening of school has not been apparent in many sections this fall.

Wide differences in the delivery costs paid by unionized milk distributors and those employing nonunion labor are said to be the chief factor in the discussions between the dealers and dairymen.

Wholesale dairy plants are selling milk to peddlers for 6½ cents a quart. The peddlers, who include many former milk wagon drivers with acquaintance among customers, are satisfied to make a profit of only three or four dollars a day. This enables them to reduce the price below that charged by the union drivers, who are paid $8 a day for a six day week. In addition the unionized dairy companies must figure in credit costs, the overhead on their plants, and other fixed charges.

36 Per Cent to Farmer.

At present the farmer is getting about 36 per cent of the retail price of milk. The labor item in distributing the milk is 41 per cent; the dealer gets the remaining 23 per cent. Breaking up the 11 cents the farmers get 3.96 cents a quart, labor 4.51 cents, and dealers 2.53 cents. Farmers have taken a reduction of more than 30 per cent since 1930.

THREE FIREMEN, 2 OTHERS BURNED IN MYSTERY FIRE

Three firemen and two civilians were injured in a mysterious fire which attacked a large three story apartment building at 3118 Douglas boulevard late last night, and gutted the upper two floors. Members of three families were routed, among them that of Simon Gold, owner of Gold's restaurant at Roosevelt road and Halsted street. Damage was estimated at $25,000.

The civilians injured, both seriously, were Hymen Sinnenberg, 40 years old, of 1331 South Kedzie avenue, and Jack Cohen, 27 years old, of 1328 South Millard avenue. Because neither lived in the building where the fire occurred police detailed guards over them in St. Anthony's hospital, and announced they would question them. However, the guard was later removed.

The fire started in the front hallway of the building. During the battle Firemen John Proney, Engine 109; James King, Engine 66, and Walter Coyle, Engine 77, were burned about the face and hands. They were taken to St. Anthony's hospital.

REGISTRATION IN CITY IS 64,757 ABOVE RECORDS

Surprise in Second and Last Day.

Chicago showed yesterday that its heart is in the political campaign. On the second day of registration for the Nov. 8 election it placed the names of 732,288 voters on its polls lists. Added to the 762,243 enrolled ten days earlier, this gives the city a total registration of 1,494,531, breaking the record for an original, general registration.

The second day of enrollment surpassed all expectations. As darkness fell there were many experts who said the day's total would not pass the 400,000 mark. When it almost reached the total for Oct. 1, the first day under the quadrennial system, these observers were among the first to announce that the result proved that all Chicago will vote for national, state and county officers this year. They took the result to indicate a universal interest in the campaign.

Here Are the Figures.

The unofficial figures for yesterday's registration in parallel columns with the registration on the first day, Oct. 1, and the number of names on the books last March follow:

Registration for 1928.

The city's registration for the last presidential campaign—that of 1928—was 1,386,656. Under the quadrennial plan of supplemental registrations preceding each election since that time the total number of names on the books assed that number, but election authorities agreed that the higher figures were due to the failure of precinct officials to remove "dead names" during the quadrennium.

There will be only a small number of erasures, it is said, following this new enrollment, and for that reason the new figure is considered a real record for all time, assuring next month the heaviest vote in the history of the city. During the last quadrennial period the total number of names has gone beyond even the 1,500,000 mark before revision which erased thousands upon thousands of names, but the highest final total considered comparable with the new figure is the 1,264,234 listed as eligible to vote in the fall election of two years ago.

Last Mayoralty Race Figures.

The only time that the 1930 figure has been beaten was in the spring of the following year during the mayoralty campaign. When Mayor Cermak was elected at that time the books showed that 1,429,774 were entitled to vote, but that list, coming as the culmination of a series of supplemental registrations following the quadrennial enrollment of 1928, is not considered comparable to the present grand total.

It was a matter of astonishment at the election board last night that an unprecedented number of persons telephoned demanding the right to register after 9 o'clock. They could not be.

Mob of 10,000 Jobless Fights Belfast Police

BY ROBERT SAYERS.

BELFAST, Northern Ireland, Oct. 12.—[Wednesday.]—The rifle fire of snipers and police and the crackling of flames were heard in Belfast throughout the night after a day and night of fierce fighting between 10,000 jobless men and women and 2,000 police.

At 2 a. m. the riot had resulted in one man shot dead, eighteen persons were in hospitals with bullet wounds and thirty were receiving medical aid for other injuries, including four policemen with serious head injuries.

Police announced that thirty arrests had been made.

Entry to City Forbidden.

A cordon of police has been drawn about the city and no one will be allowed to enter Belfast except on permissible business until daybreak. Frightful scenes, reminiscent of the Sinn Fein era, were enacted. The curfew law was enforced at 11 p. m. and will not be lifted until 5 a. m.

The police are patroling the streets on foot and in armored cars. Bus and tram service has been suspended.

Twelve fires broke out during the rioting. The flames are still visible though firemen are believed to have brought most of the conflagrations under control. Street lamps were smashed in several sections of the city and armored cars equipped with searchlights are keeping thoroughfares lighted.

Until 11 p. m. thousands of persons thronged the streets in the riot area, but scurried for home at that hour as police began to round up everybody they found abroad.

Hold Infantry Ready.

Five hundred extra police arrived in Belfast at midnight and authorities have sent for reinforcements from all the six northern counties. The infantry regiment at Holyrood, near Belfast, is being kept in barracks and is ready to march on the city in case the police call for assistance.

With most of the city's lights extinguished, armed rioters in west Belfast opened fire from upper windows as police cars entered the district. The rioters dug trenches in the streets and stacked up refuse bins as barricades.

Many policemen were struck by stones. Shop windows were smashed and looting was widespread. Street cars were held up yesterday morning and stoned. One police sergeant was held up by six armed men, who took his revolver and ammunition.

The trouble started early yesterday morning when a series of processions arranged by the Belfast unemployed workers' committees began a demonstration despite a police order forbidding it. The police charged the crowds with truncheons. The mob then commenced setting fire to watchmen's huts and larger buildings.

Use Rifles and Bayonets.

The rioting spread rapidly and by early afternoon the situation was completely out of hand. In the nationalist quarters along Falls road, police first were compelled to fire in order to disperse mobs. A special shock force of police numbering 150 men, who were armed with rifles and bayonets, was called out to stop looting of shops in York street, North Queen street, and Dock street.

Three large buildings were set afire early in the evening. These were a corporation store in the Short Strand, a hay store in New Lodge road, and a garage at Artillery and North Green streets.

The mob stoned an ambulance, which was rushing wounded men to the hospital.

Samuel Baxter of Belfast was killed in Cullingtree road near the Falls road district. He was shot while in front of a shop in which police were exchanging rifle fire with rioters.

COOLIDGE CALLS ON COUNTRY TO ELECT HOOVER

Assails Roosevelt on Bonus Silence.

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Calvin Coolidge tonight came out squarely for the policies of President Hoover.

"The more this campaign has progressed," Mr. Coolidge said, "the more I am convinced that the public welfare requires that Mr. Hoover should be reelected."

He also attacked Gov. Roosevelt for his failure to announce his stand on the soldier bonus question. The address was delivered at a Republican rally in Madison Square Garden.

His First Campaign Speech.

The address was the former President's first and possibly last speech in the present presidential campaign. The man from New England, in whom the Republican leaders place great expectation of stemming a Democratic tide, urged the country to stick to Hoover and spoke optimistically, in his down east Yankee twang, of economic improvement. He declared his faith in the soundness of the Hoover program for business recovery and he held that "no man had been forgotten."

Crowd of 18,000 Present.

Arrangements had been made for a great overflow crowd of more than 50,000 persons by Republican headquarters, but many empty seats dotted the Garden and high up in the two galleries there were stretches of emptyness. There were between 15,000 and 20,000 persons inside and a small crowd outside listening to the loud speakers.

New York Republicans are not as demonstrative as Tammany Democrats, was the unofficial explanation offered by party leaders. They go to bed early—too early, for the rally was all over shortly after 9 o'clock.

The crowd, however, was enthusiastic once it got steam up. Mr. Coolidge received a two minute ovation and there was generous applause at the mention of Mr. Hoover's name.

Smiles as Cheering Subsides.

The former President, his sparse, thin face wrinkled in a frown under the glare of the lights, pulled out his gold chained watch toward the end of the ovation. He had in mind that the audience was taking up his time on the air. It was only when the cheering subsided that he risked a fleeting smile.

The audience appeared enthralled by Mr. Coolidge's New England twang and applauded every bit of his Yankee drollery. The former President had only to pause and look sideways at his audience over his rimmed glasses to provoke an outburst of cheering.

As a prelude to the Coolidge address members of the state Republican ticket spoke briefly. The most spontaneous ovation of the evening was accorded Col. William Donovan, G. O. P. candidate for governor.

Sees Nation's Troubles Passing.

Declaring that "the country's worst troubles are probably past and economic recovery is beginning," the New Englander swung quickly into his prepared address. It was an indorsement of Mr. Hoover's régime from the first paragraph to final declaration.

Attacking the Democratic leadership for attempted raids on the treasury and warmly praising Mr. Hoover's moves to maintain "sound money," the former President said:

"An early and timely word from the Democratic candidate for President that he would reject the proposal to increase the national debt by two billion three hundred million dollars to pay a bonus would have been a great encouragement to business, reduced unemployment, and guaranteed the integrity of the national credit. While he remained silent, economic recovery was measurably impeded."

Essential to Recovery.

In pointing out that, in his opinion, a Republican victory was essential to economic progress, Mr. Coolidge said, "the assurance that the pending Democratic raids on the treasury would be defated by a Republican victory in November would no doubt have the same effect in reviving all kinds of industry."

Mr. Coolidge devoted considerable time to Gov. Roosevelt's "forgotten man."

"The charge is made," declared the sage of Northampton, "that the Republican party and its candidates do not have any solicitude for the general welfare of the common run of people but are interested only in promoting the interests of a few favored individuals and corporations of large possessions."

After a spirited defense in which he pointed out that the suffering of the small people was brought about to a large degree by the failure of the credit of large concerns. Mr. Coolidge took a veiled thrust at Gov. Roosevelt's background of wealth.

"Working for the general run of people is exactly what we should expect from President Hoover," said Mr. Coolidge, "because he knows them by being one of them and having served with them and for them all his life.

"He was not born to the enjoyment of generations of inherited wealth so that he could be educated by private tutors and sent through expensive schools and universities. He never was carried into political office by the way of family influence. He has always had to depend on his own name and reputation."

Says Times Could Be Worse.

Mr. Coolidge, in defending President Hoover's record, said things could "be a great deal worse here than they are and would have been much worse if it had not been for the vision, the courage and leadership of President Hoover."

Insisting that "we shall be most likely to find progress in holding fast to that which experience has proven to be sound and just and true," the former President said no government has yet been devised that could keep people prosperous all the time.

Mr. Coolidge told his audience that the present economic condition was brought about by forces no government could foresee and prevent. In his discussion of the tariff problems, the former President drew on an illustrious Democratic, President Cleveland, for a quotation.

"An independent nation ought to keep within its own control the authority to determine its own revenues and regulate its own commerce," said Mr. Coolidge. "These practical objections were stated by President Cleveland nearly fifty years ago. . . . He was so sound on most economic questions that his party deserted him."

NO FEDERAL TAX CUT IN 10 YEARS, LA GUARDIA SAYS

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Despite all political parties' promise that federal taxes will be reduced if they are put into office, the fixed charges of government—including interest and amortization charges, costs—are piling up so fast that federal tax reduction will be impossible for the next ten years, Representative Fiorello H. La Guardia told members of the Kiwanis club at their weekly luncheon today.

"The increase in budgetary commitments of your federal government is piling up higher than the politicians' speeches," he asserted. "While I believe that the promises of tax reduction are made in good faith, charges are piling up so fast that it will be impossible to fulfill them."

Of the five billion dollars already appropriated for the Reconstruction Finance corporation, he said: "Who, knowing how the corporation is administered and the kind of security upon which loans are issued, can expect that these sums will be returned 100 cents on the dollar?"

Later Mr. La Guardia said that a conservative estimate is that 40 per cent of the R. F. C. loans will have to be wiped out.

BANKER, FREED BY KIDNAPERS, AIDS IN SEARCH

Norman B. Collins, bank president who spent twelve hours in the custody of kidnapers Monday and who was released without payment of ransom, worked yesterday with operatives of the Secret Six in trying to establish the identity of the kidnapers. Alexander Jamie of the Secret Six said he believed the kidnapers were beginners in that racket, as they became frightened and freed Collins late Monday night. He showed Collins pictures of all the men suspected of being the kidnapers, but the banker was unable to recognize any of them.

Mr. Collins, who is head of the Security and Second Security banks and who lives in Wilmette, and his wife were seized together by the abductors. Mrs. Collins was freed soon afterward.

Text of Calvin Coolidge's Speech in Support of President

NEW YORK, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Following is the text of the address delivered by former President Calvin Coolidge in Madison Square Garden tonight:

"My Fellow Countrymen: This meeting was arranged by a body of public spirited New York people and the national Republican committee for the purpose of helping to reelect as President of the United States Herbert Hoover. I have accepted an invitation to address you in order that I might express my opinion on some of the issues of the campaign, reiterate my support of the President, and reassert my faith in the Republican party the most efficient instrument for sound popular government ever intrusted with the guidance of a great nation.

"We ought to bring to all our tasks a good cheer, but a national election which is to determine the destinies of more than 120 million people for the next four years cannot be considered as anything less than a serious undertaking, to be seriously approached and seriously discharged.

"After all, contentment that is worth anything comes from duty well done, from meeting the obligations of the present as they occur. Some people are saying that as things could not be any worse we might as well try a change. That is a very dangerous principle to apply to the discharge of the duties of American citizenship. Things are much worse in other parts of the world. They could be a great deal worse here than they are, and would have been much worse if it had not been for the vision, the courage and the leadership of President Hoover.

Take On Judicial Function.

"Before we decide that we want to have a change we ought to determine what the chances are of securing any improvement. We shall be most likely to find progress in holding fast to that which experience has proven to be sound and just and true.

"Casting a ballot to determine who shall be President of the United States ought to take on a judicial function.

"The ability, experience and character of the candidate, the policies with which he has identified himself in the past and those which he proposes for the future, the standing of his associates and advisers, and the results which have generally been secured by th administration of his party ought all to be carefully considered. No other attitude in approaching an election is worthy of a free people.

"We are told that business is not good, that the fault must lie with the administration, and, therefore, the proper remedy is to vote against the President. No government has ever yet been devised that could make the people prosperous all the time. But a bad government will constantly keep the people in distress. Our national government has adopted one measure after another to support and encourage business and agriculture.

"The present economic distress is world-wide. Our own fundamental conditions were so sound that we have been able to make the sacrifices and relieve the distress better than could be done in other countries. If there was anything which a government could do to prevent the decline in business the world has experienced it must be that some government somewhere would have been wise enough to apply a remedy. If no such remedy anywhere has been found, the inference is practically certain that the present economic condition was brought about by forces no government could foresee and prevent.

A Competitive Tariff.

"One of the subjects which is being discussed in this campaign which it is very easy to misrepresent and misunderstand is the tariff. Because of constantly changing conditions, if for no other reason, no one was ever able to devise a perfectly adjusted tariff bill. No one can devise one now and no congress, constituted as ours is, will ever pass one. Some schedules may be too high and some too low, but protection gives the general result of an advantage to our own products in our own market.

"We are told now that we ought to have a competitive tariff. Those words are not new, but their meaning is not very definite. Judging from the prices of almost all commodities now selling in our markets for less than the cost of production, our producers are not suffering from any lack of competition. Is it proposed to put our agriculture in competition with that of Canada, Australia and the Argentine? Is it proposed to put our industry in competition with that of Europe? Is it proposed to put our wage earners in competition with those of India, China and Japan?

"But we told again that by reducing our tariff we can increase our own foreign commerce. Every foreign nation wants our tariff reduced. No foreign nation wants to increase our commerce. I know that foreign nations do not buy in our markets unless they are compelled to do so even when price and quality are advantageous. I know also that our tariff and trade regulations in general are much more favorable to the rest of the world than their tariffs and regulations are to us. About two-thirds of our enormous imports and all our exports are free of duty.

"When I was in Washington I had a man who was very familiar with European commerce through a long official study of it while he was abroad, not a member of my party but a believer in a low tariff, make an investigation of our rates. He went through the schedules carefully, and I believe conscientiously, on at least two different occasions and only could report that while there were many which did not give enough protection to balance the difference between the cost of production abroad and at home, outside of possibly some schedules that affected agriculture, in which costs were necessarily vague and indefinite, he could find nothing that he could say was too high.

Jeopardized by Competition.

"I did not feel that our agriculture was in a condition further to be jeopardized by foreign competition. If that was the case then, what is it probably that a candid investigation would show now when on account of a depreciated currency in almost every country abroad the ordinary advantage which we gain from the tariff is practically eliminated?

"A nation should keep within its own control the authority to determine its own revenues and regulate its own commerce. Reciprocal trade agreements on any extended scale would involve our surrender of our independence on these two vital points. These practical objections were stated by President Cleveland in his first annual message to the congress nearly fifty years ago. He was a wise statesman and so sound on most economic questions that his party deserted him and refused him recognition for nearly a quarter of a century.

"After declaring that he had withdrawn certain treaties from the senate because they surrendered large revenues and raised embarrassing questions under the favored-nation clause of treaties, he said:

"'As a further objection it is evident that tariff regulation by treaty diminishes that independent control over its own revenues which is essential for the safety and welfare of any government. Emergency calling for an increase of taxation may at any time arise and no engagement with a foreign power should exist to hamper this action of the government.'

Opposes Tariff Reciprocity.

"There has never been any adequate answer to the principle which that President declared. Reciprocity on a wide scale is not practical. More than that, any attempt to apply it is certain to produce intense domestic jealousy and dissension. In order to get one duty lowered abroad we should have to lower another duty at home. The domestic producers who suffered from a lowering of our duties would have a good deal of cause to feel that they had been sacrificed to secure an advantage to some other foreign and domestic producers.

"It is very easy to criticize after the event. Constructive leadership is not so easy. I have no taste for criticizing. I much prefer to present the constructive and statesmanlike program of my party. But when it is constantly charged that President Hoover lacks leadership I hope I may be pardoned for a slight reference to what appears to be offered in its place. As early as November, 1928, the Democratic leader publicly urged the presentation of a constructive program by his party.

"In the campaign of 1930 another authoritative promise of a constructive program was issued. The Democratic leader again warned his party in November, 1931, to present a constructive program, yet when that party elected a speaker of the house and assumed control of that body, no program had yet been presented.

Increase Revenues, Cut Expense.

"The President in his message pointed out the necessity of increasing revenues and cutting down expenses. The acting chairman of the Democratic ways and means committee reported a new tax bill which he said was nonpartisan and had the unanimous support of the fifteen Democrats and ten Republicans of the committee. What then happened is well known history. The Democratic members of the house deserted their leaders, destroyed the bill, and of their 220 only 40 supported it on the final vote.

"In their effort for economy which the President had already recommended, a special committee was appointed which finally reported a bill reducing expenditures by about 200 million dollars annually. When the Democratic house finally passed it they had again deserted their leaders and rejected all the proposed savings but about 40 million dollars. No constructive program for revival of industry and commercial and financial relief was presented by the Democratic party in the last session of congress.

"But this is only a part of the record. Meantime President Hoover had proposed the formation of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, strengthening of the Federal Reserve Land Bank system, the amendment of the federal reserve law to provide more adequate credit and safeguard the gold standard, the creation of the home loan discount banks, and all the other legislation passed by the last congress for the general relief of the economic situation. Many times he had the assistance and support of individual Democrats, which he has publicly acknowledged. With this record, where does the country think it can most hopefully turn for leadership?

Support of Sound Money.

"One of the greatest services which the Republican party has rendered has been the support of sound money. During the war President Lincoln was obliged to issue greenbacks. The uncertainty as to the value of our currency which this created was one of the causes of the panic of the early seventies. Finally the Republican party passed a law over Democratic opposition declaring that some years in advance the greenbacks would be paid in gold, but the value of our currency and the power of the government to redeem this pledge remained in doubt and caused years of business stagnation.

"When at last the secretary of the treasury, John Sherman, collected a large supply of gold in the treasury and redeemed all the greenbacks that were presented the uncertainty ended and a business revival began. The credit of the nation was established.

"The next assault on our currency was not made with paper, but with silver. That situation brought on the panic of the early nineties. When it was settled, by the election of President McKinley, that the national credit would be maintained another era of propounced prosperity followed.

Nation's Credit at Stake.

"We have recently gone through another period where the credit of the nation has been at stake. Our power to continue the gold standard was doubted and foreign creditors withdrew their deposits in gold. At the same time, under Democratic leadership, it was proposed to issue $2,300,000,000 in greenbacks to pay the veterans' bonus, and other measures were proposed which would have brought bankruptcy to the national treasury, destroyed the market for government bonds, and forced the abandonment of the gold standard.

"Under the leadership of President Hoover this calamity was averted. The passage of these measures was finally avoided and the loss of our gold was offset by emergency legislation. In June the financial integrity of our government appeared to be permanently established. Congress finally adjourned and our gold began to come back. The decline in trade ceased and confidence began to return until at the present time the country knows that its worst troubles are probably past and economic recovery is beginning.

"The defeat of the Democratic greenback craze and the free silver issue were both followed by periods of prosperity under Republican administrations. The assurance that the pending Democratic raids on the treasury would be defeated by a Republican victory in November would no doubt have the same effect in reviving all kinds of business.

Refers to Bonus Proposal.

"An early and timely word from the Democratic candidate for President that he would reject the proposal to increase the national debt by $2,300,000,000 to pay a bonus would have been a great encouragement to business, reduced unemployment, and guaranteed the integrity of the national credit. While he remained silent economic recovery was measurably impeded.

"One subject constantly recurs in our national political campaigns which it is difficult to discuss without apology. But it is put forward with so much boldness that it cannot be entirely ignored. The charge is made that the Republican party and its candidates do not show any solicitude for the general welfare of the common run of people, but are interested only in promoting the interests of a few favored individuals and corporations of large possessions.

"This charge is made against the party of Abraham Lincoln, Theodore Roosevelt, and Herbert Hoover. Lincoln and Roosevelt are both dead. No one has any personal authority to speak in their name, but the humanitarian spirit which they exemplified in their life works, based on sound and solid economic principles, remains as a sacred trust to the Republican party which it has never failed to strive to administer.

Purveyor of Half Truths.

"If there was any subject that was anathema to both these men it was the demagogue and the purveyor of half truths and unsound theories. In the course of our economic progress we have become a great organized industrial democracy. It has been the theory of the Republican party that the welfare of the people could best be promoted by strengthening and enlarging that system.

"We have sought to create a condition under which the ordinary man would have the best possible opportunity to find a market for whatever he had to sell, whether of production or labor. We have tens of millions of wage earners in this country. The Republican party has never believed that they could be furnished suitable permanent employment unless some one could derive a reasonable profit from employing them.

"We have advocated strengthening the position of the employer in order that he might pay better wages to his employes, enlarge the consumptive capacity of the people, and increase the market for the farm and factory. We have sought to increase the returns of agriculture in order that it might better supply our people with food and enlarge the market for our industrial output.

"All this is a question of method, of the adoption of a means to an end. Always the end has been to improve the well-being of the ordinary run of people. If any candid examination is made of the progress we have accomplished under this system in the last two generations, I do not think any one can seriously contend that it has not been a success. The scale of wages has constantly increased, the standard of living has constantly risen. We have had temporary reactions when prices have fallen and readjustments have been necessary. We are passing through such a period at the present time, but we have always emerged to find ourselves able to acquire new strength. But the principle is the same in good times and in bad times. The Republican party believes in encouraging business in order that the benefits from such business may minister to the welfare of the ordinary run of people.

An Era of Falling Prices.

"All of our wage earners by giving the most casual thought cannot fail to recognize the soundness of these principles. It is inevitable when a concern can make a profit by operating that it will be in the market for labor and materials, but when it can only make a loss it will discharge labor. This is what happens inevitably during an era of falling prices such as we have had from the summer of 1929 to the late spring of 1932.

"Now, it is difficult to conceive of any important business which does not involve the question of credit. When credit begins to be impaired business becomes paralyzed, wages decline, and employment decreases; the bank refuses to make loans because it fears they will not be repaid; the depositors withdraw their money because they feel it is not safe; producers refuse to sell on time because they are afraid they cannot collect. If this process continued far enough universal bankruptcy would prevail.

"The people of property suffer great losses, but they are usually able to take care of themselves, while many wage earners, small home owners, and farmers are unable to pay their interest and taxes, or provide themselves and their families with food, clothing, and shelter. These are the people that every one recognizes need the help of the strong arm of the government.

A Dole and a Loan.

"The first thought for relief would probably be a dole and a loan, but a little consideration would show that increasing their debts and destroying their independence would scarcely be considered a real service to people in distress. Such a remedy merely treats the symptoms without removing the causes of the disease. The answer comes back according to the words of Holy Writ that they who drink of that well will thirst again.

"If the national government is to help the people to any permanent relief it must be through some system of giving them permanent employment so that they can meet their obligations, reduce their debts and pay their own living expenses.

"Given the problem then of restoring to normal well-being a great mass of people who find themselves unemployed, the fundamental remedy is not some form of pauperism, but a return to self-respecting, self-supporting and independent existence. Since the main causes of our difficulties lay in a failure of credit, the first object should be to restore credit. That is the policy which President Hoover has constantly advocated. He has no wish to assist a bank because it is a bank, a railroad, an insurance company, a building and loan association, an agricultural cooperative association, or any other corporation for their own sakes. He has been seeking to preserve and restore the independent economic condition of the great mass of the people.

"Their suffering was brought about to a large degree through the failure of the credit of these large and small concerns. If that credit can be renewed, if confidence can be restored, the people can go back to work and their suffering will cease.

Relieve Great Mass of People.

"It was mainly for this purpose of relieving a great mass of people who were unable to support themselves that President Hoover persuaded the bankers to create a revolving fund of $00 million dollars and secured from the congress the establishment of the Reconstruction Finance corporation with resources of more than three and one-half billion dollars which has already benefited indirectly more than 30,000,000 people. The whole policy has been based on the theory of reestablishing an opportunity for employment by strengthening the resources of the employer.

"A banker can now lend money to a manufacturer to carry on his production. If the depositor wants his money the banker does not need to call good loans and foreclose sound mortgages. The same principle applies to the other concerns. The power of the resources of the United States goverment has been marshaled to support the credit of the key concerns of our economic structure, always for the purpose of serving the ordinary run of people.

"All this seems perfectly plain and obvious and so elementary that no one competent to hold national office could fail to comprehend.

Depends on Own Reputation.

"Working for the general run of people is exactly what we should expect from President Hoover because he knows them by being one of them and having served with them and for them all his life. He was not born to the enjoyment of generations of inherited wealth so that he could be educated by private tutors and sent through expensive schools and universities. He never was carried into political office by the way of family influence. He has always had to depend on his own name and reputation.

"Herbert Hoover was the son of a country blacksmith in Iowa. He was left an orphan at the age of ten, lived on a farm doing chores until he was fourteen, earned his own living as an office boy until he was seventeen and worked his way through college until he was twenty-one. He was then an engineer for twenty years, living every day among working people, everywhere beloved by them.

"During the war he organized and administered the greatest system of relief that was ever brought into existence. He forced the nations to preserve the right to live of ten millions of people in Belgium and northern France. After the armistice he saved 120 million people in central Europe from starvation. During the Mississippi flood he directed the rescue work which saved hundreds of thousands of lives and fed and clothed millions of people. For the past three winters he has mobilized the charity of the nation for the support of millions of distressed.

"Two years ago he organized the relief work which saved two million people in the drought stricken area. He has procured an appropriation of three hundred million dollars and eighty-five million bushels of wheat from the national government to take care of destitute people during the coming winter.

Calls Hoover a Leader.

"In the past three years he has secured an appropriation of over two billion dollars from congress to give employment to the common people on public works. Last spring he started a further program of $1,500,000,000 for employment through the reconstruction system.

"If initiating proposals and securing their adoption constitutes leadership, President Hoover is a leader. If saving the country from one impending disaster after another provides any basis for gratitude, President Hoover is entitled to gratitude. I present my opinion of him to my fellow countrymen for such consideration as they may believe it merits. The more this campaign has progressed the more I am convinced that the public welfare requires that he should be reelected.

"I cannot close without commending to the people of New York your candidate for the senate, Mr. Medalie, and the state ticket headed by Col. Donovan and Mr. Davison. They have records of service in civil and military life that have marked them for distinction. While they are in office your state will be certain to have an administration of pronounced economy and efficiency which ought to characterize the conduct of your public business."

GARNER DENIES LEADERS HAVE MUZZLED HIM

Calls on Gov. Roosevelt at Albany.

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—"I have not been muzzled," announced Speaker John N. [Postoffice Jack] Garner tonight upon his arrival for another conference with his "boss," Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The Democratic vice presidential nominee was asked in an interview with newspaper men tonight to give his reasons for his having failed thus far in the campaign to make any speeches. The suggestion offered from many Republican sources was that the national Democratic committee had strapped up the speaker's chin.

"I Dawanna Talk," He Replies.

When he denied having been muzzled, Mr. Garner was asked why he didn't get on the platform, and cagily, in his slow Texas drawl, he replied:

"I dawanna talk about that just now."

"Well, Mr. Speaker," said one persistent reporter, "in most national campaigns the candidate for Vice President has done most of the speaking."

"Yes," came the quick retort, "and most of 'em was defeated too."

This brought a laugh, but it seemed as though he had let the cat out of the bag, had revealed his own reason for not stumping.

"Are you keeping still because you are afraid you'll be defeated if you start talking?" was the next question.

May Make "One or Two" Speeches.

"Well, now, just a minute," the speaker drawled. "I've got my own ideas 'bout that. That's what I wa t to see the governor for. But so far as my being muzzled, these Washington boys here know me well enough to tell you that I just can't be muzzled."

Officers of the Democratic national committee who came up to Albany with Mr. Garner verified the speaker's statement that he wasn't muzzled. They said that, on the contrary, the committee and Gov. Roosevelt wanted Mr. Garner to make speeches, but that he just wouldn't. One spokesman who didn't want to be quoted said he felt certain the speaker would make at least "one or two" addresses before the campaign winds up.

Mrs. Ruth Pratt, wealthy New York Republican woman seeking reëlection to congress, asserted in a speech in New York that Charles Hand, a former newspaper man who has been associated in the past with Al Smith and Jimmy Walker, had been assigned by the Democratic national committee to keep his hand fastened securely over Speaker Garner's mouth. Mr. Hand is the speaker's constant companion, and came with him to Albany tonight, but Hand passed off the jibe.

Speaker Garner has bought a new suit since his last visit to Gov. Roosevelt. He was clad in a rather Fifth-avenue-ish brown suit, quite a contrast from the somber and ill-fitting blue serge he wore the last time. He planned to spend the night at the governor's mansion.

Ignores German Mark Story.

The attention of Gov. Roosevelt was brought to reports which have been widely circulated through the country concerning his connection with the United European Investors, Ltd., a Canadian corporation organized in 1922, of which Mr. Roosevelt was president.

The governor paid no attention to the reports, but a spokesman for him said today that the Republican party organization has circulated thousands of hand bills containing a reprint of an editorial published by the San Francisco Chronicle, in which, according to the spokesman, "an entirely false inference is taken."

The editorial reprinted an advertisement, published by a foreign exchange agency, offering shares in the United European Investors, Ltd., and then commented in part as follows:

"Was the American public ever worse gyped than it was with these German securities of 1922 in the 'large earnings and dividends' of which United European Investors, Ltd., Franklin D. Roosevelt, president, invited the American public to participate just before the crash came?"

"As a matter of fact," said the governor's spokesman today, "the owner of every share of stock in the company was paid $7 for every $2 invested. The company was organized to buy up German marks when they were selling for almost nothing and the marks were used to buy physical properties in Germany.

"After the mark was stabilized the properties bought by the company were sold and the corporation was then dissolved, the proceeds being sufficient to give American investors a profit of 250 per cent. No investor lost a penny."

The spokesman added that a New York City financial credit house had investigated the whole matter and had found the facts to be as he had stated them.

Actress Sued for Back Rent

PAULETTE GODDARD.

Friend of Chaplin

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Paulette Goddard, Charlie Chaplin's much mentioned new girl friend, today was sued for $1,072 asserted due as back rent on the New York apartment house which she quit last January to come west, crash the movies, and go places with Charlie Chaplin. The suit alleges that she agreed to pay $4,200 yearly rent for a suite in Lowell apartments, 28 East Sixty-third street, New York. Miss Goddard filed an answer to the New York charges denying knowledge of the asserted contract for one year's lease, and also setting forth the defense that she was and still is a minor. She was a show girl in New York.

"BEER IN MARCH"—GARNER

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Real beer is coming next March, that's the way it looks to the Democratic candidate for Vice President, Speaker John N. Garner. He ought to know how things stand in the house of representatives. It's his "guess" that the short session of the present congress will do something about beer and that the next congress will be a whole lot wetter and may even move to knock out the eighteenth amendment.

The speaker stopped off at the Roosevelt headquarters in the Hotel Biltmore today on his way from Washington to Albany to spend the night with Gov. Roosevelt. They have to map out a speaking tour for him.

Expects December Action.

"Well, it's just a guess, but I guess we're likely to have some legislation on that subject this December," the speaker replied when he was asked about the prospects for Volstead law modification.

"The legislation will have to originate in the house, you know—it's an appropriation measure.

"My guess is that this present congress will modify the Volstead act to allow the manufacture and sale of real beer."

"Then you agree with Senator Reed of Pennsylvania, do you?" a reporter asked. "You know he said we will have real beer by March."

"Sure; it will have to be by March. The short session ends by law on March 4."

TEACHERS PLAN UNITED ACTION TO GET SALARIES

In another effort to obtain unity of action among Chicago's 14,000 unpaid school teachers, 173 teacher delegates from south side schools met last night in the Hyde Park High school and arranged a meeting of delegates from all the schools in the city on Oct. 21. A committee of 15 was chosen to recommend a program. "Our house is on fire," said Harry Collins of Tilden High school, "and we must do something." Aaron Sapiro, attorney for the all-city publicity committee of the Chicago teachers, recommended cooperation with teachers in other cities in getting a federal loan to teachers.

BRING PRESSURE UPON HOOVER FOR CAMPAIGN TALKS

But President Is Undecided on His Schedule.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—President Hoover was still undecided today regarding his speaking plans for the final weeks of the campaign, although White House officials said that he would make at least three more major speeches before Nov. 8. Pressure continued to reach the President from middle western and far western political leaders to speak in their states before election day, but these requests were laid aside for the time being.

All that officials will say definitely is that President Hoover will make one speech in the east before the nation goes to the polls. The President is not expected to decide definitely about a far western trip until after the Cleveland speech Saturday. On the way to Cleveland Mr. Hoover will speak briefly at Cumberland, Md.; Youngstown, O., and Akron, O., as well as at a number of other points.

Rounds Out Speeches.

Today the President worked on the speeches he will deliver tomorrow and Saturday and greeted callers, posing for pictures, and conducted routine business. At noon he was photographed surrounded by the 200 members of the Pulaski national memorial committee and a group of Polish children. A few moments later he posed for the cameraman with Louis Johnson, the newly elected national commander of the American Legion.

While the Legion commander declined to say whether he had discussed the bonus issue with the President, he did give out a short statement later in which he said that steps would be taken to push the Legion resolutions demanding immediate payment of the adjusted compensation certificates and repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Legion to Press Bonus.

"The mandates of the national convention held in Portland, Ore., recently on both the immediate payment of adjusted compensation and the prohibition question are written in plain words," Johnson said. "When the proper and effective time comes those mandates will be carried out and every Legion official, member, and organization will be requested and expected to support the will of the majority as expressed at that convention. Neither is it a political question so far as the Legion is concerned, and they will not be allowed to draw the Legion into politics at this time."

SWANSON BACKER MAKES REPLY TO CITIZENS' GROUP

State's Attorney Swanson's campaign managers called upon the Citizens' association yesterday to be specific in its charges against Mr. Swanson. On Monday the association issued a statement holding that the prosecutor was not entitled to reëlection on his record. The reply was made by Jules F. Cornelius, a Swanson supporter. He said:

"The Citizens' association wearing the mantle of righteousness, has issued a statement charging Mr. Swanson with not fulfilling his duty to the people of Chicago. Not one specific charge has been offered to Swanson's discredit.

"The truth is that Mr. Swanson has been no respecter of persons and he has not failed to disclose those in high places who have violated their public duty or their trust. Mr. Swanson prosecuted the Bains and the elder Bain is now under sentence to the penitentiary. He has pursued the Insulls and he has exposed those who aided Samuel Insull in his flight across Europe.

"Samuel Insull in Athens stated that he would be willing to return to this country after the November election. Why does Mr. Insull fear to return now? What influences are behind the actions of these men in Chicago who want to delay Insull's return? The truth is that many in high places want to be protected and want the Insull prosecution dropped."

Krenn & Dato to Retire from Real Estate Trust

Arrangements have been completed whereby the Edith Rockefeller McCormick trust will be reorganized without Edwin D. Krenn and Edward A. Dato acting as trustees were discussed yesterday by a person close to the estate who at the same time said the reports of the transaction were "premature."

A number of meetings have been held to determine how the trust may be best administered without involving the estate in a court fight.

Under Mrs. McCormick's will, Krenn, her friend and business adviser, was given five-twelfths of the estate. It was subsequently revealed that he had signed over this share to Dato for a guaranteed annuity of $24,000. The remainder of the estate was bequeathed to Mrs. McCormick's children, Fowler McCormick, Mrs. Elisha Dyer Hubbard and Mrs. Max Oser.

Agreement Is Sought.

Krenn and Dato were left as trustees of the Edith Rockefeller McCormick trust after Mrs. McCormick's death. These provisions of the will were known to be regarded with disfavor by the children of Mrs. McCormick and efforts are being made to effect an agreement which will be satisfactory to all concerned.

The conferences now have reached a status where it is proposed that Krenn and Dato will retire as trustees of the McCormick trust, this position to be filled by the Chicago Title and Trust company, which is executor of the estate. The five-twelfths share given to Krenn and signed over by him to Dato will be returned to the estate.

In exchange for these concessions, Krenn will be guaranteed his $24,000 annuity by the purchase of an annuity insurance or the creation of a trust with a $24,000 income, it is proposed. Dato will be made agent for the trust in the sale of properties and the collection of money, receiving 25 per cent commission on the sales and 5 per cent on collections.

Large Income for Dato.

Inasmuch as there are large properties in the trust to be sold and collections to be made, Dato will have a sizable income in exchange for his share in the estate, it was pointed out. Moreover, it is very probable that his status as a trustee and the holder of Krenn's five-twelfths share would be attacked in court if he refused to accede to this arrangement, lawyers said.

The above arrangement, however is by no means near completion, one of the parties, who refused to be quoted, declared. All concerned in the estate have agreed that some such arrangement must be worked out, but there are many details to be debated before the necessary signatures will be affixed to an agreement.

"So far as Mr. Dato knows, matters are still in the same position as they were several months ago when it was announced that he and Mr. Krenn would remain as trustees and would cooperate to the fullest extent with the executor," said Paul D. Angell, general manager of Krenn & Dato, who has acted as Dato's spokesman since shortly after the terms of his deal with Krenn were revealed.

Officials of the Chicago Title and Trust company and attorneys for all the principals concerned also refused to discuss the negotiations.

3 M'CORMICKS WIN APPEAL IN TAX CASE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Income tax deficiencies of $49,619, charged against Cyrus H. McCormick, Harold F. McCormick and Stanley McCormick of Chicago, were ruled in error today by the United States board of tax appeals. The board held the Chicago Stock exchange building trustees namely, the McCormick brothers, did not constitute an association taxable as a corporation, and that the alleged deficiencies for 1924, 1925 and 1926 were not valid.

Reviewing the case, the board stated that the McCormicks executed a trust deed in 1900 conveying the building at 30 North La Salle street, Chicago, to themselves as trustees. Net income not needed for the upkeep of the buildings was distributed among the three trustees.

According to the decision the alleged deficiencies grew out of the McCormicks' failure to pay taxes on the income to the trustees, although each had paid taxes on the income received by him individually from the building. The question at issue was whether the trustees constituted an association taxable as a corporation.

The board found that the property was managed by Judson F. Stone, who "dealt with the properties as fully as though individually owned by him."

"We see no resemblance to corporate operation," the board said, concluding its opinion. "The trust was merely a shadow without substance and vitality."

LAWYERS LAY CRIME INCREASE TO PROHIBITION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Prohibition's part in the increase of mercenary crime in this country and the government's part in burdening the country with taxes were the prime topics of discussion today as members of the American Bar association prepared for tomorrow's opening of their 55th annual meeting.

The high spots of the convention will come tomorrow night when President Hoover addresses a session presided over by Chief Justice Charles E. Hughes, and Thursday morning when the members will see the laying of the cornerstone of the new Supreme Court building.

One thousand eight hundred judges and lawyers, including some of the most distinguished leaders of the bar, are expected to attend the opening session tomorrow morning. The marquess of Reading, former British lord chief justice, viceroy of India and special ambassador to the United States; Paul Reynaud, French statesman, and Newton W. Rowell of the Canadian Bar association are in attendance.

An Heir to Prohibition.

It was at a preliminary meeting today of the section on criminal law and criminology that a report by the "committee on mercenary crime" was brought forward.

"We believe," it was asserted, "that organized crime by gangsters is in a large measure based upon the law of supply and demand. We as a nation have failed in our attempt by legislation to make the physical man and the moral man identical. Human nature cannot be and has not been changed by the fiat of legislation."

Prostitution, gambling, and the consumption of intoxicants, the report pointed out, have always flourished—and always to the accompaniment of some degree of public tolerance. The greatest degree of tolerance, as became apparent with the adoption of prohibition, was granted the use of intoxicants.

Gangsters have always existed, but it took prohibition to bring about a condition of times and customs and laws, the report declared, which made it easy for the gangs to grow in numbers and strength at little personal risk.

"It has also," said the report, "brought about a demand for the services of outlaws such as we have never had in this or any other country prior to prohibition."

Heyday of Gangsters.

With the organization and revenue acquired through supplying the public demand for liquor and under the protection of public disregard for prohibition violations, the gang then branched out and encompassed other more vicious and violent forms of crime, the report noted. Bribery and political alliances have followed.

"The gangster flourished," said the report, "because of the conditions, laws and customs which make his business profitable, and because of a large popular demand for the products of his illegal business. He will doubtless continue to flourish as long as crime continues to pay such large dividends and there is such a remarkable demand for his wares."

At a meeting of the association's committee on commerce, the members adopted a report pointing out that government will eventually destroy itself if it continues to grow, force citizens into government service, invade the field of private business and pile new burdens on the taxpayer.

Spreading Federal Claws.

"It is significant," said the report, "that while the budget for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1932, was $4,482,183,400 only $422,355,850 was required to cover the purely governmental activities comprising the judicial, executive and legislative branches.

"To invade the realm of commerce, where the inhabitants carry on their business of agriculture, manufacturing, transportation, banking, and the numerous and complex activities which make up commerce as a whole not only destroys individual initiative and ambition and forces citizens into the government service, but seriously affects and in the course of time will destroy the ability of the individual to support the government by taxation."

"The issue in the main," the report went on, "must be tried before the bar of public opinion and the congress and the executive department must be made to realize that the constitution is binding upon them and that they are subject to its limitations and restrictions, even though their acts may not be subject to review by the courts."

FISCAL YEAR SHOWS INCREASE IN DRY LAW CASES IN THE COURTS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Prohibition cases brought into the courts for prosecution by federal dry agents or with their assistance rose from a total of 78,580 in 1931 to 90,217 in the fiscal year 1932.

This was revealed today in the report in which the department of justice described the prohibition bureau's activities during its second year since being transferred from the treasury department.

During the fiscal year ended last June 30, the report states, 73,883 prohibition cases were brought into the federal courts, and dry agents aided in 16,334 cases brought into state courts. The ratio of convictions to terminations was 87.4 per cent in the federal cases and 86.5 per cent in the state cases.

The cost of the bureau for the year was $11,369,500, less some $350,000 which was not expended and will be returned to the treasury.

The activities of the investigators resulted in the institution of 66,108 cases through informations and indictments: 70,252 cases were terminated and 61,383 resulted in convictions, 44,678 persons received jail or penitentiary sentences, and 42,085 fines, amounting to a total of $6,469,746, were imposed. The average fine was $154, and the average jail or penitentiary sentence was 178 days.

WISCONSIN VOTE DOUBTFUL; MAY ELECT KOHLER

Democrats, G. O. P. Both Court La Folletteites.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The depression, the prevalent disposition to vote "agin the ins," and the impending knifing of the ticket by the La Follettes, are factors that combine to make Wisconsin a doubtful state in this presidential election.

Although shot through with insurgency and radicalism for more than a generation, Wisconsin has faltered only twice in its allegiance to the G. O. P., except in 1912, when the party was split. The first time was in 1892, when Cleveland carried the state by 7,000 votes; the second in 1924, when the elder La Follette, as the Progressive candidate for President, got his entire electoral vote of 13 from his home state, with a 74,000 majority over Coolidge and Davis combined.

In addition to the depression handicaps of the party in power at Washington the La Follettes command an army of radicals that alone would be sufficient in number to swing the state to Roosevelt if a substantial majority of them should obey the dictates of Young Bob and Gov. Phil.

Repudiated by G. O. P. Voters.

The La Follettes were signally repudiated by the Republican party in the primary last month, when Gov. Phil was defeated for renomination by Walter J. Kohler by a 90,000 plurality. Senator John J. Blaine, a La Follette leader, also was beaten for renomination by John B. Chapple, and all other La Follette candidates for executive office, except one, rejected.

Gov. Phil La Follette polled 320,000 votes in the primary, presumably the maximum number that can be swung to Roosevelt. The Hoover managers calculate that not more than 150,000 La Folletteites will knife the ticket and that this number will be insufficient to affect the result, which they are confident will be Wisconsin in the Hoover column, if by a plurality of only a few thousand votes.

This calculation is founded on the consideration that young Senator Robert M. La Follette, because he will be a candidate for renomination two years hence, cannot afford to take the stump for Roosevelt or otherwise openly declare for the Democratic candidate. Four years ago Mr. Hoover carried Wisconsin by a 94,000 plurality. A change of 50,300 votes would have given the state to Smith.

Unsafe Basis for Figuring.

In the light of these figures the Democratic managers calculate that, with the defection of only the 150,000 La Folletteites conceded by the Hoover managers and other factors, the state is as good as in the bag for Roosevelt. The 1928 election, however, is a somewhat unsafe basis for such calculations.

In the first place the La Follettes were as much against Hoover then as now and Smith, who was openly supported by Blaine, undoubtedly received the votes of an enormous number of the La Follette following and yet lost the state. In the second place Hoover received the votes of an enormous number of anti-Catholics from which he will not benefit this time.

The La Follettes have not up to date formally indorsed Roosevelt, although their propaganda mills continue to grind out matter praising the New York governor and assailing the President and his administration. They calculate that they command an irreducible minimum of 300,000 votes, which constitute a balance of power between the Stalwart Republicans and the Democrats, and are attributing the character of the party platforms written after the primary to Republican and Democratic competition for La Follette support.

Call Platforms Liberal.

The Progressive, the La Follette organ, said last week that "the two major party platforms were the most liberal the Stalwarts ever have approved, with 300,000 Progressive votes representing the margin of victory for either Stalwart Republicans or Democrats in the election."

At a Progressive rally last week Young Bob and Gov. Phil announced they would campaign for the election of Progressive candidates to the state legislature, which was as much as to say that they would not work for the election of Hoover or of Chapple, Kohler, and other regular Republican nominees. In fact, Gov. Phil asserted in his address that Progressives owe no party loyalty to Chapple and Kohler, "for men who could resort to political immorality and violation of the plain spirit of the constitution are removed from the realm requiring any partisan loyalty from anybody."

That the La Follettes actively will promote the candidacy of F. Ryan Duffy, Democratic nominee for senator, was indicated by a first page picture of the candidate in the Progressive, accompanied by an interview in which Mr. Duffy said: "There is no essential difference between the program advocated by the Progressives in Wisconsin and the program advocated by Gov. Roosevelt and I want to assure Progressives in this state that if elected to the U. S. senate I will not be found arrayed on the side of the power trust. I cannot make that too strong."

Schmedeman Not Yet Approved.

This was paraded as another evidence of the working of the La Follette balance of power. Albert G. Schmedeman, Democratic candidate for governor, not having come across with the requisite declarations up to date, received no such favorable notice in the La Follette organ.

Republican managers betray a lack of confidence that Mr. Chapple will win the senatorship, and Democratic managers concede privately the probability of the election of Mr. Kohler to the governorship. This is partly because of the fact that Mr. Hoover is more of a liability than an asset to Republican candidates this year.

Mr. Chapple is a last ditch Hoover man. He defended and lauded the President in every speech he made in his primary canvass, and is continuing to do so. Mr. Kohler, on the other hand, fought shy of the association of his candidacy with Mr. Hoover's. After the primary the Kohler and Hoover campaigns were separated by committing the Kohler canvass to the Republican state committee and organizing a separate headquarters for the Hoover and Curtis canvass. The Republican managers deny this was done to dissociate Kohler from Hoover, asserting that this is the usual procedure in Wisconsin, that the entire Kohler primary organization was taken over by the Hoover headquarters, and that Mr. Kohler will indorse Mr. Hoover "in due time."

Kohler Did Not Greet Hurley.

When Secretary of War Patrick Jay Hurley officially opened the Republican campaign in the state last Saturday at Ripon, one of the birthplaces of the G. O. P., it was noted that Mr. Chapple was the only Republican candidate present. Mr. Kohler was detained "by a previously contracted engagement at Racine," his managers explain. George L. Gilkey, chairman of the state committee, also was detained by a previously contracted engagement. He was hunting in the north woods.

Not the least significant indication of the standing of the Hoover administration in the state is the multitude of objections from Republican candidates to the inclusion of their advertising and other publicity in that issued in behalf of Mr. Hoover.

What impresses the observer particularly is that the trend of sentiment is not so much pro-Roosevelt as anti-Hoover. Many Democratic leaders admit that Roosevelt's Milwaukee speech was a disappointment and did the candidate no good. His bid for La Follette support is described as a fawning that disgusted many who had been prepared to support him.

Recall War Hatred.

The Republican managers are making much of Roosevelt's invocation of the name and fame of Woodrow Wilson and of son in law William G. McAdoo's influential part in the nomination of the New York governor, all for the purpose, according to the Democrats, of reviving war hatreds of Wilson and his party among Wisconsin Germans.

Milwaukee is one city in which W. R. Hearst is maintaining a strictly impartial attitude, supporting Roosevelt in his Evening Wisconsin and supporting Hoover in his morning Sentinel.

FIND FARMER RATIO TO OTHER WORKERS IS STILL DECLINING

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Of the major classifications of people who are gainfully employed, the agricultural group is the only one that has shown a constant downward trend since 1870 in the ratio of employed persons to population, according to statistics made public today by the national industrial conference board. In 1870, these statistics showed, there were more than 180 persons out of every 1,000 in the United States engaged in farming, lumbering, and fishing, but in 1930 the number had dropped to 87 out of every 1,000. On the other hand, the trade and transportation group showed the largest increase in relative importance, the group comprising 35 out of every 1,000 in 1870 and 114 in 1930.

lieve, they said, that they had lost their right to vote and sought some means of adding their names to the poll lists.

Chief Clerk John S. Rusch told them that their last chance expired at 9 o'clock and at that hour scores of polling places were said to be "cheating" to some extent by adding to their books the names of many who had arrived before the closing hour but could not be accommodated during the last minute crowding.

No Country Town Figures.

Figures for the country towns of Cook county which now also are under the compulsory registration law will not be available for two or three days, but reports from these suburbs indicated that the enrollment there also was heavy, possibly approaching a total of 300,000 which would give Cook county a grand total of about 1,800,000 voters ready for the polls on Nov. 8.

Election Judge Beaten.

Albert H. Cadoret, Democratic judge of election in the 29th precinct of the 22d ward, was severely beaten last night in the place of registration at 1759 Ogden avenue. He was assaulted, it was alleged, by Edward Dean, a Republican precinct captain, when he questioned the qualifications of a man who wished to register after giving a garage as his place of residence.

Dean was arrested. Cadoret, who lives at 1705 Jackson boulevard, made a personal report of the affair to County Judge Jarecki, who issued warrants charging Dean with breach of the peace and intimidating an election officer. Bonds were fixed at $6,000 and a hearing on the case will be held before Judge Jarecki tomorrow morning.

"I voted for Hoover last election," Jackson said, "and he sent me a letter of thanks."

Mr. Jackson lives with his sister, Miss Grace E. Jackson, a teacher at Hyde Park High school, at 5344 Greenwood avenue. He was retired 30 years ago as an engineer on the Pennsylvania railroad, and will be 101 years old on March 8.

ASSEMBLY POLL SHOWS GROWING WET SENTIMENT

Many Nominees Dodge Specific Answers.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Indications that both senate and house will be for repeal of the state search and seizure act at Springfield next winter are given by responses to a questionnaire sent to legislative candidates by the Crusaders, militant anti-prohibitionists. At the same time, the survey shows a great amount of straddling and dodging.

Out of 226 nominees for senate and house, 101 have failed to take a definite stand. In other words, about 45 per cent of the candidates have either straddled or have neglected to respond to the questionnaire.

The responses show 50 per cent of the candidates avowedly wet. Many who voted for repeal in 1931 have not answered the questionnaire this time, apparently for the reason that they are without opposition in their districts and are as good as elected. In 28 of the 51 districts there are no fights, only three candidates in each of these districts being nominated for the three seats in the district. In 23 districts there are contests, four running for the three places in each district.

The Three Questions.

The questionnaire of the Crusaders sounded the legislative candidates on three wet proposals, asking whether they favored:

1. Repeal of the 18th amendment.
2. Immediate modification of the Volstead act.
3. Repeal of the state search and seizure act.

Candidates who answered "yes" to all three are put down by the Crusaders as wet. Those who answered "no" to the third question, even if they straddled on the other two, were put down as dry. Those not answering or evading explicit answer were set down as noncommittal.

Repeal of the state search and seizure act is the main phase of the questionnaire, as on this the legislature can vote directly at the next session. In 1931 the assembly passed a repealer bill, but it was vetoed by Gov. Emmerson. The questionnaire included repeal of the 18th amendment and revision of Volsteadism to get the sentiment of the candidates on any proposal which congress might submit to the states.

Reeves Demands Signatures.

"Lip service is out," said Col. Ira L. Reeves, director of the Crusaders, in making the report public last night. "A man can promise the wets one thing, but if he lacks courage to put it over his signature how do we know that, prompted by what he may term 'political expediency,' he hasn't also assured the drys of his support?

"Out of 226 candidates for the senate and assembly, 101 have failed to take a definite stand."

The compilation indicates the straddle rate runs more than twice as high among the Republicans as the Democrats. Of 117 Republican candidates, 70 straddled or failed to commit themselves, 37 were wet, 10 dry. Out of 109 Democratic candidates, 33 were straddlers or noncommittal, 75 were wet, one was dry.

The Crusaders' tabulation of the responses gives the following figures on the candidates for senate and house:

	Wet.	Dry.	Noncommittal.

HORNER ASSAILS SMALL'S RECORD OF TAX BOOSTS

Speaks Before Group of Independent Backers.

Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate for governor, was given a reception in the La Salle hotel yesterday by the Independent Horner for governor committee, a group of citizens who are throwing aside party lines to further the judge's candidacy.

Judge Horner gave some facts on the increase of governmental expenses in Illinois. One of the principal pledges of his platform is to cut these expenditures to the bone.

"Waste and extravagance brought these high taxes upon you," he said, "and the first thing I intend to do as governor of the state is to reduce them to the minimum compatible with essential public service. That means essentials only—we are tired of useless bureaus and commissions which spend public moneys with abandon and bring no results."

Attacks Small's Alliances.

Citing the record of increased taxes under the administration of his opponent, Len Small, Judge Horner disclaimed blind partisanship, declaring that "it was not because he was a Republican that my opponent increased governmental expenditures and boosted taxes. It was because he was allied with the gang which had mulcted the city of Chicago and is responsible for the present financial embarrassment of the city."

"The demands of this gang," he continued, "were such that an increase in expenditure was necessary if its members were to be satisfied. So in 1921 [the first year of Small's term] they went up to $47,419,000, and in 1922 they went up to $54,351,000, and in 1923 to $67,950,000, and in 1924, when he was seeking election and the expenses would not be known until the day after election, they amounted to $123,240,000.

"I believe that you have enough faith in me to feel that I will keep my promise to reduce these outrageous expenditures. The ensuing reduction in taxes should bring new encouragement to all the people of the state."

Officers of Committee.

Several hundred people took the opportunity to meet and talk with the judge at the reception. The co-chairmen of the Independent committee are O. C. Doering and Ednyfed H. Williams; the secretary is Paul Steinbrecher, and the treasurer, James B. Forgan Jr. Conrad H. Poppenhausen is chairman of the finance board.

Among the members of the committee, many of them Republicans, are Jane Addams, Dr. Arthur D. Black, Mrs. Waller Borden, Dr. Horace J. Bridges, Peter B. Carey, Philip R. Clarke, Edward A. Cudahy, Dr. N. S. Davis III., Stanley Field, E. N. Hurley, Mary McDowell, John S. Miller, Agnes Nestor, Jacob Pister, Joseph P. Rend, T. A. Sigueland, John Timothy Stone, Graham Taylor, Harriet Vittum, John R. Winterbotham, Mrs. Frederic C. Woodward, and Carroll H. Wooddy.

TEACHERS WILL ASK CANDIDATES' STAND ON SCHOOL PROBLEMS

To afford them an opportunity to state their positions on education and school finances, the major parties' candidates for governor and state's attorney are to be invited to address a massmeeting of Chicago teachers. This was announced last night by Chairman Charles B. Stillman of the joint conference of teachers following a committee meeting at the Principals' club, 185 North Wabash avenue.

Invitations are to be sent out today to Judge Horner and Len Small, candidates for governor, and State's Attorney Swanson and State Senator Thomas J. Courtney, candidates for state's attorney, asking them to attend the meeting. It is planned to hold the gathering in a loop theater the last week in October, Mr. Stillman said.

"To vote intelligently, it is important that we should know how the candidates for governor regard public education and the revenue system as it affords support for that education," said Mr. Stillman. "Choice of a state's attorney is important, because on him ultimately devolves responsibility for collection of taxes."

Meets Teachers Today.

At 1 p. m. today Judge Horner will confer with a delegation of Chicago school teachers in his headquarters in the Hotel Sherman. It is believed he will discuss rumors which his enemies have circulated to the effect that he is not friendly toward the teachers and intends to reduce their salaries if he is elected.

At 8 p. m. Judge Horner will broadcast an address for the benefit of all Chicago teachers from radio station WBBM. It is anticipated that he will discuss all their problems and outline his position on teachers' legislation. The judge was made a member of the Roosevelt Automobile club at ceremonies at the Standard club last night.

State Representative Michael L. Igoe and Bruce A. Campbell, who were defeated for the Democratic nomination by Judge Horner, will take the stump for him in downstate speaking tours next week, it was announced last night by Scott W. Lucas, chairman of the speakers' bureau of the Democratic state committee.

Courtney Addresses Bar.

State Senator Thomas J. Courtney, Democratic candidate for state's attorney, addressed the Chicago Bar association at noon yesterday, outlining his plan for the conduct of the prosecutor's office if he is elected and pledging that "thirty seconds after I assume that office I will completely sever from that powerful office any connection that gangdom has or ever had with the state's attorney's office.

"It is a sad commentary," said Senator Courtney, "that the city's leading criminal character of the last ten years (Al Capone) was placed in the penitentiary for evading the income tax law when, as a matter of fact, he committed enough crimes in this county to be sent to our own state penitentiary long before he was sent to the federal penitentiary."

DICKINSON HITS BACK AT REED'S SPEECH IN IOWA

A counter attack was launched last night by Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa, keynoter at the Republican national convention, upon the speech in which ex-Senator James A. Reed of Missouri at Des Moines Monday night assailed the Hoover administration, in his reply to the Hoover Des Moines address.

Charging that "mouthpieces of Democratic propaganda "have flagrantly misstated" the facts as to the battle of Hover to retain the gold standard when 40 European nations had America backed up against the ropes a year and a half ago, Senator Dickinson, without mentioning Reed by name, tore into the Missourian's declaration that "we were never within $2,700,000,000 of the lawful suspension of gold payments."

Cites Facts to Uphold Hoover.

President Hoover in his Des Moines utterance, in giving the inside story declared he was told at one time by the secretary of the treasury that unless some remedy were found, the United States could not stick to the gold standard more than two weeks longer.

"The truth of the matter is," said Senator Dickinson in his statement which was made public by the national Republican headquarters, "our so-called 'free gold' was down to a dangerously low total, below $400,000,000, last February. By 'free gold' is meant the gold held by the federal reserve system over all legal requirements, including the 40 per cent or more reserve against federal reserve notes, 35 per cent against deposits in the reserve banks and a 5 per cent gold redemption fund against the part of notes not covered by gold.

"This 'free gold' total was a drop from about $700,000,000 in the previous August, from $1,000,000,000 in the early part of 1930 and from nearly $1,200,000,000 in 1928 and 1929. A steady outward flow of gold, largely to France, was in progress during January and February.

Outward Flow Increases.

"During the previous fall immediately after Great Britain suspended gold payments and there were worldwide rumors that we might be forced to take similar action we lost $750,000,000 of gold to foreign nations within the brief period of six weeks.

"After this loss there was a lull for a few weeks, followed by another outward flow of gold in January and February. The gold was being drained so rapidly that, as President Hoover now discloses, we could not have stood it long without reaching the point where the federal reserve banks could not have continued to meet the foreign demands and at the same time maintain our legal gold reserve requirements which are essential to the soundness of our currency system.

"In this situation the administration called in leaders in congress. Two Democrats who were in a position to handle legislation of this character most expeditiously were invited to introduce the bill which is now known as the Glass-Steagall act. These Democrats realized the gravity of conditions and cooperated with the administration in securing the enactment of the legislation.

Currency Is Fortified.

"Under the provisions of the Glass-Steagall act our gold supplies have been fortified so that there is no longer any doubt as to our ability to meet foreign demands. It has been possible under its terms for the federal reserve banks to substitute government bonds for eligible paper or gold as cover for the portion of federal reserve notes in excess of the 40 per cent which must be backed by gold.

"Under the federal reserve act federal reserve notes must be secured by at least 40 per cent gold and the remainder by eligible commercial paper. Last winter there was such a shortage of eligible paper that it was necessary to cover federal reserve notes with gold to the extent of about 2 billion dollars, or almost double the 40 per cent minimum gold reserve requirement. The immediate effect of the Glass-Steagall act was to add more than 750 million dollars to the potential 'free gold,' as well as to insure an elasticity sufficient to deal with future emergencies."

BURNS 720,000 PEARLS TO BOOST PRICES 30 PCT.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, Oct. 11.—Kokichi Mikimoto, pearl culture king, shoveled 720,000 pearls into a furnace today in the presence of twenty pearl dealers at the Kobe chamber of commerce. The sight, which might have caused the tears to flow down the cheeks of many women, elicited smiles from the onlookers.

While many would have questioned the sanity of Mikimoto, other wealthy pearl culturists and dealers realized the man knew exactly what he was about. As soon as the remarkable bonfire had burned out the price of pearls rose 30 per cent.

Members of the Pearl Culturists' association witnessing the ceremony declared that they hoped for a profit of more then $1,000,000 through the rise in price. They declared that the destruction of the 720,000 gems would affect the business in America in that instead of a drop in price the present value of pearls will be maintained.

GOVERNMENT ON BUSINESS INQUIRY HERE ON NOV. 14

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Hearings in Chicago Nov. 14, 15, and 16, Representative Joseph B. Shannon (Dem., Mo.) announced today will be held by the special house committee to investigate the intrusion of government competition into the field of private business.

Spokesmen for many trade organizations are expected to appear at the sessions. And the United States Chamber of Commerce, which has been actively supporting the work of the committee, is expected to present a resume of the findings of its own committee to investigate government competition.

Since its creation the committee has held hearings in Washington, Kansas City, St. Louis, Lawton, Okla.; Memphis, New Orleans, New York City, and South Bend, Ind. According to Chairman Shannon the government to date has been found to be in direct competition with more than 90 lines of private enterprise.

GUBERNATORIAL CANDIDATES FOR SUPERHIGHWAY

Answer Motor Club Query on Elevated Road Plan.

BY HAL FOUST.

The Chicago Motor club announced yesterday that it has obtained the indorsement of the west side elevated highway project from both major candidates for governor.

"The elevated highway will receive n. full support after taking office on Jan. 1," Judge Henry Horner, Democratic nominee, was quoted as saying. "There are questions of finance and engineering to be solved, but there are no insurmountable problems involved.

"All authorities recognize the need of thoroughfares with continuous grade separation to accommodate urban traffic with a minimum of hazard and a minimum of delay. The west side needs suoh facilities to match the outer drives enjoyed by the north and the south sides.

"The benefits from the improvement will extend far from the city. Only a small portion if any of the cost should be assessed against abutting or adjacent property.

"With the thorough study already made by competent experts, there should be little trouble in settling the questions of finance and engineering details. My administration, after seeing the construction started, would want all of these problems settled so that the improvement could be finished rapidly for maximum utility from the investment."

Small Favors Highway.

Len Small, the Republican nominee, expressed a similar view. The late Dr. John Dill Robertson, who tried while president of the west park board to finance the elevated highway with a local bond issue, was the former governor's appointee.

"The day has passed," Mr. Small was quoted as saying, "when abutting property can be asked to pay for through traffic arteries. This is a state wide improvement, and the state will have to have it.

"Without adequate municipal connections, the public is not receiving full benefit from its magnificent system of rural roads. The west side elevated highway would open Chicago to the surrounding country for 300 to 500 miles, to the mutual benefit of the metropolis and of the neighboring country.

"It's a wonderful plan. There is nothing like it. There is no other opportunity to do so much to improve motor transportation. And our very civilization — our future, industrially and culturally—depends upon improved transportation."

Backed by Several Groups.

The candidates were questioned by the Chicago Motor club as one of several leading Chicago civic organizations that have been advocating the construction of the elevated superhighway. Civic groups in cities west of Chicago, including the Fox Valley federation, also have urged the improvement.

Gov. Emmerson recently was questioned by the motor club and he responded that the construction was a duty facing his successor. He said he always had been friendly to the proposal but that his administration adhered to a policy that the state bond issue system must be completed before any new assignment is undertaken by the highway department.

Mistake in Sign Attracts Crowds

Sign which was painted on Michigan avenue in front of Wrigley building yesterday by Lincoln park employes. It will be noted that left is spelled "lfet." When curious passersby kept joking about the error it was corrected.
[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Cops Are Cautious

An artist with stencils and a bucket of paint arrived yesterday morning in the semi-circular bit of parking space on the east side of Michigan avenue between Tribune square and the link bridge, to paint the command, "No Left Turn" in letters 4 feet long on the black roadway. He did a neat job, without a whisker of white on the edge of a letter. It read:

"NO LFET TURN."

Then he went away. A little later the transposition was discovered and a photographer was sent to make a picture. But when the photographer set up his tripod two Lincoln park policemen closed in on him. They insisted there must be no picture of the error and they telephoned to the park police captain, James U. Sammis.

"The captain says 'no,' by ali means 'no,'" the photographer then was informed. "It is against the law to take a picture of an official typographical error."

The photographer had to be satisfied with the one shot he had made before the policemen reached him. As he departed, a perspiring artist in an official car arrived with an official eraser and went to work. The message on the boulevard floor now reads:

"NO L——T TURN."

NAME MINNESOTA CHAIRMAN FOR N. O. R. P. E. DRIVE

With the appointment of B. B. Sheffield as chairman for the state of Minnesota, the National Organization to Reduce Public Expenditures now has organizations functioning in 36 states, George W. Rossetter, chairman of the organization, announced yesterday. The national organization is conducting a campaign to reduce governmental expenditures and cut taxes.

Mr. Sheffield, who is president of the Civic and Commerce association of Minneapolis and president of the Sheffield Elevator company, announced that he would have the coöperation of the Minnesota Taxpayers' association, which has branches in every county and township of the state. Questionnaires are being forwarded to Minnesota senatorial and congressional candidates asking their position on the demand that federal expenditures be reduced $750,000,000.

Police Shoot and Capture Robber in Street Holdup

Peter Smith, 19 years old, 4259 South Parkway, was shot in the leg and captured yesterday by a police squad which interrupted his attempt to hold up Robert Gardner, 2709 Prairie avenue, an insurance collector, in front of 118 East 42d street.

GIANT TOWBOAT STARTS UP RIVER TRIP TO CHICAGO

Will Be First Large Craft to Make Such Journey.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—En route from St. Louis to Chicago, from where it will eventually patrol the section of the lakes to the gulf waterway between Joliet and Starved Rock, the steamer "Gouverneur," powerful federal towboat, is docked at the U. S. engineer sub-office here awaiting orders to proceed on the upriver trip.

The steamer has been transferred from service under the St. Louis office of the war department to the Chicago office and will be the first large boat to reach the head of the deep waterway, pending completion of the channel and reconstruction of bridges in the vicinity of Channahon and Joliet. Under present conditions the boat can go as far as Channahon.

120 Feet Long, 25 Feet Wide.

Remodeled at St. Louis, the steamer has been stripped of considerable bulk and now requires headroom of only 17 feet. Powered with a 600 horsepower Diesel engine, the craft is 120 feet long and 25 feet wide. It was brought to the government dock here by Capt. Bud Wilson of St. Louis.

Renewed interest in the waterway will draw more than 200 business men and women from Peoria and Pekin and cities between here and Joliet to the second inspection tour of the waterway tomorrow under the auspices of the association of commerce waterway committee. Traveling in buses and private cars, the Peoria delegation, headed by Dr. R. H. Daniels, chairman of the committee will leave at 7 a. m. for Joliet. At this point other caravans will join the tour which includes stops at Brandon road, Dresden Island, Morris, Marseilles and Starved Rock.

State Officials to Attend.

Lieut. Col. Dan I. Sultan, U. S. engineer office, Chicago, and members of his staff, and L. D. Cornish, also of Chicago, head of the state division of waterways, will join the party at Joliet and supply information about the various projects.

Among those representing navigation interests on the tour will be R. E. Bridges, St. Louis, assistant to the operating manager, federal barge lines, and Lachlan MacLeay, executive. Reservations received indicate that delegations from Joliet, Morris, Marseilles, Ottawa, La Salle and Depue will accompany the inspection tour and that cities to be represented on the one day trip will include Delavan, Aurora, Mendota, Bloomington and Springfield.

The Chicago delegation will be in charge of A. C. Phelps, secretary of the harbors and waterways committee.

Alleged Chicago Bandit Is Returned from Cincinnati

Thomas Silkich, alias Smith, 43 years old, was brought to Chicago from Cincinnati yesterday by Sergt. Nicholas Goles of the Scotland Yard detail charged with being one of the two bandits who robbed Joseph Kralj, 65 years old, 3049 East 97th street, of $9,400 on May 9. The money was the remainder of a $10,000 award which Kralj received after he was crippled in an accident in a steel mill at Youngstown, O.

WILBUR TO BRING HOOVER GREETING FOR ROCKFORD

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Rockford tomorrow will lay the corner stone of its new federal building and postoffice and also celebrate the formal opening of the Rockford News tower. The latter building will contain the two newspapers, the Morning Star and Register Republic, owned by Mrs. Ruth Hanna Simms.

Ray Lyman Wilbur, secretary of the interior, will greet the citizens of Rockford on behalf of President Hoover at the federal building ceremonies.

The Morning Star and Register Republic will hold open house in the Rockford News tower, their new building which has been completed this summer at a cost of $750,000.

Also Rock Valley Centennial.

Tomorrow's joint celebration takes place on the centennial anniversary of the coming of the first white settler to the Rock river valley.

At the corner stone laying in addition to Secretary Wilbur there will be Senator Otis F. Glenn, an assistant postmaster general, members of congress, Postmaster Arthur L. Johnson of Rockford, and Postmaster Arthur G. Lueder of Chicago. There also will be newspaper editors and postmasters from northern Illinois and southern Wisconsin.

To Motor from Chicago.

Secretary Wilbur will arrive in Chicago tomorrow morning and will be met there by Mayor J. Herman Hallstrom of Rockford and a delegation. The trip out from Chicago will be made by automobile. Secretary Wilbur will be guest at a luncheon at the Nelson hotel following the ceremony.

Another of the day's festivities will be a Columbus celebration by Italian residents.

Wet and Dry Straw Vote Being Taken in Hotels

Booths wherein the public may express its stand on the wet and dry issue were established in all the loop hotels yesterday. The poll is being conducted by the National Liberal alliance and the committee on prohibition of the American Hotel association, of which Arthur L. Race, of Boston, is chairman. Those polling are given cards to be sent to their United States senator and congressman, and they may vote for or against liberalization of the Volstead act; repeal of the eighteenth amendment, and congressional action permitting states to act on the question.

BORAH OFFERS 4 POINT PLAN FOR RECOVERY

Senator Holds Expansion of Currency Necessary.

Burley, Idaho, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Senator William E. Borah [Rep., Idaho], in an address here tonight advocated a four-point program for economic recovery—adjustment of world war problems, expansion of the currency, elimination of extravagance in government, and adjustment of private debts to conform to the change in money values.

Addressing a meeting arranged by a local service club, the chairman of the senate committee on foreign relations suggested expansion of the currency enough "to do business and afford the people a medium of exchange."

Senator Borah served notice that he would present his views without regard to party platforms or the presidential campaign in which thus far he has withheld his support from President Hoover.

Discussing the major party platforms, he commended both President Hoover and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt for what he termed their disregard of important parts of Republican and Democratic platforms.

Ignores Party Lines.

"After paying lip service to these sterile declarations early in the campaign," he said, "they proceeded to put them aside. It is the most encouraging event in the campaign."

"If I should canvass this audience tonight individually," the senator said, "I venture to believe that 99 per cent would be found thinking primarily, not about party politics, but about these economic problems which come home to you every waking hour of your life. When homes are being lost, farms abandoned, or taken for taxes, agriculture sinking farther into the mire of debt, business in distress, and ten million men and women asking for work and unable to find it, the supreme question is: How shall we escape the devastating effect of these various economic forces.

"I am going to discuss the situation as I see it. I shall not permit myself to be embarrassed in the least by party platforms or by the fact that a political campaign is now in progress. The views which I am to express seem to me to be in the interest of the people and in harmony with the public good.

His Four Point Program.

"There are a number of questions, local and national, which one might well discuss. But the great fundamental problems upon which all other depend are:

"1. World markets have been destroyed and the great problem is how to restore them. Until we do so we cannot hope for a rise in the price of commodities.

"2. The monetary systems of the world have been broken up and demoralized and the problem is how to restore them, and how to adapt them to present conditions. Until we do so we cannot hope for that confidence which brings prosperity to business.

"3. The last 25 years have witnessed such an increase of waste and extravagance in the government from the lowest unit of government to the highest, that taxes are now literally destructive—to own property is to invite ruin. The expenditure of public money approaches a national crime.

"4. By reason of adverse economic forces and the change in money values, debts have piled up beginning with the farm and ending with government until men are no longer working with a view to build, to construct, to develop, but to pay, as it were, for a dead horse.

"These are the problems for which answer must be found.

On Post-war Problems.

"In discussing these matters, let me say I do not criticize the efforts which have been made in the way of extending loans and in extending credit by the government, and in helping in this way to steady the situation to arrest somewhat the trend of the depression. But I do say that unless we find a solution for the problems which I have stated, there is no ultimate relief in the policies thus far pursued.

"The first proposition which I wish to present, is that commodity prices cannot permanently rise and the purchasing power of the people cannot be restored until the great post-war problems, which have destroyed commerce and broken up trade, are adjusted. The potatoes which are to rot out yonder in the field and the crops which will go ungarnered or unsold, are the result of the almost insane economic policies which have tortured the human family for 12 long years.

Discusses Money Question.

"The second proposition to which I direct your attention is the money question. The monetary systems have broken down. The farmer cannot get sufficient credit or find sufficient currency to pay the expenses of gathering his crop. A great deal is said about an honest dollar. That is precisely what we desire, what everybody would have.

"But I contend that a dollar which takes three times as much wheat, four times as much cotton, three times as much pork, to buy as it would have taken three years ago, is not an honest dollar. It is not a sound dollar. It is a dishonest dollar. It cheats the toiler between the time he eats his breakfast and the time he returns for his supper."

ROBBERS TAKE DOCTOR'S KIT.

Dr. S. T. Bolstead, 2447 West Jackson boulevard, was robbed of $20 and a kit of surgical instruments yesterday by two men who threatened him with revolvers at the rear of 338 South Campbell avenue.

END ARGUMENTS IN EXTRADITION CASE OF FACTOR

The United States Circuit court of appeals yesterday took under advisement the suit of the British government to extradite John [Jake the Barber] Factor for criminal prosecution in London. Final arguments were completed yesterday in the case, in which Great Britain charges that Factor defrauded British investors of $7,000,000 in fraudulent stock deals.

Attorney G. Gale Gilbert representing Factor, based his argument on the civil suit brought against Factor by British investors. The suit was settled in an out of court payment of $1,800,000. Attorney Gilbert held that the extradition treaty had been misused, and the criminal prosecution brought as a club to force the civil settlement.

Franklin R. Overmyer, attorney for Great Britain, argued that the question raised by Attorney Gilbert was political and not judicial.

"If the treaty has been misused," he said, "the proper place for a complaint is with the secretary of state. The court cannot go behind the charges. The judges here can only decide whether the offense is extraditable."

LOAN OFFICE ROBBED.

Two bandits took $760 yesterday in a holdup of the third floor office of the Superior Loan and Mortgage company, 3150 West Roosevelt road.

SECOND TRIAL OF SENATOR DAVIS SET FOR NOV. 28

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The second trial of James J. Davis, United States senator from Pennsylvania, on the two indictments charging him with participating in promotion of charity lotteries for the Loyal Order of Moose was set for Nov. 28 by Judge Francis G. Caffey in federal court today.

This date was agreed upon as being well after Mr. Davis' campaign for reelection to the senate and was requested by Charles H. Tuttle, Mr. Davis' counsel. Louis Meade Trendwell, the assistant United States attorney prosecuting the case, consented to this date.

Mr. Davis' co-defendants, Theodore G. Miller, head of the proporation department of the Moose order, and Bernard C. McGuire and Raymond Walsh, professional promoters, will also go to trial at this time.

Mr. Davis' eagerness to dispose of the case before his campaign caused him to secure a severance in the first trial, which ended in a mistrial Monday a week ago, but no severance is being sought for the retrial.

WINNIE* SHOCKS a T.B.M.

It was three-fifteen p.m. Straight for one of Winnie's tables went a T.B.M. (Tired Business Man, if you must know), slid into a chair, scowled.

"Yes sir," Winnie began, "I'll get you some water."

"Forget it," the T.B.M. grumbled, "bring me something light and tasty."

"A salad, perhaps," Winnie smiled, continued, "chicken and vegetable with—" "Listen," he interrupted, "I've eaten here often. I know Childs food. Never had any better. I'll like anything you bring."

When Winnie returned, her tray was laden with her own idea of "something light and tasty." The T.B.M. ate in silence, lit a cigarette, called Winnie over. "What a meal! Will a dollar cover it?" Winnie chuckled. "In Childs a dollar covers two meals like that one."

Try Childs yourself. You'll have the meal of your life for less than you ever paid before.

NEW FAVOR LISTS IN INSULL STOCK DEALS REVEALED

Show the Profits Made by Syndicate Members.

Seven lists of favored investors in Insull stocks were made public yesterday by Calvin Fentress, receiver for Insull Utility Investments, Inc. The lists were produced in Judge Walter C. Lindley's Federal court, where hearings are being conducted in a search for assets of the Insull Utility company, which is in bankruptcy. The favored investors are shown to have profited in each of the seven stock underwritings.

In no case had they been called on to pay the full amounts of their subscriptions.

In most of the lists the amount paid in was only 6 per cent of the subscriptions and the profits indicated were percentages on the payment made and not on the full amount of the subscription.

As an example, in the case of Mayor Cermak, whose name appears on the list, his subscription to the largest Middle West common stock issue in 1929 was $100,000. The records indicate that he paid in only $6,000 on this and that his profit on liquidation in January, 1930, was $1,500.

Well Known Names Listed.

The names of politicians, bankers, lawyers, business and professional men and women, opera stars and society folks make up the major portion of the list. They are shown to have joined with members of Samuel Insull's own organization in underwriting the various issues.

Edward N. Hurley, one of the receivers for Middle West, is among the investors. James Simpson, chairman of the board of the three major utility companies in the Chicago area; John Hertz, Rufus C. Dawes, and B. E. Sunny are also on the lists. So is the name of Speaker David Shanahan of the Illinois assembly.

The law firms of Cooke, Sullivan, & Ricks and Isham, Lincoln & Beale, who advised Samuel Insull regarding his European trip, were named on the lists. Rush Butler, another leading lawyer, is also listed. Attorney Daniel J. Schuyler is listed, and Patrick J. Lucey, former attorney general.

The politicians who participated include Representative Elmer Schnackenberg, Ald. Oscar F. Nelson, Ald. James B. Bowler, Edward J. Hughes, former member of the board of review; Charles V. Barrett, deceased, who was a member of the board of review, and Frank L. Smith, former head of the Illinois commerce commission, who accepted a contribution of $125,000 from Insull when he ran for United States senator.

After the lists had been made public Mr. Smith issued a statement which said that his name was erroneously included. He said he was not a participant in any of the purchases of Middle West Utilities stock. However, the name of Frank L. Smith did not appear as a subscriber for Middle West stock but as the subscriber for $50,000 of the stock of Insull Utility Investments, Inc.

Halsey, Stuart & Co. Projects.

Halsey, Stuart & Co., in whose list of projects appeared recently security issues of the Chicago Daily News Hearst Magazines, Inc., Hearst Publications, Inc., and the Illinois Publishing and Printing company [Chicago Herald and Examiner] appears on the several lists, as it did in a former favored number, for total subscriptions of $4,400,000.

The veteran politician, William Lorimer, was on one list for $250,000, as is ex-Lieut. Gov. John G. Oglesby for the same amount. Walter M. Provine was listed.

Democratic politicians also adorned the lists: Pat A. Nash, M. J. O'Brien, Joseph B. McDonough, the county treasurer; Moe Rosenberg, and George Self. Joseph P. Tumulty, who was secretary to President Wilson, was on the list.

The persons named underwrote stock subscriptions totaling $189,238,900 from May, 1925, to September, 1929. Since the collapse of the Insull empire there have been rumors that there were at least 1,600 "preferred customers" to whom Samuel gave opportunities of buying his utility stocks at less than the market price. The lists made public yesterday show the number was somewhat short of 1,600.

Many on Previous Lists.

Many persons and firms on the list revealed yesterday were also on two lists previously made public. Whereas, the subscribers whose names were on the first two lists said that their investment resulted in losses to them, the present lists show profits, the syndicate operations having been completed while Insull issues were still of high market value.

Attorney David Warfield III., counsel for the receiver, said the seven lists are all that have been found since the first two were made public. He said they were being given publicity to throw light on the financial structure of the Insull companies.

Mayor Cermak said last night that he had subscribed for $100,000 of Middel West stock.

"I'm like any other investor," he explained. "I had great confidence in Samuel Insull. My family, my business and myself invested in Insull stocks and we all lost eventually. In the last few years we bought when asked to do so to prevent the stock slumping on the market in order to protect the smaller investors."

EXPECT REPORT ON MIDDLE WEST IN TWO WEEKS

The committee representing holders of $40,000,000 in debentures of the Middle West Utilities company, billion dollar Insull holding concern which is now in receivership, will have a report on the condition of Middle West ready for distribution in about two weeks, Charles S. Dewey, chairman, announced in a letter to debenture holders yesterday.

The report, Mr. Dewey said, will discuss the present assests of Middle West; present liabilities, particularly claims which the committee believes can be contested; claims of the company against former officers, employés, directors, and others; future prospects from an earning standpoint, and relation of the company to secured creditors.

SENATE SENDS EXPERT TO PROBE INSULL CRASH

U. S. Acts to Balk Escape of Fugitive.

With the convening of congress still two months away, the banking committee of the United States senate reached out from Washington last night to delve into the tangled evidence surrounding the collapse of the Insull utilities system.

James E. Stewart, federal operative in charge of the committee's inquiry into the operations of the New York Stock exchange last summer, left Washington on an evening train, it was learned, and is due to arrive here this morning to start the senate investigation of the Insull crash.

Mr. Stewart was provided with the broad powers vested in the senate committee to inquire into all phases of the Insull situation, including perhaps certain phases which might go beyond reach of United States Attorney Dwight H. Green and State's Attorney Swanson, who are now looking into criminal aspects of the Insull operations.

Announcement of Inquiry.

Confirming reports of Stewart's departure, the office of Senator Peter Norbeck [S. D.] made public a brief announcement, reading as follows:

"Acting under instructions from Senator Norbeck, chairman of the senate committee on banking and currency, James E. Stewart, who has been in charge of the interim investigation of this committee with reference to the stock market, left for Chicago to pursue the investigation into the Insull situation."

With Chairman Norbeck away from the capital, other members of the committee refrained from comment on Stewart's orders and proffered no suggestions as to how the investigator would proceed.

It was learned, however, that Stewart carried with him a sheaf of correspondence received by Senator Norbeck and others suggesting lines of investigation. It was said that the investigator expected to investigate this information by going over the records of the bankrupt Insull Utility Investments, Inc., the bankrupt Corporation Securities company, and the Middle West Utilities company, which formed the apex of the Insull financial pyramid.

Acts to Block Release.

Meanwhile State's Attorney Swanson was in telephonic communication with Washington in an effort to block the plan, reported in cables from Athens, to release the indicted former chief of the defunct utilities system, Samuel Insull, from custody of the Greek police.

Early in the afternoon the state's attorney had engaged reservations on a Washington train and made a tentative appointment to confer with President Hoover in the White House tomorrow morning. Without disclosing the identity of the party to whom he telephoned, Mr. Swanson announced that the call had, for the present at least, obviated the need for his trip to the capital.

Dispatches filed from Washington within an hour after Mr. Swanson telephoned gave indications that the state's attorney's action was likely to achieve important results.

State Department Order.

The state department, hitherto noncommittal on the Insull matter, made known that it was making every effort to effect the return of Insull to the United States, notwithstanding the reported refusal of Greek authorities to hold him.

The state department cabled Leland B. Morris, American chargé d'affaires at Athens, to make certain that Insull does not leave Greece without learning full details as to his destination. It was understood that Mr. Swanson had pointedly told the federal officials of the need for close surveillance of the former utility magnate's movements lest he drop from sight again as he had on his trip from Paris through Italy to Greece.

Moreover, the dispatches indicated, the state department is prepared to request the Greek government to deport Insull at once under circumstances making his detention possible by a government with which the United States has an extradition treaty in force and from which it would be possible to extradite him with greater facility than from Greece.

Hoover Action Indicated.

President Hoover himself has taken steps to see that Insull is brought back for trial, if possible, the dispatches indicated. Within 15 minutes after a cable arrived from Morris indicating that the Greek authorities planned to release Insull, a code message was on the way back to Athens carrying instructions to Morris to prevent the prisoner's being released, if possible, and otherwise to be alert that he does not again disappear.

In his cable forecasting Insull's release, Mr. Morris represented the Greek authorities as explaining their intention on the ground that the Greek-American treaty signed some time ago would not be considered effective until ratification certificates had been formally exchanged.

There was a feeling in Washington, according to the dispatches, that the influence of Insull's friend, Sir Basil Zaharoff, wealthiest man in Greece, might have been brought to bear to obtain Insull's liberty. In cables from Chicago's Insull's attorneys suggested his communicating with Zaharoff.

Study Lawyers' Advice.

The legality of the activities of the Insull lawyers, Gilbert E. Porter and Waldo F. Tobey, in counseling him to flee to Greece is being studied, Mr. Swanson said. The prosecutor intimated that some of the money recently cabled Insull had been provided by the lawyers.

Alluding to dispatches which represented Insull as willing to return to Chicago, "anytime after the election," Mr. Swanson delivered some comment apparently aimed at Thomas J. Courtney his Democratic opponent for state's attorney, and Mayor Cermak, whose name has been found on the list of Insull "preferred" investors.

"Mr. Insull's reported willingness to return after election may be explained, perhaps, in his hope that there may be a new state's attorney at that time," Mr. Swanson observed. "The list of individuals who have been designated as the 'Insull insiders' may explain why Mr. Insull desires to face a prosecutor who would be subject to orders from the boss."

BARES INSULL'S DEAL TO HOLD UP PRICE OF STOCK

Stuart Tells of Sale of $60,000,000 Notes.

An agreement between Samuel Insull Sr. and Harold L. Stuart, whereby Insull was to maintain the market of Insull Utility Investments, Inc., common stock while the bond house of Halsey, Stuart & Co. disposed of $60,000,000 of debentures issued by the Insull concern, was disclosed yesterday in the court of Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley.

Stuart identified a letter he wrote to Insull on Dec. 31, 1929, reminding him of the agreement, at a hearing to discover assets of the bankrupt Insull Utility Investments company.

"We also understand," said the letter, "that you agree to maintain the market on Insull Utility Investments, Inc., common stock at the closing price on the day prior to the dealers' offerings for four business days thereafter."

Describes Sale of Notes.

Questioned by Attorneys Harold F. White and Lewis F. Jacobson, representing the debenture holders, Stuart said he did not remember the circumstances of the letter, but he described in detail the manner in which the $60,000,000 debenture issue was sold.

Stuart said his company purchased the debentures, known as series B, at 94, and then sold them to a "special group" organized at a meeting in his office. The special group, he said, sold them to a banking group at 96, and the banking group distributed them among the selling group, mostly brokerage houses, at 96½.

The attorneys for the petitioning creditors were interested in the debenture issue because they contend that the Insull Utility Investments company violated its contract with the purchasers by pledging assets for bank loans without equally securing the debentures. Suits have been filed seeking the recovery of assets with a present value of $31,000,000 held by New York and Chicago banks.

Stuart Is Questioned.

"What conversations took place at the meeting in your office?" Stuart was asked by counsel for the petitioners.

"I have here a clipping from the Wall Street Journal," he replied. "It states that during the last five years our house has originated the issuance of bonds aggregating 1 billion, 681 million dollars, and participated in the sale of 2 billion 433 million, or a total of more than 4 billion dollars. You will appreciate that, with such a volume of business, it is impossible to remember conversations about a particular transactions."

Questioned on Sale Methods.

While Halsey, Stuart & Co. underwrote the entire $60,000,000 debenture issue, only $20,000,000 of the issue was sold by the company itself, the remaining $40,000,000 being passed on to bankers and others for sale. Attorney Jacobson asked Stuart whether his company sold its $20,000,000 share of the issue through newspaper advertising or by the distribution of circulars. Stuart said he did not remember the details, but that ordinarily not many circulars would be sent out.

"How many did you send out?" asked Jacobson.

"I don't remember," said Stuart.

"Did they go through the mails?" asked the attorney.

"I don't know," Stuart replied.

Attorney James G. Condon, representing Suart, leaped to his feet objecting to this line of examination.

"If your honor please, in a hearing to discover assets, the question of whether the mails were used can have no materialty. He is trying to establish a mail fraud case."

"I don't think that's his purpose," said Judge Lindley.

Stuart and other officials of his company are under indictment in Milwaukee on mail fraud charges growing out of the sale of bonds for a Washington realty concern.

Stuart Changes Testimony.

Stuart was permitted to change part of his testimony given at a previous hearing. He said he did not mean to testify that Insull Utility Investments, Inc., was insolvent by $23,000 on Dec. 17, 1931, when efforts were being made to get extensions on the bank loans. Stuart said he had not taken into consideration the market value of the company's securities, at that time.

John F. O'Keefe, former secretary to Samuel Insull and secretary of the company, told the negotiations for the bank loans. He said the company agreed to maintain a 40 per cent collaterial margin at all times, pledging shares of the Insull operating companies. From September until December of 1931, he said, the company was forced to borrow collateral from Corporation Securities company to keep up its margin until the banks granted the extensions.

The hearing will be resumed today.

INSULL'S SALARIES FROM HIS COMPANIES HALF MILLION A YEAR

Records of the United States district court yesterday disclosed that Samuel Insull's salaries from the various holding and operating companies he headed before his downfall aggregated "close to half a million dollars a year."

Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley was informed of the salaries at a hearing in his chambers on July 20 to determine what salaries should be allowed Edward N. Hurley and Charles McCulloch as receivers for Middle West Utilities company. They were allowed a monthly drawing account of $4,000 each. During the period of Insull's co-receivership, from April 16 to June 6, he received $8,000 as compensation for his services.

Examined by Attorney Charles Weinfeld, representing the receivers at the hearing before Judge Lindley, Oliver E. McCormick, vice president and treasurer of Middle West, testified that Insull received $50,000 a year as chairman of the board.

"As head of Commonwealth Edison company, how much did he receive in salary? "I don't know but I have been given to understand that from the administration of his various corporations Mr. Insull's salaries aggregated close to half a million dollars a year," he replied.

EDITOR CHARGES INSURANCE LOSS IN INSULL CRASH

Says Sun Company "Gave" $26,000,000.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MONTREAL, Que., Oct. 11.—Brief but exciting was today's enquete trial, on a charge of criminal libel, of James J. Harpell, publisher of the Journal of Commerce, monthly publication, which, in the October issue, savagely attacked the Sun Life Assurance company and T. B. Macaulay, its multi-millionaire president, with accusations of swindling, embezzlement and general illegal appropriation of policy holders' funds.

The Sun Life is the largest insurance company in the British empire and its policies total more than three billion dollars.

The highlight of the day was when Harpell attacked the investments of the Sun Life in the now defunct Insull Utilities, and asked for a warrant of arrest against Macaulay on a charge of conspiracy to defraud.

"The plaintiff in this case," shouted Harpell over the objections of opposing counsel, "has given to Samuel and Martin Insull and Ivar Kreuger $26,000,000 of policyholders' funds. These are my funds as a policyholder, and I am here to swear out a warrant for his arrest on a charge of conspiracy to defraud. He has stolen my money."

The warrant was denied.

Harpell then asked a change of venue, declaring that he could not submit to being tried under the jurisdiction of the attorney general of Quebec. Premier Taschereau, who is also attorney general, is a director of the Sun Life. That also was denied.

MYSTERIOUS PHONE CALLS

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Oct. 11.—Samuel Insull Jr. had several long distance telephone conversations with London today, thus deepening the mystery started by the visit on Sunday of the mysterious "Mr. S," who flew over to Paris to see young Insull.

Whether "Mr. S" and these telephone calls have any connection with the hint contained in one of the cablegrams decoded before the grand jury in Chicago yesterday that the elder Insull is counting on the assistance of Sir Basil Zaharoff, reputed to be among the richest half dozen men in the world, could not be learned.

The Greek magnate, who is also known as the "mystery man of Europe," is not occupying his Paris residence at the moment and his secretary today flatly refused to divulge his whereabouts.

Insull Summons His Valet.

Now that Insull is a free man in Athens, THE TRIBUNE learns that his valet has been summoned from London to Paris to pack his baggage and that the baggage will be forwarded to Athens from the Hotel Lincoln tomorrow morning.

There is every reason to believe Mrs. Insull will shortly join her husband. At the moment she is still prostrated from shock upon hearing that her husband had been arrested, but her condition is not considered serious. For the last two days her hotel has been bombarded with flowers from friends who wished to express their sympathy.

MARTIN INSULL PRAISES CANADA FOR COURTESY

ORILLIA, Ont., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Martin J. Insull, at liberty under bail pending extradition proceedings, issued his first prepared statement to the press today, but it had little bearing upon his indictment for embezzlement in Chicago as a result of the collapse of the Insull utilities interests.

"After being released on bail," said the statement, which was in his own handwriting, "Martin J. Insull said he was impressed with the efficient and courteous manner of the Canadian officials with whom he had come in contact. They performed their duty as the law required in a kindly and humane spirit. This seemed to be their attitude toward every one."

INSULL PLACES BRITISH ESTATE IN OTHER HANDS

Employe Reveals Lavish Spending in England.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

THEALE, England, Oct. 11.—Samuel Insull's magnificent fourteenth century Berkshire residence, which is called "Pincents Farm" and is situated partly in Theale and partly in Tilehurst, near Reading, has been transferred to a company known as Pincents Farm Ltd., THE TRIBUNE learned today.

Apart from Insull's private dwelling place and lands, there is a row of ten newly built modern houses on the estate; all of which are leased for heavy rentals. There is also a model dairy farm, one mile from Theale, and various other properties.

Insull Didn't Sign Checks.

"Mr. Insull gave us the order to build all of the houses, including his own, on the Theale estate," Arthur Francis, Insull's former building contractor, said today. "He has lots of property around here and we built most of the houses in the last couple of years. He was very particular about the houses and insisted that only the best materials be used and we used them.

"He had plenty of money and we took a great deal from him. A lot of things happened which we thought funny. For instance, Insull never signed a check himself, although he ordered everything himself. I can't tell you who signed the checks, but it wasn't Insull.

"We received our money, however, and are glad we did, for the money flowed a bit too easily and we felt something serious might happen at any time. There were certain things going on about which we did not agree and in the end Insull and I didn't have exactly a row, but we decided not to do any of his work in the future.

Offers to Testify in Chicago.

"There are a lot of things I can say which would surprise people, and I am quite willing to go to Chicago and give evidence if I am wanted and all my expenses are paid.

"We built Insull's block of modern houses. There are ten of them, all bringing in a nice income to the owner. Insull charged high rents. He told us that the houses were being built as a business proposition and that's exactly what they are.

"I don't know whether he is coming here to live, but the residence stands furnished and is ready for occupation and has been so for months."

Secretary Refuses to Talk.

Frank Forcey, reputed to be Insull's unofficial private secretary here, is understood to be in charge of the property. He said he knew nothing of Insull's movements and could make no statements. He admitted Insull had considerable property in the vicinity, but denied he had heard from him recently.

It was learned, however, that Forcey received cables and telegrams daily and is understood to be in touch with the Insull family daily. While this correspondent was in the village postoffice a cablegram was sent out to Forcey.

Forcey also said he is willing to go to Chicago if he is wanted.

ALBERT ASKS OUSTER OF SIX OFFICIALS ON INSULL FAVOR LISTS

Arthur F. Albert, former alderman and candidate for mayor two years ago, wrote State's Attorney Swanson an open letter last night demanding that he institute quo warranto proceedings for the immediate removal from office of Mayor Cermak, County Treasurer Joseph B. McDonough, two state assemblymen, and two aldermen whose names appeared on the lists of favored Insull investors, made public yesterday.

With the mayor and county treasurer, Albert named David E. Shanahan, speaker of the state house of representatives; Elmer J. Schnackenberg, Republican leader of the house; Ald. James B. Bowler, chairman of the council transportation committee, and Ald. Oscar F. Nelson, floor leader under the former city administration. Moreover, he demanded prosecution of Attorney Samuel A. Ettelson because Ettelson was corporation counsel at the time of some of the Insull transactions that have come under scrutiny of the prosecutor's office.

Albert charged that in accepting favors from Samuel Insull the six public officials named "used their public office to profit personally through the increase in value of the Insull stocks and by so doing not only violated public confidence but also violated the state law." Albert called the state's attorney's attention to chapter 102 of the Illinois revised statutes, known generally as the corrupt practices act.

He declared that if the state's attorney failed to heed his demand for prosecution he would sue in the courts for a writ of mandamus compelling Mr. Swanson to act.

FLETCHER DOBYNS NOTED ATTORNEY, INJURED BY AUTO

The trial of nine officials of H. O. Stone & Co., defunct real estate investment concern, was delayed yesterday by the serious injury of Defense Attorney Fletcher Dobyns, who was struck by an automobile on Monday night. The attorney was knocked to the pavement at the Midway near the Illinois Central viaduct by a car driven by Adolph Mohn, 4801 South Richmond street, who took the injured man to the Billings Memorial hospital. Attorney Dobyns was reported resting comfortably after an operation yesterday morning by Dr. D. B. Phemister. The attorney suffered a double fracture of the left leg and head injuries.

Once prominent in Chicago legal, political, and social circles, Attorney Dobyns retired several years ago and went to Pasadena, Cal., to live. He returned to Chicago to defend Marshall W. George, a defendant in the Stone officials' trial and the son of an old friend. Attorney Dobyns served as a special United States attorney in the prosecution of John R. Walsh, banker, in 1907.

Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward, when informed of the accident, continued the case until this morning. The Stone officials are charged with using the mails to defraud.

Mexico Arrests Official for Closing Gaming Den

JUAREZ, Mexico, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Salvador Vargas de la Fuente, who was ousted yesterday as state district attorney, was arrested today and placed under military guard at Liberty hospital, where he is ill with blood poisoning. He is charged with contempt of court because he closed the Gold Palace gambling hall in defiance of a federal injunction giving the operator permission to remain open.

FOUR OVERCOME BY GAS WHILE FLYING TO WEST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Overcome by carbon monoxide gas while in the air four passengers of a United Air Lines tri-motor plane from Chicago were unconscious when the plane landed at the Kansas City airport this afternoon. The plane was piloted by B. O. Howard. Three of the passengers were sent to a research hospital. Their condition is not dangerous.

About thirty minutes before the plane reached Kansas City the air became slightly rough and C. R. Haueter, the co-pilot, left his compartment in the front of the plane to tell the passengers to fasten their safety belts in preparation for a landing.

When Haueter spoke to E. L. Rickards of the Automobile Protective and Information Bureau, an insurance concern, there was no response. Rickards' eyes were open, but he seemed lifeless.

An attempt to arouse them also failed with Fred H. Schnell and Reeder Nichols of Chicago and Maj. L. A. Laguarde of Fort Sill, Okla. Nichols is a representative of the Deere Development company.

When informed by Haueter, Pilot Howard sent a radio message to the officials of the National Air Transport to have physicians ready at the airport.

Haueter had been back in the passengers' compartment an hour before and as all the passengers appeared to be sleeping he did not disturb them.

Rickards regained consciousness as the ship's wheels struck the ground, but when trying to step from the plane, fell into the arms of George McNally, an agent for the same insurance concern, who was to join him here and proceed to Oklahoma City.

A fifth passenger, who had boarded the plane at Chicago, left at Moline, Ill., the only stop between Chicago and Kansas City.

Leaving the three Chicagoans in a hospital, the plane later flew for Oklahoma City with Maj. Laguarde and three new passengers. A faulty heater had been removed from the plane.

Schnell gave his address as 4915 North Sawyer, Chicago, and Rickards said he lived at the Carlton hotel in Oak Park. Nichols' home is at 4881 North Paulina street.

Remember..in washing silk hosiery cheap flakes are costly in the long r-u-n

MRS. FERDINAND A. BUNTE

Her husband is a director in Bunte Brothers Candy Company. Her house is French, inside and outside—one of Evanston's loveliest. The Buntes run down to Texas frequently (Mrs. Bunte is from San Antonio). They winter on ranches in Old Mexico, where they ride and hunt. Next to her home, Mrs. Bunte's chief interest is music; her musical evenings at home are rare treats to her many friends.

It is sheer extravagance to allow cheap soap flakes to rob silk stockings of their fragile beauty. Especially when one simple precaution will keep them looking their loveliest.

"My chief delight," says Mrs. Sidney Wanzer, III, "is the safety with which American Family Flakes launders not only my delicate silks and linens but my filmy chiffon hosiery. See how new it looks. That's because no soap but pure American Family has ever touched it."

"My laundress tells me that American Family makes suds more quickly and washes faster," declares Mrs. Robert McCormick Adams. "We're strong for both American Family Flakes and Soap at our house."

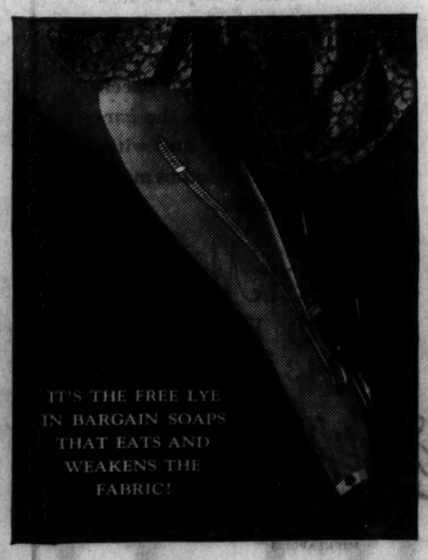
"I found that most women with fine things to care for used only American Family Flakes," Mrs. Ferdinand A. Bunte explains; "so I started using it too. And what a revelation!"

Why is American Family the choice in 4 out of 5 Gold Coast homes? Because it is absolutely pure . . . contains no free lye that fades the colors and eats the fabrics. Then, too, it's faster . . . makes double the suds . . . because it was created especially for the hard water of this Great Lakes region.

Save hours and many precious dollars by using these safe pure flakes for every household-cleaning task . . . for china and glassware, tile, linoleum and woodwork. It spares the hands, and will give you months of extra wear from all things washable.

MRS. ROBERT MCCORMICK ADAMS

She loves outdoor life—golf, tennis, swimming with her three children, riding at Onwentsia with her husband. The Adams town apartment is a striking example of the new use of white.



MRS. SIDNEY WANZER, III

—whose husband is a member of the firm of Sidney Wanzer & Sons Dairy Company. She is devoted to her charities, particularly the Frances Juvenile Home, where little girls are nursed back to health and happiness. One of Mrs. Wanzer's innovations at the Home is the use of American Family Flakes in the laundry.

SAVE MONEY—Use American Family Flakes whose double-suds safeguard the costly laundry in 4 out of 5 Gold Coast homes.

20 MILLION BOND ISSUE O. K. URGED FOR TAX RELIEF

Col. McCormick Tells How to Restore Prosperity.

The relief from excessive taxation that is demanded by citizens of Illinois goes hand in hand with passage of the $20,000,000 state relief bond issue at the coming election on Nov. 8, two speakers informed 500 members of the Chicago Rotary club and their guests at a luncheon in Hotel Sherman yesterday.

Edward L. Ryerson Jr., chairman of the Illinois Emergency Relief commission, declared the bond issue was unique for Illinois in that if adopted it would decrease instead of increase taxes. Col. R. R. McCormick, publisher of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, declared that the return to prosperity, the salvation of our country, depended upon tax reduction.

Bonds Will Retire Notes.

"Last February the Illinois general assembly passed a levy of $25,000,000 to be collectible in 1933," Mr. Ryerson said. "Revenue notes to the extent of $18,750,000 were sold against this levy and the funds derived have been spent for relief in Cook and 39 downstate counties. The voters of Illinois have an opportunity to decide whether this tax will be collected. If this bond issue is approved, the income from the sale of the bonds will retire the revenue notes sold against the levy.

"The bonds themselves will be retired by that share of the gas tax which goes to counties that have been assisted through the fund of $18,750,000. The cost of retiring the bonds will be apportioned among the counties on the basis of the aid they have received. If the bond issue does not pass the state general property tax rate for 1932 will be increased from 39 cents per $100 assessed valuation to from 74 to 70 cents per $100 assessed valuation."

Blames Distress on High Taxes.

Col. McCormick declared that "indisputable statistics have proved beyond question that the distress in this country and all over the world has been caused by excessive and unpayable taxation." He described the increased taxes as an aftermath of the war, when the army demobilized all the men who had become adjuncts to the war, in and out of office, and they thought of new means of spending public money and increasing public debt.

"Following the war," he continued, "the prosperity prevailing during the war seemed to continue. The high prices received for wheat had raised the value of farm lands. The war materials had all brought enormous profit, not only making war factories profitable but leaving factories that did not produce war materials virtually monopolies. The result was that values increased everywhere, and with these enormous values taxes did not appear to be heavy."

In closing, Col. McCormick described the benefits of tax reduction. "When your real estate taxes have been cut in half real estate will immediately double in value; there will be buyers for all who have land to sell, credit for those who wish to borrow; and foreclosures will cease," he said.

Urges Action to Save Nation.

"The instant that federal government removes its income tax drain tube from the arteries of national industry the emancipated money will rush to investment. Building will start; factories will open; supplies of all kinds will be bought at increasing prices. Men, happy in new found employment, will once more hand large pay envelopes to their wives to put into circulation. The cyclone of despair will pass away before the fair winds of happiness and prosperity.

"You who wish to help save your country must act quickly. You must elect a congress that will aid, not ruin it. The prospect is dark but the future is still within your control. The machines of the tax eaters are not yet strong enough to overwhelm you."

NEW YORK CITY IS NEAR BOTTOM OF CASH DRAWER

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The city of New York is close to the bottom of its cash drawer. With the borrowing today of 10 million dollars more from the 151 million revolving fund for the payment of salaries and other current expenses there was only $6,000,000 left therein.

The 10 million dollars is expected to carry the city over until Oct. 20. Then the $6,000,000 must be stretched or added to to make possible payments between Oct. 20 and about Dec. 10, when more taxes fall due. Just how this is to be done is Controller Charles W. Berry's problem. He was not in his office today to say what success he was having, but there were reports that the banks were not pushing one another out of the way in the rush to lend the city more.

The revolving fund was established in February, when the city was close to dire financial trouble and finally obtained credit after the administration had taken a great economy oath.

4 MORE TOWNS SHOW PERSONAL TAX INCREASES

Assessor J. L. Jacobs yesterday delivered the 1931 personal property assessment books for four more country towns to the board of tax appeals. In the four towns the 1931 assessments are 47 per cent higher than the personalty assessments for 1930, and the number of schedules filed increased from 21,824 to 31,216. The township totals:

	1931.	1930.
Berwyn	$ 2,707,870	$1,111,956
Lyons	2,617,517	2,183,935
Oak Park	11,139,344	7,723,768
Thornton	5,009,168	3,195,974

Personalty assessments have now been completed for twenty of the thirty country towns. The board of tax appeals will start hearing complaints against the personal property valuations in the first ten towns on the list on Friday.

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

THE COUNTRY'S STAKE IN THE ELECTION.

Mr. Hoover apparently has regained some votes in the region of Republican disaffection. He has picked up support and is stronger as the result of his speech in Des Moines. It was the speech of a Republican candidate, talking the traditions of the party which elects Presidents of the United States when it is most itself. The Republican ticket's best chance is with the Republican party's historic doctrines. The Republican candidates cannot expect to win by going Democratic.

The country is full of discontent, but it also will come to a moment of doubt and in that moment the election will be decided. Early October sentiments must stand early November scrutiny. It's the November opinion which will count. Will political choice make things better or worse? Many sober minded people, apprehensive of the future, will ask that question.

Mr. Hoover gained some ground at the expense of Gov. Roosevelt, whose campaign methods do not test out so well as the election comes nearer. The Democratic candidate has the hard times to help him. He has the support of Reds in Mr. Hoover's party. The vote which will go against any person now in office is his. Some discontent is irreconcilable and beyond reconsideration or doubt. It will vote for a change and take the chances. The chances are what the considerate voters will take into account.

Gov. Roosevelt has been vigorous in general statements and weak in specifications. Roosevelt's position, for instance, on the bonus demanded by the vets is unknown. Congress is notoriously weak on this issue. Its habit is to pass the buck to the President every time it goes to a vote on the question. The credit and currency structure of the nation are involved in the demands, but congress will not face the music. Mr. Hoover, to his credit, has taken the responsibility, as Mr. Coolidge did before him, of stopping payment. Mr. Roosevelt is silent. Thus he wins the votes of persons to whom the election is merely an opportunity to get government money, but he loses the confidence of people who want candid dealing and of people who know the bonus payment would be disastrous.

The Roosevelt campaign, examined, becomes a complex of uncertainties. His forgotten man is the man to whom the most attention has been paid in the last three years, but he means the idea to be something else. The forgotten man is the citizen who has produced most of the emergency legislation in Washington. If the country can pay the bills it has incurred to date it will be in luck.

As the period of doubt, which fortunately has its place in a campaign, comes along the generalities of a candidate will not prove satisfactory. Mr. Hoover, by reverting to the established principles of his party, appears to benefit thereby, and Gov. Roosevelt, by continuing as an undefined program of everything to every one who wants it, raises the question of consequences contained in his election.

Mr. Hoover is in trouble because he has yielded too much to near socialism. He grows stronger as he returns to Republican doctrines.

A PROMISE OF LOWER TAXES.

The sanitary district has joined a number of other local governments in voting a reduction in its tax levy for 1931. This reduction in the tax levies is the one hopeful factor in the local governments' problem. It offers the only promise of relief both to the overburdened taxpayers and to the unpaid employés.

One school of office holders has contended that the failure of thousands of property owners to pay has made any reduction in levies impossible. If the governments can't get what they now ask for, they'll get still less if they lower the tax bills, these officials contend. Fortunately this opinion has not prevailed. The other view is that the only way to obtain increased collections is to lower the taxes to a point where taxpayers will not throw their hands up in despair and invite the county to take their property for taxes.

The second view is, of course, the sound one. In Cook county the tax rates in recent years have risen past the point where the law of diminishing returns set in. The rates of recent years, it now is evident, must be reduced if the collections are to be maintained even at their present levels.

In this matter the interest of the taxpayers and of the public employés is identical. Property owners want their tax bills to come within their means of payment to prevent the sale of property for nonpayment. Public employés want the treasury to obtain as much money as possible to meet its obligations.

The delay in tax collections has served one useful purpose. No one need do any guessing a year in advance about the expenditures for 1931. The outlay is known to a penny. A reasonable margin for loss and cost of collection plus the actual outlay provides an honest index to the proper tax rate for the year.

DIPLOMACY AT LARGE.

Lord Lytton, chairman of the commission which has recently reported to the league of nations upon the Manchurian problem, has been saying some things worthy of American note. Discussing our Mr. Stimson's pronouncement of Aug. 8, upon which there has been little comment among Mr. Stimson's countrymen but quite a to-do in England, Lord Lytton declares that the statement concerning consultation is an assurance of coöperation of the United States and he believes the British government should try to convince France she now has all the security she needs.

Examining this view, we confess that we cannot think it as ingenuous as it seems. Lord Lytton after all is an experienced European diplomat, and we cannot believe he expects the French to put by their ideas of what constitutes security in exchange for remarks by Mr. Stimson for which, as we recall, he expressly disclaimed official authority and which certainly have not yet had the indorsement of the senate, the consent of which they know, or ought by this time to know, is essential to bind the United States to any treaty or international agreement.

But Lord Lytton no doubt realizes that diplomacy is the activity of government least controlled by public opinion or even by legal restraints and that before this it has carried nations into situations from which it has been impossible to extricate themselves. We think it would be wise for us also to consider this and to realize that while Mr. Stimson's unauthorized interpretations of American obligations and intentions are not binding, legally or morally, they create assumptions upon the part of other peoples which we cannot afford to ignore. All one has to do to be impressed with this pragmatic view of Mr. Stimson's recent utterances is to note the emphasis put upon them by the foreign press and public men. Not only Lord Lytton but others of note and the press generally are taking as authoritative his declaration that the United States will recognize no taking of territory by means we hold contrary to the covenant of the league and the Briand-Kellogg treaty, and even more emphatic is their assumption that his interpretation of our obligation to consult is to be accepted as conclusive.

Yet neither of these declarations has been approved by the senate nor considered by the American people. Upon such consideration they may be approved and adopted, but in the meantime it should be made clear to the governments and nations interested that they have no binding weight whatever, either legal or moral, and that they may never have. And we could wish, for the sake of the reputation of our nation for candor and consistency, for practical sense and responsibility, that its secretary of state would put more restraint upon his public utterances as well as upon his official activities.

ALABAMA PITTS AND OTHER COLLEGES.

Reports from the penal institutions of Illinois, New York and other enlightened states are forecasts of a bright football season. Losses by graduation have been compensated by candidates from last year's freshman classes, and the institution coaches have worked with the alumni to stop such drains on man power as may be caused by light sentences in the criminal courts and by the thoughtless sentimentality of boards of pardon and parole. It is taken very hard by the old grads when a fast running back is lost to the team by being sprung through the parole board.

Alabama Pitts, the Sing Sing triple threat star who can carry them, throw them and kick them, is apparently eligible again. His work against the Port Jervis policemen, the Poughkeepsie naval militia, the Eighteenth circuit bailiffs and the headquarters Old Boys made him a natural all-American, although he was regarded as ineligible for listing. Such prejudices cannot survive.

Institution football will be strengthened by the work of the alumni in obtaining more convictions, longer sentences and fewer pardons. The time will come when the prisoner in the dock will answer the judge with: "For good old Stateville I acknowledge this rap and will take the stretch." They'll hear the cheering as far as Leavenworth, and it won't bode Leavenworth any good.

FOR ILLINOIS ABOVE PARTY OR SECTION.

Two of the leading newspapers of the state, the Pantagraph of Bloomington and the Argus of Rock Island, both Republican, in forceful editorial utterances have made it clear to their readers their preference is for Judge Horner, the Democratic candidate for governor, over Len Small, the Republican candidate. Neither party affiliation nor sectional feeling has perverted judgment upon the respective qualifications of these contestants viewed honestly from the standpoint of the interests of the state and its people. We speak of sectional feeling because Small has been making his principal appeal for votes from downstate by preaching hatred of Chicago. This line of tactics takes on a special irony, inasmuch as one of Mr. Small's chief supporters represents the worst elements in Chicago professional politics and is, with his Chicago allies, more responsible than any other for the conditions which downstate criticizes in Chicago's public affairs. It is certainly encouraging that Illinois Republican newspapers of character rise above narrow prejudice and seek the welfare of the whole state.

Editorial of the Day

"HARDEN YO' HEART."

[Rockford Register-Republic.]

Picking up a young hitch-hiker near Sycamore, a Belvidere motorist was forced, at a revolver's muzzle, to drive his companion to Chicago. The man escaped after throwing a rock through the window of the car, probably in appreciation.

Old fashioned courtesy still exists in a world that steadily discourages those who place too much faith in gratitude. The majority of hitch-hikers may be harmless and worthy, but the minority constitute too great a hazard to warrant indiscriminate generosity.

The person who seeks to travel for long or short distances through the kindness of motorists presumes too much. There is no reasonable obligation for any motorist to stop for a stranger, however harmless and weary the pedestrian may appear. On the contrary, a reasonable sense of responsibility to himself and his family should guard any motorist against accepting the risk involved.

"Harden yo' heart" was the advice of one Negro to another in a humorous story. There is wisdom in that phrase in these days of highway crime.

THA DUKE'S 2ND HONEYMOON IS ALL OVER.

Dick: Well tha 2nd honeymoon is all over an it was very expensive. I'm afraid if we ever had a 3rd I will hafta go alone. It costed $122.36 wich is too much dough to spend running fer a street car after you've caught it. Tha B. and C. went plumb nutz throwing away my kale, in one store alone she spent over 20c fer picture postals and then she's got tha nerve ta bawl hell out of me every time I bought me a case of ale fer a measly 3 bucks. Tha 1st Canadian stop was Windsor wich I think is named after a hotel down in St. Joe, Mizzouri, here she insists on us looking up a store that carries burnt wood souveniers so I starts looking fer Fire-Sale signs so I took tha 2 bucks away from her and bought tha dearest diploma looking thing you ever saw, it's what's called a Permit. In every town you use it a man autographs it for you and I figger it will be very valuable cause ya cant tell but that one of tha signers might be elected King some day. Blimp and Irene was tha uther cupple on tha trip and we used their jallopy, he's a prince of a guy, every time we hadda a blow-out he wood complain about his neuralgia an yours truly wood do tha dirty work. We was supposed to alternate on tha driving an out of tha 3000 miles he did tha last 3 figures. He's one of those smart road map sharks that hollers fork at tha school-house when ya shood of gone straight. That goof don't even know what they do in a school-house. Irene was very pleasant by agreeing that her husband cant be wrong so we saw most of tha country twice. Tha 3rd time we got lost I pulls up to a curb and asks a Bobby tha right road and he tells me to take tha Kingseyway to Queens-havenue and then turn on Prince-Hedward road, if he'd ever of mentioned a President or a Vice President or even a Senator I think I'd of fallen out of tha car. Cupple minutes later tha Mama landed on me fer calling tha cop "Bobby," she says if I'm gonna get familiar I cood of at least called him Robert (there's brains). Just before we got to Toronto tha Mama see's bushels of tomatoes at 2 bits tha bushel an I had a hard time talking her out of dragging a load home. After arguing a ½ hour I tole her tha duty is a nickle on each tomatoe and that shut her up. When we gets back to Windsor Blimp digs up a swell family by the name of Shembeck and they were awfully nice to us they insisted that we go out to a roadhouse and have a fish dinner on them. They told us it was one of those places where you get all tha fish you can eat for 6 bits. After our gang started taking up their bet I noticed tha proprietor runnin around like a crazy man getting his fishing tackle out an a starting fer tha lake. Anyhow we got back to the U. S. A. last night and I would say it was the swellest country in the world if it would swap off 5000 dry goods stores. DUKE BAKRAK.

AVOIDING COLDS.

No belief is more general nor better grounded in years than the one that if a man pampers himself he will be subject to colds and pneumonia, and, as a part of the same, a man can harden himself against colds by judicious exposure.

Seneca wrote, soon after the death of Christ, "The man who has always had glazed windows to shield him from a draft, whose feet have been kept warm by hot applications renewed from time to time, whose dining halls have been tempered by hot air passing beneath the floor and circulating around the walls—this man will run great risk if he is brushed by a gentle breeze."

And now the iconoclastic students threaten to knock all that into a cocked hat. At Johns Hopkins university studies of the common cold have been carried on for several years. This investigation may run for some time yet, for the subject is most important, and while there is a mass of speculation and many men have theories, there is almost no real knowledge.

A few reports of this study are making their appearance in the medical literature. A group of nearly three hundred adults, mostly medical students, are being observed. One report tells of the number of colds and their severity suffered by this body of persons during a period of thirty-five weeks—the fall, winter, and spring season. Some of them slept in rooms with the windows widely opened, while others slept where the ventilation was not good. Some spent hours in exercising in the open air, both winter and summer. Some got very little outdoor exercise, either in summer or winter. These groups were compared. The basis of comparison was the number of colds each suffered from during the thirty-five weeks, and the severity of them.

A cold was rated as severe if it put the man to bed and caused him to have fever and general aching, and if it lasted ten days or longer. Separate observations were made as to whether the sick man had coryza, cough, or sore throat, or several of these in combination.

The experiment seemed to prove that Mr. Seneca was talking through his hat. The people who disobeyed the laws of health, as we call them—at least those that related to fresh air, exposure to cold, hardening, exercising in the open air—had no more colds than did the other fellows. Nor were their colds any more severe.

The observations did seem to show that the colds which caused sore throat differed from the others. The men who hardened themselves appeared to have fewer sore throats. And that seemed to be all the support Seneca got from the observations.

The man who said he always learned the rules of health in order that he might be sure to break them gets at least a dog fall from Mr. Seneca.

PAIN IN THE BACK.

W. A. writes: Ten years ago I suffered with severe pain in my upper back, back of the breastbone. This severe pain awakened me from a sound sleep every morning around 3 o'clock for a period of two years. I had to sit up in bed at times to get my breath. I went to specialists, but no one could diagnose the case. After about two years the pain left as suddenly as it came. Two years ago I had a recurrence which lasted ten months. I do not know what caused it.

REPLY:

1. It will not harm you in any way.

2. There is no cancer of the blood. Some call leucemia cancer of the blood, but nothing is gained by calling it by that name. If these are your only symptoms you will be better off if you keep your mind on your business and gamble on your symptoms being without significance.

IMMIGRATION VISAS.

Chicago, Oct. 6.—[Friend of the People.]—A woman, an American born citizen, marries an alien in 1920. In 1922 both left this country for Italy, where they have been living ever since. Is she still a citizen, or did she lose her citizenship through marriage to an alien? If she retained it through marriage, did she lose it by leaving the country for an unlimited time, now ten years? Both now wish to return to this country. Will she get preference over her husband, or will they both have to go through the regular routine the same as all other immigrants? How long would they have to wait before they could enter the United States? E. B.

You are advised that a woman born in the United States but married to an alien prior to Sept. 22, 1922, became an alien by reason of such marriage. The woman, although an alien, is, by reason of her birth in the United States, now classed as one entitled to a non-quota status. Both she and her husband, as immigrants, will require immigration visas if they desire to come to the United States for the purpose of residence here. The visa obtained by the man may be charged to the quota of the country of which he is a native. As the issuance of immigration visas is vested in the American consuls abroad, this office cannot inform you how long a time will be required to obtain the visas. This can best be ascertained from the office of the consulate at which the prospective immigrants will apply. K. I. ZIMMERMAN.

Asst. District Director of Immigration.

DEPENDS ON OTHER FACTS.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—In an accident in which a driver hits another car which is parked illegally (as in a zone where parking is not allowed or where a car parks abreast of another car in a wide street), (1) who is responsible for damage done? 2. Can the driver be arrested for hitting a parked car? K. K.

1. Depends on facts that are not before us. The illegal parking might or might not be the cause of the accident.

2. The mere fact that he hit the car would not be enough to make arrest proper, if that is what you mean to ask.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 12, 1916.

LONDON.—As a result of an ultimatum to Greece by entente powers the Greek fleet is being transferred to Vice Admiral Dantige du Fournet, commander of the Anglo-French fleet in the Mediterranean. The vice admiral gave King Constantine until this afternoon to comply with his demand. There being no alternative the Greek government complied, but told the vice admiral that it did so under protest. Only three vessels were expected by Commander Fournet. Control of the Piraeus-Lorine railway also was included in the allies' demand. The lighter craft will be handed over intact, so as to enable them to be dispatched to the provisional government at Saloniki. The heavier vessels will be disarmed and left where they are, in the gulf of Keratsini. The demands of the allies were made as a precautionary measure to insure the safety of the allies' fleet.

LONDON.—The question of the duration of the war brought on a heated debate in the house of commons when officials of the government rebuked certain members for their criticisms of the government's attitude that no peace proposal can be entertained until the entente allies are victorious and "permanent peace assured." This attitude was voiced by Premier Asquith. The debate started during the discussion of Premier Asquith's request for a new war credit of $1,500,000,000. The house agreed to vote the credit, bringing the total war loan for the fiscal year to $6,850,000,000.

BERLIN.—German troops in a salient projecting towards the town of Vermandovillers, south of the River Somme, have been cut off by the French forces, it was stated in the German war report. North of the Somme numerous attacks were made extending far beyond the Ancre to the north. These attacks were repeated several times, especially from the Morval-Bouchavesnes line. Here the French succeeded in establishing themselves on a narrow front in the German first line southwest of Sailly. Elsewhere the French attacks failed.

BERLIN.—Bavarian troops under Gen. von Krafft, after capturing the Red Tower pass, have marched southward and invaded Rumania from the north for the first time since the beginning of the war, it was semi-officially announced. The first and second Rumanian armies that invaded Transylvania have been crushed by the Austro-Germans. The northern army, composed of Rumanians and Russians, has begun to waver and is retreating through the Gorgeny mountains, beyond Parait. The statement adds that Csik Szerda has been reoccupied.

ROME.—Italian troops, fighting in the Carso region southeast of Goritz, have resumed their march towards Triest, capturing several lines of Austrian trenches and more than 5,000 prisoners, says the official war statement. In addition they have occupied strongly defended heights between the Vippaco river and Hill 208, taking quantities of arms and ammunition.

CHICAGO.—State's Attorney Hoyne threatened to lay before a Municipal court all the evidence he has against Chief of Police Charles C. Healey, whom he charges with malfeasance and conspiracy, and all incidental evidence tending to show laxness or criminality in the mayor's administration of city affairs, in the detective bureau, and the police department. The state's attorney mentioned this as perhaps an immediate possibility in the crucial situation brought about by his fight upon Chief Healey and his raids upon the office of the mayor, chief, and second deputy superintendent of police.

ROOSEVELT ON THE BONUS.

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 6.—Roosevelt again and again has been urged to declare how he stands on the bonus. It would be a mistaken view to think this request to be mere political claptrap. The welfare of America is involved. In case of Roosevelt's election without having made such a declaration there would be danger that our next congress would pass the bonus. Then we would not come out of this fearful depression. It would deepen instead.

The explanation is near at hand. Our congressmen always have feared to refuse the veterans anything. If Roosevelt is elected without having made a statement on this subject their fear will be intensified. It may be true, probably is, that Roosevelt is opposed to the bonus. It certainly is true that, if elected, it will not be because of the bonus. Perhaps it will play no part. But that is not the way the congressman will look upon it. He will see that Hoover spoke strongly against the bonus and lost, that Roosevelt said nothing and won, and when the bonus measure comes before congress will not dare to vote against it.

The danger is great. It is not a partisan matter and should not be so considered. Democrats and Republicans alike should wish—yes, urge—Roosevelt to make a public statement on the matter. If he does not do so he ought not to be elected. P. Z.

COUNTY TEACHERS.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—For the last few months there has been a great deal of publicity and sympathy concerning the plight of the unpaid Chicago teachers.

The city teachers have not been paid for several months, but many of our county teachers, especially those in the rural schools, have gone for nine and ten months without one cent of salary. Is there no one to come to their aid? Is their plight to be overlooked?

The local school boards of the county, which in this day and age are useless pieces of machinery, have shown through their inertia, indifference, and negligence that they will do nothing to aid their teachers.

Why can't there be immediate state legislation to come to the aid of these unpaid teachers? A SYMPATHIZER.

ALL IN FAVOR SAY AYE.

Chicago, Oct. 4.—Now that the winter is coming on, many women and girls would relish the idea if some one would start the fad again of wearing wool and cotton hose. Come, on everybody, let's help put a stop to the depression by using United States products in cottons and woolens. England is favoring their own products; why shouldn't we? I wouldn't mind wearing the old fashioned "bell bottom" underwear myself.

A SECRETARY.

THE HOUSE OF CORRECTION.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—I would like to say a few words about the House of Correction of Chicago. If there was ever a hell hole on this earth the house of correction is sure it. I done one year there and it will take two years to get my health back again. The eats in that place ain't fit for a dog to eat, without making a man eat it. Where does all the money go that is supposed to feed those men in there?

That place can sure stand a lot of investigation. That place is the filthiest place on earth to keep a man. Those men are in there to serve their time, we know, but not to be broken in health and knocked around with pick handles like the guards do. Why don't you people investigate that place and you will get plenty of news for the people who read your papers. That place is so dirty—the north and south cell house—that the bedbugs eat the men up at night that they can't sleep. And pails they got instead of toilets. And washing in the morning is a joke. Wash on the fly, and if you don't go fast enough one of the guards will hit you with a pick handle. That place ain't fit for cattle. Sundays one wash in the morning and that is all the washing the men get till Monday morning. Sunday is starvation day with these men. The men are locked up seventeen hours out of twenty-four in a two by four cell, and some of the men in the different departments never get no fresh air from the time they go in there till the time they get out. How are you ever going to reform men by treating them that way?

PETE HARVEY.

A FIRE IN THE FOREST PRESERVE.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Walking through the Deer Grove forest preserve a couple of days ago we have seen what a match or cigaret carelessly thrown away can do in destroying our outdoor playground. In one section of the woods we came upon a forest fire which threatened a fine stand of oak trees. Immediately the three of us got busy, and after an hour of hard, hot work we put out the fire. What really got our goat is that a group of picnickers nearby instead of helping us to put out the first just simply stood by and enjoyed the free show.

WALTER PENAR.

BLIND TO THEIR OWN INTEREST.

Palisades Park, Mich., Oct. 7.—A coal dealer in Michigan told me that when the lakes to the gulf waterway was opened he could sell Indiana and Illinois coal at least 50 cents a ton cheaper.

Wisconsin should share the same, and other freight shipments out and in would also come under that saving.

And yet the attorney generals of these states are unfriendly to the waterway.

DEFENSE STORY HELPS STATE IN TORTURE TRIAL

Convicts Tell Plan to Clear Camp Chief.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 11.—(AP)—A defense witness in the murder trial of two former prison guards testified today virtually in support of the prosecution's charge that an effort was made to deceive authorities into believing that Arthur Maillefert, young convict from Westfield, N. J., deliberately hanged himself in a sweat box at Sunbeam prison camp.

James Birmingham, convict witness, followed testimony by Harry Schneider, also a prisoner, that Maillefert had indicated he planned to hang himself on the chain locked around his neck and fastened to the box. Coy Mitchell, another convict, testified Maillefert had told him the night before of a plan to commit suicide.

Defense Motion Denied.

The state had closed its case against the two former guards, George Courson and Solomon Higginbotham. They are charged with torturing the young prisoner until he was so weak that when he was chained by the neck in the punishment box, he strangled on the chain.

Judge George C. Gibbs had refused to take the case from the jury on motion of defense attorneys.

Among the last state witnesses was Robert Blake, former head trusty at the camp. He had testified he had arranged with Courson for convict testimony to indicate the suicide of Maillefert.

Schneider told the jury he saw Maillefert "make a motion like he was going to hang himself" after being confined in the sweat box. The witness said he told what Maillefert had done and Courson sent a trusty for a key to the box. Maillefert was found dead.

Denies Convict was Whipped.

Schneider denied he had seen any one whip or abuse Maillefert. He said he did not know who put stocks on Maillefert's feet, or the chain around his neck. Schneider said Maillefert had tried to escape four times and had said he was "just as well off dead as to stay there and work."

Both Schneider and Birmingham said Blake came to them and asked if they would join in the plan to protect Courson.

"Blake wanted me to say", Birmingham testified, "I saw Jersey make the suicide signs."

Ernest Henley, third convict witness of the day said Maillefert's knees hung a foot or more above the floor of the sweat box, indicating there was little slack in the chain around his neck. Schneider had said the youth's knees were within four or five inches of the floor.

FORMER BOY EMPEROR PLANNING TO RESTORE MONARCHY IN CHINA

[Copyright: 1932: By the Associated Press.]

CMANGCHUN, Manchuria, Oct. 12.—[Wednesday.]—Sources close to the palace of Pu Yi, chief executive of Manchukuo, asserted today that the former "boy emperor" of China had received emissaries from China proper and discussed with them the possibility of restoring at least a part of the Chinese monarchy under the Manchu dynasty.

These sources declared that Pu Yi, the last of the Manchurian kings that ruled China for three centuries, cherished ambitions to restore the glory of that monarchy if possible.

It was asserted that Pu Yi and the Manchu-Chinese members of his entourage hoped that the opportunity for such expansion of Manchukuo would be provided after the Japanese military occupation of Jehol, west of Manchuria, had occurred. Japanese military authorities here appear to regard the occupation of Jehol as inevitable.

Debuchi May Return to U. S.

TOWIO, Oct. 12 [Wednesday].—(AP)—The foreign office announced today that there was "a strong probability" that Ambassador Katsuji Debuchi would return to his post in Washington before Christmas.

Ambassador Debuchi left Washington for home on leave of absence in August. The Japanese government then admitted unofficially that Debuchi's furlough would probably be permanent. There was no explanatory statement for today's change in plans.

Denmark to Boost Tariffs on Imports from America

COPENHAGEN, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The government today submitted a bill to parliament which would revise taxes and yield an estimated $3,600,000 in this fiscal year. Of the total $900,000 would result from increased tariff duties. Those especially affecting American exports would be tariffs on footwear, rubber boots, galoshes, silk, artificial silk, radio receivers and tubes, electrical installations, corsets, underwear, and articles of gold and silver.

TWO EX-LEADERS OF RUSSIA GIVEN TRAITOR'S BRAND

Communist Party Ousts Foes of Stalin.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 11.—THE TRIBUNE'S recent report of plots directed against Dictator Josef Stalin within the walls of the Kremlin, and which Moscow had denied, were proved to be correct today.

Leo Kamenev, former commissar of the Moscow district, former president of the council of peoples commissar, and brother-in-law of Leon Trotzky, and his friend, Gregory Zinoviev, former commissar of the Leningrad district and former president of the communist internationale, were expelled "as traitors" from the ranks of the communist party. Twenty lesser known bolsheviks were also ousted by the central executive committee of the party.

Accused of Undermining Party.

The decree, which was broadcast from the Moscow radio station, reported that both commissars were discovered by the Gaypayou to be falsifying documents in order to compromise the work of the party's control committee,

Once the powerful friends of Lenin, the two commissars are now inmates of Lubianka prison and it is uncertain whether Stalin intends to stage another theatrical trial in Moscow or quietly exile them to Siberia.

The decree also states that another powerful communist, Uglanov, who is credited with ending the Kronstadt revolt in 1921 and later was made secretary of the Moscow government's central committee, together with three other communists, has been expelled from the party and placed on probation for a year. Uglanov's group is charged with possessing counter revolutionary literature which was prepared by the Kamenev-Zinoviev group.

The Moscow press, commenting on this most sensational development since Trotzky was exiled, hails Stalin as the only true interpreter of Lenin's teachings.

The previous arrests of Kamenev and Zinoviev and their subsequent exile for plotting against Stalin in 1927 and their later abject apologies, which led to their reintroduction in the communist party, were recalled by the Moscow Pravda. The newspaper demanded exemplary punishment for "the traitors to the revolution."

A BLIND MAN MEETS BLIND WOMAN; IT'S HIS GIRL OF 50 YEARS AGO

PERTH, Western Australia, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Many years ago whenever young Charlie Sparkes went to a dance he looked for a girl named Annie. She was pretty and graceful, and there was no one else with whom he liked to dance so well.

Then he joined the gold rush to the west. He was never to see Annie again, for one day a piece of flying quartz struck him in the eye and destroyed his sight.

Charlie, old and blind, was sitting in the Braille society's home today. A woman joined him. She too was blind. She talked to him of the days when she was a light hearted girl 50 years ago. She told him of the dances she had been to in Melbourne and of a young man she always danced with there. "His name," she said, "was Charlie Sparkes."

They meet often now. They cannot see white hair and wrinkles. To each the other is young and handsome—gay, dashing Charlie Sparkes and beautiful Annie.

GERMAN PRINCE ACCUSED OF PLOT TO SEIZE RULE

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 11.—Former Crown Prince Friedrich Wilhelm was accused today by the Social Democratic newspaper Vorwaerts of plotting to overthrow the republic and restore the monarchy with the help of Chancellor von Papen, Gen. Kurt von Schleicher, minister of defense, and President von Hindenburg.

The newspaper said it is able to prove that the former crown prince recently declared that he is in perfect understanding with Von Papen, Von Schleicher and Von Hindenburg.

Would Be Made Regent.

"At a propitious moment Von Hindenburg is to proclaim the crown prince regent of Germany," the newspaper said. "The reichswehr [army], the national police, and 400,000 Steel Helmeters would assist him to keep power. Former Crown Prince Rupprecht of Bavaria will be proclaimed head of a Danubian kingdom on the same day."

The government said tonight that the charges are "a product of pure phantasy."

While rumors of the former crown prince's activities are stirring the German capital, Chancellor von Papen is in Munich, where he was received today with formal pomp and exchanged speeches with the chiefs of the Bavarian government.

Charge Constitution Violated.

The foreign relations committee of the reichstag today unanimously charged Von Papen with repeated breaches of the constitution and declared that the government would have to answer for this to the new reichstag to be elected on Nov. 6.

The Social Democrats today introduced a resolution in the Prussian diet demanding an explanation as to why the Prussian commissioner, Dr. Franz Bracht, failed to take measures to protect youngsters who came to Berlin last week for the Hitler rally.

The newspaper Welt am Abend charged that two children died out of 200 taken to hospitals as a result of exposure and insufficient housing and food while marching to Berlin from nearby towns.

SUICIDE VERDICT RETURNED.

A verdict of suicide was returned yesterday at the inquest into the death of William C. Crooks, 64 years old, who shot himself Monday while in the basement of his son's home at 7541 South Winchester avenue.

TRIAL OF BAINS IS DELAYED TO RETAIN LAWYERS

John Bain, head of the 12 closed Bain banks, and three co-defendants were given a continuance until Oct. 24 yesterday to obtain counsel to defend them against charges of receiving deposits while the West Englewood Trust and Savings bank was insolvent. Bain, his son, John H. Bain; his son-in-law, W. Merle Fisher, and Edward C. Barry were arraigned before Acting Chief Justice Philip L. Sullivan of the Criminal court. Fisher said that the illness of his wife had prevented him from hiring an attorney for the other defendants and himself.

Bain was president of the Englewood bank, his son was assistant to the president, Fisher was cashier, and Barry was a vice president. The elder Bain, his son and Fisher were convicted recently on a charge of conspiracy. Bain was sentenced to serve one to five years in the penitentiary. His son and Fisher were fined $1,000 each.

He-men like 'em Mild

YOU might think that a two-fisted fellow like the steel jack in the picture would like his tobacco strong. Not at all.

He wants his cigarettes mild and that's why he picks Chesterfields.

Mildness doesn't mean a smoke that's weak or flat or insipid or anything like that. In fact it's just the reverse. Two-fisted fellows as well as anyone else—men and women—want a cigarette that's mild . . . one that satisfies—and that's Chesterfield.

We believe that every smoker is looking for a cigarette without any "bite" or bitterness, and a cigarette that has a pleasing taste—and that's Chesterfield.

4 AUTOISTS FLEE AFTER COLLISION KILLS COMPANION

Stanley Ploczynski, 48 years old, 1050 West 32nd street, was killed yesterday when the automobile in which he was riding crashed into a concrete post under the viaduct of the Chicago and Western Indiana railroad at 35th street and Normal avenue. Four companions drove away in the car and left the body lying in the street.

The abandoned car was found at Morgan and 32nd streets, and the occupants traced through the license number. Arrested at their homes, the men said they were so excited after the accident that they did not miss Ploczynski. They are John Lychawa, 32 years old, 3216 Mospratt street, the driver; Louis Novak, 33 of 2922 Loomis street; Henry C. Koch, 37, of 1211 West 31st street, and Anthony Budney, 34 of 1023 West 31st street. They were held for the inquest.

The death of Ploczynski brought the Cook county motor toll for 1932 to 880.

Mrs. Fred W. Madary, 45 years old, 5532 Artesian avenue, was instantly killed and her husband, a Chicago policeman detailed at the Sheffield avenue station, was severely injured last evening when their automobile swerved from the highway and overturned near Wanatah, Ind. Mrs. Madary's brother, Alph Doolittle, who also was a passenger in the machine, escaped with minor bruises.

NEW HUNGARIAN CHIEF RENOUNCES HATRED OF JEWS

Famous Anti-Semite Says He Has Revised Opinion.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 11.—Making his debut as premier before parliament, Julius Goemboes, leader of Hungary's "commoner" cabinet, today sounded the death knell of feudalism and promised the people a new deal.

Goemboes, who is the first prime minister Hungary has had who did not have a count or baron in his government, told parliament that his first task will be to restore liberty for the people, freedom of the press, and the secret ballot.

Renounces Enmity to Jews.

In a dramatic statement he renounced his bitter enmity to the Jews. Goemboes once formed a secret society to exterminate Semites and is known as Hungary's greatest baiter of Jews. Today he took it all back.

"I want to tell the Jews I have revised my opinion of them," he said. "I realize now that they showed the same heroism and patriotism during the war and after as other Hungarians. Those Jews who are willing to share the fate and responsibilities of Hungary I welcome as Magyar brothers."

The premier shocked the feudal members of parliament by laying one of the chief causes of the economic debacle to the "greed of the capitalists." He promised the workers a new deal.

Wants Peace Pact Revised.

Goemboes pledged his government to work for the revision of peace treaties and equality in armaments with neighboring powers.

"I believe the allied powers already see the wrong they did us in 1919 and will not oppose treaty revision," the premier exclaimed. "Our enforced disarmament cannot continue unless our neighbors reduce to our level."

The premier's economic program includes drastic retrenchment in governmental expenses, lowering of interest rates, and reorganization of the credit system, no state dole, abolition of state enterprises operating at a loss, and more encouragement to private initiative.

U. S. ENVOY OPENS "PRIVATE" NAVAL PARLEY IN LONDON

Sees MacDonald and Admiralty Chief.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—Norman H. Davis, American delegate to the Geneva disarmament conference, who is now engaged here in a two-power naval conference with the British government, began work today by having long talks with Prime Minister MacDonald and Sir Bolton M. Eyres-Monsell, first lord of the admiralty.

Davis called on MacDonald at No. 10 Downing street. It is understood that the conversation was confined rather to a general discussion of the state of the world than specific questions on naval disarmament.

Seek Slashing Economies.

Even with the first lord of the admiralty the conversation did not become technical, but traversed the attitude of the two nations towards the general question of disarmament and the desire of both to find a solution which, while adequately safeguarding the interests of each, would enable slashing economies to be instituted.

Davis today also had a visit with Sir Walter Layton, leading British economist, with whom he discussed the probable course of the forthcoming world economic conference, which it now seems likely will not be held before the beginning of next year.

So far, it is stated, no question on war debts has arisen and if it is raised by any European country it is not likely that the American delegate will be in a receptive mood.

Herriot Goes to London Today.

PARIS, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Premier Herriot will go to London tomorrow to discuss the German arms question and disarmament generally with Prime Minister MacDonald. He is expected to confer with Norman H. Davis, American delegate to the Geneva conference, who is also in London. It is believed Herriott will take up the new French disarmament plan with the American representative. The French plan provides for a consultative pact which would include the United States.

Aurora Judge to Hear Suits in Subway Case

Judge John K. Newhall of Aurora was assigned by the executive committee of the Superior court to hear the condemnation suits and special assessment validation proceedings in connection with the State street subway and the widening of State street. The hearings before a jury will be started next week provided the city wishes to go ahead with the cases in view of the depleted condition of the city's transit fund. Technical objections in all of the cases were disposed of by Judge Ross C. Hall before he was assigned to the Appellate court at the beginning of the present term.

FOULKES' CLAIM TO MORRISON'S ESTATE DENIED

Fails to Prove He Was the Sea Captain's Son.

William E. Foulkes, 73 years old, 4216 Langley avenue, was again a loser yesterday in his fight for the $2,000,000 estate of the late Edward W. Morrison, retired sea captain, when Circuit Judge Thomas Taylor ruled that Foulkes had not proved his claim that he was the only surviving son of Morrison.

Judge Taylor upheld a similar ruling of the Probate court delivered in June, 1931. The claims of two adopted daughters, Alice Schenker and Margaret Burnstein Brown, also were denied. Capt. Morrison's will divided $100,000 among a number of distant relatives, gave $40,000 to servants, $5,000 each to the adopted daughters, and directed that the remainder of the estate be used to build a home for the aged in Chicago.

Whaling Cruise Influences Ruling.

Details of Capt. Morrison's long and picturesque career were outlined in the lengthy opinion. The old sea captain died in 1929 at the age of 93. Testimony that he had been on a whaling trip in the years 1858 and 1859 proved the convincing bit of evidence which caused the judge to deny Foulkes' claims, he said. Foulkes had himself placed his birth date as April 17, 1859, and thus he could not have been Morrison's son, the judge commented.

Foulkes, whose physical resemblance to the late Capt. Morrison was one of the points cited in behalf of his claim, left the courtroom slowly after the decision was made.

Introduced in Foulkes' behalf at the many hearings was evidence that Capt. Morrison had mentioned in barroom conversations that he had a son whom he believed dead. Foulkes claimed that he was the son of Morrison and Mary Prange, a domestic in the Morrison household seventy-five years ago.

Foulkes Plans Appeal.

The judge commented that the evidence offered in Foulkes' behalf was sufficient to have supported his claims if it had not been contradicted by a mass of evidence. Foulkes' attorney said he would appeal the ruling to the Appellate court.

Attorney Lewis F. Jacobson, representing the estate, said that most of the other claims on the estate had been settled. The most recent settlement was a payment of $15,000 to Mrs. Mary Ella Fowler of Waukegan, a grand niece, who had started suit last June to set aside the will. Her suit was dismissed following the settlement.

In January, 1917, Capt. Morrison returned from 30 years at sea to become a lavish spender of his father's $8,000,000 fortune. He was adjudged a spendthrift and his fortune placed in the hands of a conservator, while he was given an allowance of $100 a week. Later, his estate was returned to him and he then drew the will which deeded the bulk of his fortune to a home for aged men.

BURY M'ERLANE HERE WITHOUT USUAL DISPLAY

Frank McErlane, one of the few Chicago gangsters to die a natural death, was buried yesterday in Holy Sepulchre cemetery without religious services. The gangster, known to police as Chicago's most vicious killer, died Saturday of pneumonia in Beardstown, Ill. Unlike the funerals of other gang leaders, the ceremony was hurried and furtive.

The inexpensive casket was carried from the McErlane home at 6941 Anthony avenue shortly after McErlane's father had attempted to drive photographers away. The gangster's mother and his brother, Vincent, walked behind the body, shielding their faces from the cameramen.

Among the pall bearers were "Polack Joe" Saltis, once partner of McErlane in the beer business, and Eddie Kaufman, another liquor racket associate. Accompanied by nine automobiles, three of them loaded with flowers, the hearse was driven hurriedly to the cemetery. The mourners dispersed rapidly after the casket was lowered into the grave.

Relatives of Capt. Morrison Hear Decision on Will

R. F. C. SETS ASIDE $6,000,000 MORE FOR FARM LOANS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The Reconstruction Finance corporation announced today that $6,000,000 has been deposited with the treasury department as capital for its agricultural credit corporations at Minneapolis, Minn., and Wichita, Kas. Both regionals are expected to start making loans to farmers and stock men in their respective districts immediately.

The corporation has now placed a total of $18,000,000 in the treasury subject to call of the regional agricultural loan agencies, $12,000,000 having been deposited last week for the corporations in Columbus, O.; Sioux City, Ia.; Spokane, Wash., and Salt Lake City, Utah. Under the law, each of the regional credit offices must have an initial capitalization of $3,000,000.

The Agricultural Credit corporation at Minneapolis will serve farmers and stock men in Wisconsin, Michigan, North Dakota, and Minnesota, while the corporation at Wichita will serve the district comprising the states of Oklahoma, Kansas, Colorado, and New Mexico.

The board of directors of the corporation today approved a loan of $19,500 to the state of Texas to meet the emergency relief needs in Brewster county until the end of this year. Most of the fund, the corporation said, will be used in providing work relief, as much construction work has been made necessary by September floods which ravaged highways and bridges in Brewster county.

M'KEE OPPOSES NEW YORK PLEA FOR R. F. C. CASH

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee denied the appeals of civic and business organizations today asking the city to seek a loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation to build the triborough bridge and the proposed 38th street tunnel. He announced his opposition to asking Washington to help the city with these projects.

Explaining his opposition to the proposals, the acting Mayor said:

"If we did this we would be laying down a policy. If we go to Washington for funds to complete the triborough bridge, why should we not go there to finance subways and other city projects? Where would we draw the line? So far as I am concerned I believe it is fundamentally wrong for a municipality to go to Washington for funds to finance any projects like these."

U. S. COMPLETES 239 BUILDINGS FOR 89 MILLIONS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The treasury department announced today that on Sept. 30, 239 buildings, costing a total of $89,391,219, had been completed in the federal government's 700 million dollar construction program.

In addition to the 100 million dollars provided for emergency construction work in the relief act there is a total of $496,463,942 authorized and available for prosecution of the regular building program, the department said. Bids for work under the 100 million dollar emergency program will be opened shortly.

Besides the buildings completed in the original program, the department reported that 390 projects costing $311,472,923 are under contract. Sites for buildings to cost $28,047,504 have been purchased in the District of Columbia. Projects numbering 121 and involving a cost of $38,340,300 are either on the market with bids opened or are awaiting the drawing of specifications for bids.

Robbers Kidnap Tobacco Dealers; Get $3,150 Loot

Bert Selby and his son, William, owners of a tobacco jobbing business at 9263 Calumet avenue, were kidnaped yesterday by four men and robbed of $650 and a truckload of tobacco valued at $2,500. The robbers stopped the truck at Indiana avenue and 93d street, forced father and son into their automobile, drove them about, blindfolded, for an hour, and then released them at 62d street and St. Lawrence avenue.

SAYS SMALL'S TACTICS HAMPER RELIEF EFFORTS

The political speeches of Len Small, in which the former governor is trying to incite downstate voters to turn against Chicago, have made it extremely difficult to line up downstate legislators behind any legislative program for unemployment relief, Mayor Cermak charged yesterday in speaking to a delegation of unemployed men who called at his office.

"Why don't you go to the former mayor of Chicago, who is campaigning for Small," suggested Mayor Cermak, "and demand that he turn over to the unemployment relief commission the $100,000 which he collected from school children on the promise that it was to be used for flood relief?"

Urges Relief Bond Issue.

The delegation, headed by Glenford W. Lawrence, a member of the staff of the Chicago Commons, urged that, instead of a sales tax for relief purposes, the state issue bonds to obtain such funds, and that the bond issue be for the payment of rent of the unemployed as well as for their subsistence.

Mayor Cermak reminded his callers that the city is having extreme difficulty in marketing its tax anticipation warrants, and predicted that the same difficulty might be met in selling a large unemployment relief bond issue. He promised to use every effort to obtain funds to continue relief after Nov. 15, when the funds now on hand will be exhausted.

The delegation of unemployed also appeared before the welfare committee of the county board, where a plan was discussed to collect hundreds of tons of vegetables and fruit, which farmers in the Chicago area are said to have left lying in fields and orchards because of low market prices, for the use of Chicago's unemployed.

County to Make Survey.

At the suggestion of Commissioner Amelia Sears, chairman of the committee, a survey is to be made of the county highway and forest preserve equipment to determine how many trucks are available for collection of the produce. Commissioner Peter M. Kelly will approach railroad officials to see if they will give the use of box cars for the work.

59 CONTRIBUTE $419 TO HUNGRY CHILDREN'S FUND

Biggest Day Since 1932 Campaign Opened.

Thanks to fifty-nine TRIBUNE readers in the Chicagoland territory, the Hungry School Children's fund passed the $2,000 mark yesterday, just ten days after it had been announced that the fund would function again this year. The fifty-nine gifts totaling $419.05 were the largest for any one day since the fund re-opened.

The first $2,000 of the fund assures those charged with its administration that more public schools will soon be added to the list receiving free noonday lunches. This starting fund, however, will take care of only a few schools, and unless the gifts keep coming, Miss Frances L. Swain, head of the household arts department of the board of education, will be compelled to close the lunchrooms.

More Money Is Needed.

It will take thousands of dollars to do this winter's job. Last year more than $48,000 was spent providing free lunches daily for 10,000 children in 209 elementary, junior and senior high schools. The need this year will far exceed that. So in the joy over the collection of the first $2,000, that fact should not be forgotten.

There are many schools in every district of Chicago waiting in hopes that the Hungry School Children fund may help underfed children. Lunchrooms that were open to hungry pupils last year are desolate now. Small boys and girls sometimes summon the courage to ask their teachers if the lunchrooms are to open again; but seldom do they admit they are hungry.

There are many ways the teachers discover how hungry their pupils are. A child's eyes reveal a longing for food. Often a teacher overhears children discussing the situation at home. And sometimes, not as rarely as one might suppose, a child faints in school —from hunger.

Chicago Still Has Heart.

So it is with a renewed confidence that friends will see that the hungry children of Chicago are fed, that these following contributions are acknowledged. The large number of small gifts indicates that Chicago still has a heart even though pocketbooks may be flat.

Relief Now In Few Minutes From Pains Of Rheumatism

IT has now been discovered by thousands of rheumatic sufferers that the pains of that distressing disorder can be eased in as little as a few minutes . . . relief and comfort in almost as little time as it takes to tell!

Doctors advise two tablets of Bayer Aspirin taken with a full glass of water. Then a rest of a few minutes . . . and that is all. Pain is eased quickly—sometimes almost unbelievably.

Relief comes so fast because of the peculiar quick-dissolving property of Genuine Bayer Aspirin. The tablets you take dissolve almost INSTANTLY in your stomach. And thus you get practically instant relief. The fastest, safe relief—it is said.

Remember it is Genuine Bayer Aspirin which claims this quick-dissolving, quick-acting property. So be careful that you get the real article when you buy. See that any box or bottle you purchase is clearly marked "Genuine Bayer Aspirin." And that any tablet you take has the name "Bayer" stamped on it in the form of a cross. Then you will get quick relief.

Remember that when you buy. And remember, too, that Genuine Bayer Aspirin Does Not Harm the Heart.

GIRL GETS TOP PRICE FOR STEER IN 4-H AUCTION

End Sale of Farm Youths' Fatted Cattle.

BY PAUL POTTER.

Prize winning fat beef calves from some thirty counties in Illinois, Indiana, Wisconsin, and Iowa were sold at auction in the Chicago stockyards yesterday, to set a new high price of $12.25 per hundredweight. The calves, fed by farm boys and girls this summer as part of their 4-H club activities, commanded prices which will enable the youngsters to pay school expenses or to start farming this winter and next spring.

The auction, held under the auspices of the International Livestock exposition, closed a season of nine weekly sales of fat cattle raised entirely by farm youths. In all more than 1,900 calves were sold to the veteran buyers representing Chicago packing houses, to find their way to railroad nd hotel dining tables as prime steaks and roasts.

Girl, 13, Gets Peak Price.

Although prices have been ranging from $7 to $10 for the bulk of the calves, a special bidding yesterday resulted in establishing the price of $12.25 for a Hereford steer fed by 13-year-old Jean Turnbull, a 4-H club girl of Marshall county, Illinois. Her father brought in the calf, as the girl was in school. He explained that she had fattened the steer on shelled corn, alfalfa hay and soy bean meal. Jean bought the steer in Texas last spring, and took second prize in the Marshall-Putnam county fair with him.

"Hope of Middle West."

"None could have stood here during these nine weeks of selling the production of farm boys and girls without realizing that these 4-H club youngsters are the hope of our great middle west of the future," declared Col. Carey M. Jones, the auctioneer. "These youngsters have grit and optimism written all over them; and they represent nearly a million others in the country who will bring agriculture back into basic prosperity. They are the backbone of our nation."

Nearly one and three-fourths million dollars have been paid out in these calf club auctions in the nine years they have been conducted. The five large Chicago packing companies send their leading cattle buyers to bid on the "steaks on the hoof" and to encourage the youngsters in producing the kind of meat the modern American appetite demands.

CITY PAYS HONOR TO THE MEMORY OF GEN. PULASKI

Chicago last night paid impressive tribute to the memory of Gen. Casimir Pulaski, young Polish soldier who lost his life while aiding the American colonies in their fight for independence. Yesterday marked the 153d anniversary of the death of the Polish hero, who was one of the chief aids to Gen. Washington.

Last night's commemoration was held in the flag draped rotunda of the federal building with Collector of Customs Anthony Czarnecki in charge of the program. Reading of President Hoover's proclamation for the national observance of Pulaski Memorial day opened the ceremonies. The Star Spangled Banner was then sung by Sig. Gioyanni Pane-Gasser with the postoffice band playing the accompaniment. The Pulaski-Polish anthem was sung by the Chopin male choir and the St. Fidelis mixed choir.

Among the guests were Maj. Gen. Frank Parker, Senator Otis F. Glenn, Federal Judge Charles E. Woodward, United States Attorney Dwight H. Green, and representatives of the state and municipal courts. Drum and bugle corps from a number of American Legion posts participated in the program.

ATTACK LEGALITY OF NOMINATIONS FOR N. Y. MAYOR

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Assault on the legality of the mayoralty nominations of both Surrogate John J. O'Brien and Lewis H. Pounds was made before the board of elections today. The board received the protest, but adopted a resolution asserting its belief that the nominations had been properly made. The sponsors of the protest, who now have the right to take their case to the Supreme court, indicated they would pause before doing so.

WARNS BROADCASTING BY QUACKS MAY SOON SWAMP RADIO IN U. S.

A warning that radio channels in the United States soon will be swamped with exhortations of medical quacks broadcasting through powerful outlawed stations across the Rio Grande in Mexico unless action is taken promptly to halt the practice is the theme of an editorial appearing in the current issue of the Journal of the American Medical association.

The editorial points out that "John R. Brinkley, goat gland transplanter, mail order dispenser of medicines and candidate for governor of Kansas," has been authorized to increase the power of his Mexican radio station, XER, from 75,000 to 500,000 watts by the Mexican government. That power will make the station ten times more powerful than any in the United States and radio engineers say it will interfere with any station operating in a channel within 50 kilocycles of that used by Brinkley, the Journal says.

The editorial adds that a letter received from a Mexican correspondent indicates that "Cancer Quack Norman Baker" plans to build a powerful broadcasting station near Nuevo Lerido, Mexico, "presumably to promote the industry formerly exploited through his station in Muscatine, Ia."

"If this Mexican practice is to continue without interference," the Journal says, "American users of the radio may well anticipate for the coming years as the dominating theme of the broadcasts to which they may listen the lamenting and feeble baabaa of the castrated goat and the blatant charlatanism of Norman Baker."

RECOVER 12 ON NAVY AIRPLANES DOWN IN PACIFIC

San Diego, Cal., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Twelve aviators of the navy squadron of six planes lost in a thick fog yesterday during maneuvers off San Clemente island had been located late today, eight of the flyers being rescued from the sea. Two of the six planes sank in the ocean.

It was the first time in the history of west coast naval aviation that an entire squadron had been lost off the giant airplane carriers Lexington, Saratoga, and Langley.

Two of the planes, one piloted by Lieut. C. E. Cox with Sergt. S. J. Salcede as passenger and the other piloted by Lieut. W. O. Brice, squadron commander, with Gunnery Sergeant L. J. Norris as passenger, made safe landings at Pyramid Cove on San Clemente island, 100 miles northwest of here, before their fuel was exhausted. The coast guard was requested to bring them ashore.

The others made forced landings at sea as their fuel ran out, some of them near the scene of the maneuvers and the others scattered along a line toward the North Island Naval Air station, which the pilots hoped to reach.

ROBBER SLAIN, 2 PALS CAUGHT AFTER HOLDUP

Policeman Thomas McNulty of the Chicago avenue station killed a Negro bandit yesterday at Illinois and St. Clair streets as the bandit and two companions fled from the scene of a robbery. McNulty and his partner, Paul Nazeieka, captured the other two robbers, also Negroes.

The three holdup men entered the office of the Reaton Coal company, 521 East North Water street, and took $60 from the owner, M. J. Reaton. They became frightened and fled when half a dozen of his teamsters stepped forward to the aid of Reaton. Reaton fired at them with a shotgun as they ran and they turned and fired back at him.

Meanwhile the two policemen, in a district squad car, had received a radio report of the robbery and hurried to the scene. They met the three Negroes in Illinois street, a block north of the coal office. One of the three ran into an areaway, from which he opened fire on McNulty. McNulty shot him three times, killing him instantly.

The other two bandits surrendered to Nazeieka. They gave their names as Theodore Smith, 29 years old, and Robert Green, 27 years old, and said that their slain companion was Edward Larry, 30 years old. All lived at 4719 Calumet avenue, the prisoners said.

90 Degree Heat Wave Hits Los Angeles; City Swelters

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Temperature of 90 degrees enveloped Los Angeles and southern California today following rains and cloudy weather for a week. The visitation of midsummer weather was blamed on high pressure areas over Nevada, forcing the warm winds to the coast. The thermometer reached above 100 degrees in the surrounding localities.

Sullivan.

THREE BROTHERS READY FOR HIGH COURT PRACTICE

The ambition of Attorney Nicholas J. Pritzker to sponsor his three lawyer sons for admission to practice before the United States Supreme court at Washington will be realized tomorrow.

The father and the sons — Harry, Abram and Jack—will appear before the high court where the sons will be sworn in at the request of the father. Mr. Pritzer is in Washington attending the American Bar association convention and Abram and Jack are with him. Harry, a former assistant state's attorney, left Chicago for the capital last night.

TWO FACTS EVERY COLD-SUFFERER
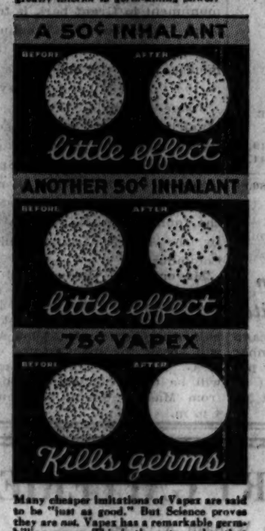
SHOULD KNOW

Scientific research tells you what's good to relieve the distress of head-colds

TESTS PROVE SUPERIORITY OF VAPEX

Unbiased tests by a prominent medical research laboratory prove that the vapor of a single drop of Vapex kills dense colonies of germs present in head-colds. In exactly similar tests, other inhalants (often offered as substitutes for Vapex) were shown to be greatly inferior in germ-killing power.



Many cheaper imitations of Vapex are said to be "just as good." But Science proves they are not. Vapex has a remarkable germ-killing power. This is the extra value that Vapex brings you at very little extra cost.

IN THE opinion of a prominent medical research laboratory, Vapex—the delightful inhalant—is a safe, natural, and effective way to relieve distress.

From their unbiased tests they believe that Vapex brings quicker, more general relief than gargles, sprays, drops, and salves. For a cold is an inflammation of the breathing passages. The natural relief is to breathe a soothing vapor, not to force liquids and salves into the nose. These are likely to be far less effective in penetrating the inner nasal passages.

Another important point is the germ-killing power of Vapex. Bacteria swarm in the breathing passages during a cold. And scientific tests prove that Vapex kills germs always present in head-colds.

You'll find Vapex is a reliable relief from sniffles and sneezes, from clogged-up head and nose, from that depressed feeling. Just a few deep breaths of the delightful vapor quickly make you feel better. And it's free from the muss and fuss and discomfort of many cold-reliefs. For all you need do is put a few drops on your handkerchief and at the ends of your pillow. You breathe your cold away!

Sold at all drug stores at a new low price. Insist on getting V-A-P-E-X. Used by millions of people all over the world.

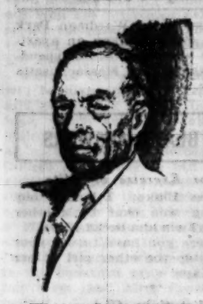
Review Two Good Books on Life of Indians

Frank Linderman Presents "Red Mother."

"Red Mother," by Frank B. Linderman. [Day.]
"Sitting Bull," by Stanley Vestal. [Houghton-Mifflin.]

FRANK LINDERMAN, author of one of America's epic stories, "American," the life story of an Indian, and "Old Man Coyote," a vivid and sympathetic transcription of the Indian's beautiful and imaginative legends and myths, has turned again to the life story of a member of the red race, this time the life of an Indian woman.



FRANK LINDERMAN.

Pretty Shield told the author her story in sign language with the aid of the Crow language which was translated by an Indian woman who knew both English and her native tongue. More than forty years of contact and friendship with the Crows have eminently fitted the author to write stories of them that are unsurpassed in sympathy, penetration, and accuracy.

Pretty-Shield is among the few living Indians who can remember the days before the white invasion and who are willing to talk freely and openly of that time. At the beginning of the interviews Pretty-Shield possessed curious reticences and embarrassments which under the excitement of the narratives she related and under the gentleness and sympathy of her hearer were gradually dispelled.

The stories she tells are in many cases only fragmentary and are without the expected narrative unities. Nevertheless the reader can piece the separate episodes together and with the aid of the author can reconstruct the life story of this brave and worthy Red Mother.

In "Red Mother" the emphasis is upon the woman's function in the tribe. The deeds and exploits of the male warriors are not, by the expressed wish of the author, directly related by Pretty-Shield. The life of the men is seen only in its impact upon the women. For instance, indirectly, in the war dances, the celebrations after and before battles, the activities of the women while their men are at war, the observation of mourning and the treatment of wounds, all reveal how powerfully the main interests of Indian men affected the lives of their women.

The author's approach, his wealth of detail, carefully selected and emphasized, his deep understanding and beautiful poetic appreciation of Indian life and lore make "The Red Mother" another triumph for Frank Linderman and his Indians.

"Sitting Bull" by Stanley Vestal is an interpretation of the Indian that is as valuable as Frank Linderman's though the author's approach is entirely different. The character of Sitting Bull, a renowned Sioux warrior, comes to his own in this biography. Ill fame and injustices have been accorded him. Was he a liar, a double dealer, an incarnation of treachery, a murderer and a fiend? In his preface Mr. Vestal thus inquires and replies very definitely, No. The list of informants and authorities, both white and red, is formidable. With the source material from wide and scattered witnesses the author proceeds to a narrative both factual and graphic. Naturally there is much fighting, fighting between tribes of red men and again between tribes of red men against white settlers and federal cavalry. Also there is considerable lore of the red man, odd picturesque speeches and brief letters from Sitting Bull in a lingo that makes clear what he wishes to communicate to the whites.

Besides having presented the reading public with a work of indubitable research values, he has at the same time done a good yarn covering a long period of years. It belongs among the foremost of Indian biographical works. It is a creation that will be saluted by all specialists in Indian history and lore.

It will also be sought by those who want a swift panorama of human elements that clashed in order that the white man might clear the Great Plains for farming, transportation and commerce. The author's last and noble tribute to a man to whom he has given his due is, "Sitting Bull, leader of the largest Indian nation on the continent, the strongest, boldest, most stubborn opponent of European influence, was the very heart and soul of that frontier. When the true history of the New World is written, he will receive his chapter. For Sitting Bull was one of the makers of America." M. D.

New Lingerie Wins Support for Ruffles

BY RHEA SEEGER.

IT'S a year of ruffles.

Even though you are one of the many shoppers who cling stubbornly to tailored models with the minimum amount of decorative motifs of fagoting or hemstitchings and eschew the lacy frills and vanities of your less strong minded competitors, you are going to weaken at the first sight of the new lingerie.

Some of the new nightgowns are eye filling. Bolero effects are achieved with rows of frilled fragile lace edgings . . . puffed sleeves edged with a ruffle and that ruffle in turn edged with fine lace. Quaint affairs that look like old fashioned high waisted evening gowns worn during the late lavender nineties will charm the most utilitarian soul.

You'll be surprised at the lovely sunshiny new shade of yellow that has sneaked into the best lingerie collections. There also is a cherubic blue that sighs for tow-headed blondes to appreciate properly such a heavenly tint.

But whatever pastel shade you seek you will find it among the new things that have fluttered into town. You can find tailored things, too, if you must have them, trim little affairs with clever hand embroidered designs across the chest, models without any lace, but with the fashionable ruffled theme. These ruffles, however, are restrained admirably, just a mere suggestion of flare and puckerings, but ruffles, nevertheless, that climb coyly over the shoulders and whirl around the lower edge of the full skirt.

These slender silk creations are available in baby blue, rose pink and flesh. Some of the more severe creations are made with dainty bound edges of contrasting color as the sole decoration.

Combinations fashioned in the same simple way and sleeping pajamas also featuring this Spartan mode of trimmings are all available in the three shades listed previously. French panties, and matching slips are bound with baby blue silk and delicate lacy fagoted motifs are found at the sides of the panties and the front section of the costume slip. All new slips are marvels of bias cutting, therefore assuring a long sleeved, unwrinkled base for your slimmest, most form fitting new frocks.

Deep cowl neckline dresses are still being worn by fashion-wise shoppers who cleverly resist any high necklines when that sort of a neckline is uninteresting and unbecoming . . . so the costume slips that are especially made with decorative insets of exquisite lace and embroidery solve the problem of a distinctive contrast for these smart black and brown dresses with the flattering draped revealing neckline.

Combinations, step-ins, nightgowns, French panties and slips are all fitted, intricately cut, and fashioned to provide the smoothest possible foundation for all the new fitted gowns for day or evening! Wide full skirts have all the flowing beauty and grace of a similarly designed heavy satin evening gown. Bodice tops fit sleekly with clusters of fine tucks and slenderizing diagonal seams to assure the youthful silhouette.

Prices continue most reasonable. Price tags encourage the desire to grab these delightful things while such good looking lingerie for every day wear is so alluringly decorative as well as practical and wearable.

Marie Healy, Young Soprano, in Recital at Kimball Hall

Marie Healy, a young soprano with a nice voice, gave a song recital at Kimball hall last evening. In matters of technical execution she has progressed some distance, being able to cope with such favored numbers of the coloratura repertoire as "Ah, Fors'e Lui" out of "La Traviata," Delibes' "Les Filles de Cadiz," and Hageman's "At the Well." Her voice is pleasant, even, and possessed of considerable agility, and she sings in several languages, though making few decisive gestures toward distinct projection of words in any of them. Three songs by Leo Blech were new to this pair of ears, and turned out to be highly agreeable melodies.

Henry Weber, Chicagoan and formerly a principal conductor with the Civic opera and at the Royal opera in Berlin, has been engaged by Alfredo Salmaggi for the season of opera at the Studebaker beginning next week. He will conduct the performances of "La Traviata" on Wednesday and "Rigoletto" on Friday, thereby sharing the task with Gabriele Simeone, who is scheduled for the opening performance, "La Gioconda," on Tuesday and "La Forza del Destino" on Thursday. Four performances a week will be given during the stay of the company at the Studebaker. E. M.

A Job a Day

Every little improvement we make in our home right now helps us—and the other fellow, too.

Have your guests a place to hang their hats and coats? Often a narrow little hall closet can be built into the home at small expense—useful for the children, too. Or an inconspicuous wall rack can be installed in some not too distant corner, a convenient harbor for wraps and hats. We place a lot of emphasis these days on decoration in the home. But since we live in it as well as look at it, we don't want to underestimate the importance of being comfortable.

Exercise Those Excess Ounces Off the Figure

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Exercises for the waistline! Exercises for the hipline! They're being asked for daily by correspondents. It must be the new frocks that are making so many women conscious of the mid-spread, which spoils a figure whether the dress waistline is down according to Patou or clinging to the highest rib, according to some of the other modes.

Let's pick a couple of easy exercises, ones that won't leave you feeling as if you'd been run through a roller. But effective ones—if you'll only do them. As said before, my theory is that one or two exercises done well, and frequently, are better than a series done discouragedly. It isn't, after all, the motions you go through that will pull down that waist fat. It's the vim, the interest, the sureness you put into them and the frequency with which they are done that counts.

So, beginning this a. m., not tomorrow [that date you never keep with yourself], try this one. Simple as all get out—but it will make a difference in the tape toll at the end of a couple of weeks, providing, of course, you don't undo the exercise good with overeating.

Get yourself ready for the toe touching performance every school child knows: Hands stretched high overhead, chest up, torso stretched up, then touch the toes, but don't stop there. Pull the hands high over the head again, turn on the waist and touch the toes with the fingers over the right foot. Up again to position, then turn on the waist in the opposite direction and touch the toes of the left foot. Go on doing this, describing more than a half circle in the floor touching. That is, keep on at the waist, turning and floor touching until you can make the floor back of the heel. Here you have a complete body stretch, a pull on the waist muscles in the turn, and another pull on body muscles with the toe touching.

For the hips, get down on the floor and swing one leg over the other, stretching the extended leg as far and as high up as you can. Reverse and do the other leg. I promise you these two exercises alone, done vigorously for a month, will get you a waistline you'll be proud of.

Designers Present Knee Length Coats of Fur to Paris Women

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—As an antidote for the short fur jacket, which has been in style these last few seasons, Paris indorses the knee length wrap of fur. Coats of this length afford an unprecedented opportunity for making over an old fur coat that is full length, and lots of French women are taking advantage of this fur coat fashion to extend the term of service of their old coats.

The furs that are used by the great Paris dressmakers for these knee length wraps are unclipped otter, nutria, seal, and astrakhan. The two smartest colors are gray and brown. The moderately short coat made of gray astrakhan, or krimmer, is going to be worn by some of the most elegant women in the world this winter over wool frocks for running around town and for sports. Equally chic will be the same kind of coat in the new coppery brown, and to achieve this shade an extraordinary amount of dyeing is going on. Logwood brown Alaskan seal, is, by the way, the exact color which is most fashionable.

The Heim coat, shown in our sketch today, is in this coppery brown, and in addition to having about sixteen inches subtracted from its skirt length, it has short capelets replacing the sleeves. The way the collar flares around the neck is important to its chic. It's a device to make the head look small and aristocratic, a necessity to style this winter. A looped scarf holds the collar in place and closes the coat at the neck. A button closes it at the waistline.

Girl Wants to Change Her Old Tactics

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"Gene" has been going out with a young man for six months now. During the time she has been allowing a good many mauling and kissing privileges. Now she regrets them. The young man says he is crazy about her, but she notices that he never introduces her to any of his friends. He takes her very few places, though he is not one of the unemployed. And lately he has been raving about a girl the other boys say "can't be kissed."

"Gene" wonders if it is too late now to try to act up to the desirability standard of the girl who holds herself aloof.

How about it, girls? Have any of you tried changing your behavior course in the middle of the stream? Were you able suddenly to convince the young man that you "aren't that kind of girl"? Or, in order to establish a clean slate, did you have to enroll a new youth's name upon it along with the new intentions?

It would seem pretty difficult for a young woman formerly lavish with her caresses to convince the recipient thereof that she had turned over a new leaf. It might be done, though, if she put enough conviction into voice and deed and confessed frankly to said young man that a new and unblemished career was the thing most earnestly desired now. It might be done, we say, if the young man could be convinced.

But it would take a gentleman of some understanding of human motives to respect the change. And men, where girls are concerned, are pretty simple souls. They believe what they see and what they know about girls from first hand experience. Judgments once established are hard to change.

It's worth the trial, then, "Gene." If the reform doesn't go over with the current boy friend it may be tried out successfully on another.

Queer, though, isn't it, girls, the way the puritanical old Adam rises to the surface, even in 1932, and responds with praise for the maids who know the art of holding the boys off?

Laurel-Hardy Team Obtains Results Again

"PACK UP YOUR TROUBLES."
Produced by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.
Directed by George Marshall and Raymond McCarey.
Presented at the Roosevelt theater.
Featuring: Stan Laurel, Oliver Hardy, Donald Dillaway, Jackie Lynn, Mary Carr, James Finlayson, Richard Cramer, W. L. Watson, Tom Kennedy, Charles Middleton, Muriel Evans, Grady Sutton, Montague Shaw, and Billy Gilbin.

By Mae Tinée.

Good Morning!

I hand it to Laurel and Hardy! They get the laughs! I don't know why or how, for the pair aren't funny to me—but more power to them for the merriment they're educing with their new, feature length comedy over at the Roosevelt!

"Pack Up Your Troubles" is slapstick, of course. You discover the dumbbell Hardy and the dead pan Laurel sunning themselves on a park bench, the time being immediately before the United States' participation in the world war. A recruiting officer gets the better of them and before they know it they're in the army.

Over there, over there, they experience their usual run of faux pases and contretemps, and, when the war is past, find themselves self-appointed guardians of the small daughter of a deceased buddy, Edward Smith.

The trick then is to find the child's wealthy grandparents.

They visit every Smith listed in the city directory—and that's some more grief. Chance—that almost lands the pair behind the bars of the Big House—at last rewards the patient search with goodness and mercy.

The picture sports some new gags and plenty dumbdora dialogue. It was directed by a pair who know their slapstick onions. Laurel and Hardy are Laurellier and Hardier than ever. Supporting players, especially clever little Jacquie Lynn as the child in the case, uphold their ends in good shape. Jacquie has a future, or I miss my guess.

If you care for this brace of absurdists—which most of you seem to do—and as I might if I had good sense—why then their latest venture should tickle you mightily.

See you soon.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Copyright, 1932, By Ivan Sanderson Co., Inc.

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his casebook covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

AN AMATEUR'S RECONSTRUCTION.

"Here you have an amazing case of carelessness and stupidity," said Walter Mayer. "You're certainly right, professor. Most criminals do convict themselves. Here's my reconstruction of the crime. See if you agree.

"Powell had been receiving threatening letters and last night the blackmailer found him alone in his apartment. Although Powell undoubtedly knew this man well, he had no idea it was he who had been threatening him.

"Having unsuccessfully demanded money, he walked over to the table there, and as Powell reached for the phone, shot him behind the ear. Then he became panicky and tried to make it appear as if there had been a desperate struggle here, with robbery as the motive. Look at the battered and mutilated furniture, the papers thrown about, the torn curtain, and the rifled petty cash box!

"As he was about to leave he remembered the revolver. There he slipped! He wiped off all the other prints, but overlooked that perfect one of his thumb on the butt, made as he fired. Another mistake. Look at that telephone. Had a struggle really taken place it would almost certainly have been upset. Not a very clever crime, I'd say!"

"You're right. When we identify that thumbprint, we'll know a good deal more about who faked it," replied Fordney, "but, Mayer, don't you see the biggest mistake of all?"

WHAT WAS IT?

The solution to yesterday's mystery appears on Page 35 today; the solution to today's mystery will appear in THE TRIBUNE tomorrow.

TO READERS OF "MINUTE MYSTERIES."

THE TRIBUNE has received numerous letters commending "Minute Mysteries." At the outset the solution each day for the day's mystery was published in the same issue, but on another page. Latterly the solution was held until the succeeding day.

Which method of presenting the solution is preferable, in the view of interested readers? THE TRIBUNE would be glad to hear opinions from readers on this point. Write to "Minute Mysteries," care THE TRIBUNE, Tribune square, Chicago, and tell what you think about it: which method is most interesting—the simultaneous publication of the solution or its publication next day.

Boxes Sold for Tibbett Concert.

Even though it is almost a month until Nov. 6, the date of a concert to be given by Lawrence Tibbett for the benefit of the free beds of the Passavant Memorial hospital, all but one of the boxes have been sold, so Mrs. William A. Yager, box chairman, reported yesterday at a luncheon and meeting at the Casino.

Mrs. Laurance H. Armour, who is helping Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum with the publicity for the concert, which is sponsored by the Woman's Aid society of the hospital, was hostess at the luncheon.

The tickets, too, are being sold rapidly, according to the chairman, Mrs. Charles K. Corsant, whose headquarters is in room 1114 of the Congress hotel.

All this was good news to Mrs. Joseph G. Coleman, president of the society, who recently returned from a summer in California, in better health than she has been in for several years. Mrs. Coleman has been president of the society for twenty-five years, during which time she has been one of the hospital's stanchest and most loyal supporters.

It is a joy to her as well as to her friends that her health will permit her to take an active part in the work this year, as well as in other philanthropic and social things in which she is interested.

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Miss Bundy is in poor health and acting peculiarly. She has hired a photographer, named Tilbury, as bailiff, and he and his wife, an illbred pair, hold a strange influence over her. Natasha Andreyev, Caroline's half Russian niece, acts as her aunt's secretary. She detests the Tilburys. Caroline tells Neil that her father, a man of science, was also a mystic. Caroline and the Tilburys hold nightly meetings in the library. Giles Gisbourne, vicar of a nearby parish, and his sister, Rachel, are friends of Neil's. Neil is attracted to Natasha, but is baffled by her odd behavior. She is giving money to a man she meets secretly. Caroline promises to visit Emily Braselton, an old friend, in Paris. Natasha drives her to London. Natasha returns a few days later and tells Neil that her aunt gave her a pearl necklace, which she sold. She receives a wire which Caroline sent from London, asking her to look for an alligator bag left in the car. The bag is not found. Caroline doesn't reach Paris. The police are notified. Caroline's body is found in a ditch near her estate. She'd been brutally murdered. Neil realizes that Natasha will be under suspicion. She refuses to account for all her time in London. Neil goes to London to check up on Natasha's movements there.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

UNCERTAINTY.

From Waterloo Neil took a taxi to the army and navy stores, where he sought out the head assistant of the wine department. His mode of procedure was simple and direct.

"I wonder if you can recall a lady who was here last Friday afternoon to make a complaint about an order sent to Stoke Paulton, Somerset?"

"Stoke Paulton!" The professional cheerfulness faded, to be replaced by a hushed formality. "I beg pardon, sir, but surely that's the address of the poor lady who's been——"

"Yes, Miss Caroline Bundy."

"That's interesting, sir. As a matter of fact, she did come in on Friday."

"You don't mean Miss Bundy herself came in?" asked Neil astonished.

"Why, yes, sir—a stoutish, very near sighted lady, about sixty, rather a red face. I know her quite well."

"What time was this?"

"Towards five o'clock, I believe. Can't say exactly. She seemed upset over something—wanted to know if a young lady, her niece, I think she said, had been here; but as I'd noticed no one answering the description, she hurried off. As it happened, the young lady had called only one of the other assistants had attended to her. I found it out later."

"Did she find the person she was searching for?" demanded Neil tensely.

"Might I see that assistant?"

"Certainly, sir Mr. Sanderson! Will you kindly step this way?"

A stripling, with wide brown eyes and an engaging smile approached.

"Mr. Sanderson, this gentleman is inquiring about the lady from Stoke Paulton who complained about the Chablis. You remember we mentioned it?"

Neil had Natasha's photograph ready for inspection. "Was this she?" he asked.

"Yes, indeed, sir. Tall, fair, dressed in a gray tweed coat, and carried a red bag? You see, I took rather particular notice of the bag, because—well, a friend of mine fancied she'd like one after the same style."

"Do you think the two ladies could have met?"

"Hardly, sir," answered the elder. "There must have been a good half-hour between their visits. The young one came first, and didn't know, of course, that her aunt was looking for her."

As Neil regained his taxi and whirled northward toward Wigmore street, an uneasy suspicion took root in his mind. If, as the Times, he met with confirming evidence, an extremely undesirable element would be added to the case. With nervous foreboding he mounted the stairs to the leading lending library and put his inquiries to the woman in charge of the returning desk marked with the opening letters of the alphabet.

The clerk addressed knew Natasha neither by name nor description. From her card index, however, she ascertained that Miss Caroline Bundy's two books—"Aspects of the West Country," and "Somerset—an Historical Review"—had been returned on Friday last.

His informant was trying to recall some detail connected with the books.

"I'm sure there was something . . . O, yes, now I know what it was. During the afternoon an elderly lady came in and asked me if they had been brought back. It seems she was very anxious to get in touch with the person who returned them—quite agitated, in fact. She said something about a valuable bag left in a car."

"Did she find the person she was searching for?" demanded Neil tensely.

"I'm afraid I can't tell you whether she did or not. It's possible, though, for later on, nearly six o'clock it was, I noticed her again. She may have been out and come back. I really can't say. All I know is she was peering about as though looking for some one."

He was right. Miss Bundy had done her utmost to overtake Natasha for the purpose of recovering her alligator bag. That the two had missed each other was explained by the fact that while the girl had gone first to the stores and second to the Times, her aunt had reversed the order. But how could one be sure they did not finally meet? There was only Natasha's word to refute the suggestion.

Suddenly he became transfixed by terror. Supposing the pearl episode came out, what conclusion would be drawn from all this? How easy to assume that Miss Bundy's agitation over her bag was due to that bag's containing the string of pearls! Public opinion might justifiably contend that the old lady had pursued and overtaken her niece, only to find her bag rifled; that accusations and threats of exposure were silenced by a murderous attack, following which the body was transported to a far distant locality, in order to create as much mystery as possible and incidentally to delay knowledge of the crime. Why, but for accident, the assailant might have been a thousand miles from England before her victim's fate was discovered. Had she not made plans for a speedy departure?

All at once Neil felt he must get at the whole truth or go mad. The desire to help Natasha was now one with the urgent necessity of satisfying himself. In short, he did not see how he could face another day in the grip of this horrible uncertainty.

With these thoughts in mind he dashed on to the Regent street shop where Natasha had made the purchases which now seemed so significant. A list of them was in his pocket—a woolen pull-over, a pair of driving gloves, a leather coat, all intended for the Persian sojourn. Yes, on Friday and Saturday she had completed preparations down to the smallest detail, the puzzle being, of course, that she had not set off at once.

In two departments of Hobson and Weaver's he learned nothing, but in the coat section he met with better luck. A young saleswoman with well waved chestnut hair recognized Natasha as the customer who, on Friday afternoon, had tried on several coats and finally selected a dark green one. She had not seemed at all hurried, indeed had taken considerable trouble over the fit and quality of the garment.

Neil's fears receded. Impossible to conceive of the girl as placidly deliberating in a fitting room with a victim either dead or alive imprisoned in a car outside. Moreover, if she had not run into Miss Bundy at the Times the chances were heavily against her having done so at all. Whatever the Persian venture meant, it could not be a flight from the consequences of guilt.

Much cheered, he went on to the Carlton hotel, where, as he could not penetrate the ladies' cloakroom he managed a meeting on the grillroom stairs with the little, white haired woman who presided over the aforesaid sanctum. She listened acidly and shook her head over the photograph.

"There's always ladies popping in and out," she declared scornfully. "Unless they want sewing up or something in the toilet preparation line, I've no call to look at them twice. This one I know I've never seen."

Similarly not one of the dozen waiters he interviewed had the least recollection of Natasha, though all had been on duty last Friday. Slightly damped, he walked up the Haymarket to Piccadilly Circus to try his luck at the gigantic Lyons restaurant fronting Shaftesbury avenue. Reaching the second floor, he singled out the head waitress and put his case to her. She was friendly and interested.

"If you can show me where your friend sat, I might be able to help you. You see, the tables are divided into sections, so many to each waitress."

"It was either the fourth or fifth along that outside row. Anyhow, it was near the window."

"Friday, was it? That's too bad. Either Miss Douglas or Miss Pilcher must have served her, and they're both gone. Miss Douglas has been transferred to our Hammersmith branch, and Miss Pilcher's got another post, or so I've heard. Here, Dolly!" she called to a soubrette just tripping past with a bristling array of cutlery. "Know what's become of Gwen?"

It appeared Dolly could not say where Miss Pilcher had gone, but on Wednesday, which was her free day, she might possibly find out from a gentleman who was acquainted with the latter's cousin. She offered to drop Neil a line if he would leave his address. He did so, thanked both the girls, and asked which they preferred, a musical comedy or a play. After much giggling a choice was made for Owen Nares' latest success.

"And the other one—Miss Douglas, was it? Can I get hold of her?"

Newsprints Manufacturer Launches Project.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 11.—J. R. Booth of Ontario, newsprint manufacturer, and Ted Eshbaugh, a young artist from Boston who mingles mechanical and administrative talent with his art work, have combined to form a new producing agency to put out animated cartoon shorts in color.

They bought rights to all Wizard of Oz published material, and already are halfway through with the first film with Frank Baum Jr., who succeeded his father as Oz author and publisher, helping in the writing.

Booth, whose sister married Prince Eric of Denmark, is forty or fifty times a millionaire and a young man of 35, who commutes from Canada to Hollywood to participate in this latest interest of his. Eshbaugh as a youthful prodigy had a scholarship in the Chicago Art Institute at the age of 7 and was a scholarship winner in art when he and Booth met each other at the Boston Art museum.

The pair are pioneers in a new system of applying color to films and did not take a step toward actually making a motion picture until their process was, in their belief, perfect as a result of five years experimenting at laboratories which Mr. Booth installed on his Ontario estate. That they have something that appeals to the major film studios which have spent so much money in past efforts to give the American public satisfactory colored film is indicated much to the satisfaction of Booth and Eshbaugh, by offers made them by major companies wishing to negotiate for their process. The offers were rejected.

They call their new firm "Multicolor Fantasies." Their product will be one reelers of about 800 feet each. Carl Stallings is doing their musical scoring and directing. All their films will be animated sound cartoons, although, according to Eshbaugh, their process can be applied to give color to action films also. As a sideline, Booth and Eshbaugh plan to come out within 90 days with a 16 millimeter version of their animated sound films, the size used in home projection machines.

Eshbaugh explains that their pictures are colored on celluloid, and two negatives made of the same pictures at the same time, which are then superimposed to produce one print to which the colors adhere. "We were the first ever to get a good reproduction in yellow," he said. "We call our process perfected because it is the first time in applying colors to films that any one has been able to get the effect of regular, ordinary every day color. The reds do not jump at you. The colors do not overlap, glitter, get blurry or hurt your eyes.

"We are able to come out with it at this time because one year ago materials and operations made it five times more expensive to put out color films than at present. With our process, which we know is the most economical yet devised in the film industry, it now costs us only about twice as much to put out color films as it would cost to put out black and white."

Sharon Lynne is back in films after one and a half years, with a final "E" on her name. When she temporarily quit pictures, and married Barney Glazer, film magnate more than a year ago, Sharon was resentful because her tenure as a featured Fox actress presented her only as a song and dance girl; no song, no dance, no short skirts and long silk stockings to be worn, no Sharon. Her first comeback film, as "Bing" Crosby's sweetheart in "The Big Broadcast," strangely has Miss Lynne doing no singing—that is all taken care of by Mr. Crosby.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The chief justice and Mrs. Hughes headed the company entertained at dinner tonight in the Canadian legation by the minister and Mrs. Herridge in honor of the marquis and marchioness of Reading, who arrived here this afternoon from New York, where they were entertained last night by the English Speaking union of the United States. They landed in New York Friday from their home in England. The president of the Canadian Bar association and Mrs. Newton W. Rowell were also in the dinner company tonight at the Canadian legation.

Mr. Rowell was entertained at luncheon today at the Metropolitan club by C. F. R. Ogilby.

Mr. and Mrs. William F. Dennis have as their guests Mr. and Mrs. William Mitchell of Minneapolis, who have come here for the meeting of the American Bar association.

Mrs. William Fitch Kelley of Chicago and Washington, who has been in her country home, The Knoll, since her return from Aurora, Ill., has closed the place and gone to New York and after a week at the Waldorf-Astoria will go to the Wardman Park hotel, where she has taken an apartment for the winter instead of spending the winter in her Massachusetts avenue home.

DORIS BLAKE ANSWERS

Calls for Exercise of Wits.

"Dear Miss Blake: I love a boy who is being won over by another girl. How can I win him back? KAYE."

That's where you have to use your wits, and outdo the other girl at her own game, Kaye!

Flirtatious Girl.

"Dear Miss Blake: My girl says she cares for me, yet she carries on a flirtation with other boys. Please advise. JEALOUS."

Tell her that you will do the same thing if she doesn't quit flirting.

All's Fair in Love.

"Dear Miss Blake: I like a boy who likes another girl, yet he shows in a way that he cares for me. Please advise. BLUE EYES."

No reason why you shouldn't try as hard as the other girl to win.

THE reason Cranberry Sauce goes so well with all meats and poultry is the delicious sweet-tart flavor of the berry itself. It's at its best made this way—

"10-Minute" Cranberry Sauce (Stewed Cranberries)

Boil 2 cups of water and 1½ to 2 cups of sugar together 5 minutes, then add 4 cups Eatmor Cranberries. Boil without stirring (5 minutes is usually sufficient) until all the skins pop open. Remove from fire when the popping stops, and allow the sauce to remain in vessel undisturbed until cool.

We will gladly mail to you free our new Eatmor Cranberry recipe book.

Looks 10 Years Younger Brushes Away Gray Hair

Now you can really look years younger. Simply brush away those unsightly streaks or patches of gray. It is so easy to do—and at home—with Brownatone. Over 20 years of success recommend this proved method. With an ordinary small brush you just tint your hair back to its natural shade—whether blonde brown or black. Guaranteed harmless. Active coloring agent is purely vegetable. Does not coat the surface. Actually penetrates the hair. Defies detection. No tell-tale, flat "dyed" look. Cannot affect waving of hair.

No need to guess. First cut a lock of hair from your head and apply a little of this famous tint. If Brownatone does not give your gray, streaked, dull, or faded hair its natural color, youth and sheen, your money back. Only 50c.

Mrs. Davis and Mrs. Eames MacVeagh are in charge of the program.

St. Luke's Style Show Models

At the first glance at the list of models for St. Luke's fashion show one might suppose that there wouldn't be any of society left to be in the audience the list is so long, but, of course, there are the fathers and mothers and husbands and beaux of the models, and they would make a good sized assemblage by themselves even if there weren't hundreds of others who are interested every year in seeing the parade of fashion and beauty that is staged for the benefit of the hospital.

Most of the women and girls who will be mannequins on the afternoon and evening of Oct. 25 in the showings, which are to be given in the ballroom of the Stevens hotel, were at a tea given yesterday by Mrs. George A. Ranney in her lovely new apartment at 1260 Astor street, although some of the debutantes did not come in from Lake Forest on account of Miss Jean Schweppe's luncheon and shower for Miss Polly Perry. Miss Dorothy Ranney, whose portrait hangs in the beautiful gray and white dining room, and Mrs. Press Hodgkins poured. The list of models is as follows:

Miss Edith Behr	Mrs. Robert S. Pirie
Miss Betty Brawley	Miss Josephine Patterson
Mrs. Scott Bromwell	Mrs. Howard Peabody
Miss Louise Brewer	Mrs. John Prosser
Mrs. Murray P. Brush Jr.	Mrs. Stuyesant Peabody
Mrs. Willard Borden	Miss Dorothy Ranney
Miss Imogene Bucklin	Mrs. Walter J. Rooney
Mrs. Peter Berkey	Miss Mary Reed
Mrs. Arthur D. Bissell	Miss Mary Redmary

Daughter Born to Casserlys.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Casserly of New York and San Francisco are being congratulated on the birth of their second daughter last Friday in San Francisco. The new baby is a grandchild of Mrs. John B. Casserly of San Francisco [Cecelia Cudahy] and a grandniece of Miss Mary and Miss Clara Cudahy of Montecito, Cal., formerly of Chicago.

Mrs. Freeman Hinckley returned on Monday from Boston, where she and Mr. Hinckley recently opened their town house after having closed their summer estate at Prouts Neck, Me. Mrs. Hinckley spends part of every winter in her Chicago apartment at 209 Lake Shore drive, making frequent trips to the east.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellsworth Laflin who returned just last week from their wedding trip to Germany, are among those who have made reservations for the luncheon symposium on "Germany in 1932," to be held by the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations tomorrow at the Palmer house.

Others who plan to attend are Mr. and Mrs. Solomon Smith, Russell Tyson, Mrs. Rawleigh Warner, the German consul general, Dr. Hugo Simon, and Mrs. Simon, who were in Germany all summer; Mrs. Henry M. Dawes, Mrs. Richardson Dunham, Charles L. Strobel and William B. Hale.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Ripley [Janet Kirk] will return from their wedding trip to Honolulu during the second week of November. They will be at the Whitehall for the winter and in the spring will move out to Winnetka.

Chauncey Blairs Move Today.

Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Blair are coming in town to their apartment at 70 Cedar street today from Lake Geneva where they have spent the summer at their resident, Casa Bonheur.

Miss Margaret Hockaday of Evanston will be one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of her brother, Lincoln Bradford Hockaday, to Miss Helen Stuyvesant Voorhees, to be solemnized on Saturday, Oct. 29, at Trinity Episcopal church at Lenox, Mass., and Willard Newton Hockaday will be his brother's best man.

Miss Voorhees is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clark Greenwood Voorhees of Old Lyme, Conn., and of Lenox, where the Voorhees family has been identified with the summer colony for 60 years.

Mr. Hockaday, the son of Mrs. Isaac Newton Hockaday of Evanston, was graduated from Yale in 1928 and is now with the St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice H. Needham announce the engagement of their daughter, Nedra, to Earl Bruce Millar III., son of Earl B. Miller Jr.

The north shore women who manage a rummage sale every spring for the benefit of Grove House for Convalescents in Evanston are having a fall one, too, this year because of the need for more funds at the institution.

The sale is to be held on Wednesday, Oct. 19, at 740 Custer avenue, Evanston. White elephants may be left at that address on Oct. 17 and 18, or at the residence of Mrs. Frederick S. Colburn, 1012 Lake Shore boulevard, Evanston. Mrs. Colburn is vice president of the board of Grove House and Mrs. Morris K. Wilson is president.

Mrs. Ellwood Offutt and her daughter, Miss Nelle Offutt, have returned from their summer estate in Maryland and have taken an apartment at 33 East Division street for the winter. Nelson Offutt, who is attending the University of Virginia, will join his family for the holidays.

Another Anti-Hoarding Campaign

"Stop hoarding" is the cry of the first year Junior Leaguers just now, for they are busy collecting old clothes for their sale on Oct. 20 and they want all the cast off clothing they can secure. In this picture Miss Alice May Dickinson is wearing an old hat and holding an armful of them which have been donated and are at the Drake hotel to be marked. Miss Dickinson, a debutante of last year, is publicity chairman for the sale. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

There's a tang to these cool fall nights and golden, leaf strewn days that simply hauls one out of warm houses and stuffy business offices. Something that demands the donning of heavy oxfords, stout whipcords and wooly sweaters. Something that will not let one rest until gray miles of road and coloring woods have been covered, and arm loads of crimson maple leaves and nodding purple asters are brought home to turn prosaic rooms into delicious autumn bowers.

But wood fire smoke and husky hikes do tremendous things to the appetite, and nothing can so well satisfy huge fall hungers and thirsts as great frosty jugs of apple cider and toppling piles of crusty, feathery, mother-made doughnuts!

What's more, with Halloween rushing to meet us and Thanksgiving a close second on the fall schedule, enthusiastic cooks all over town are busy sleuthing out old doughnut recipes, working new wrinkles into standard fried cakes, and inventing smart innovations in the cruller line.

There's one thing, though, to remember. Nothing is better than a well made, thoughtfully fried doughnut—and nothing more atrocious than a poor one. And since so many cooks seem to turn out tragedies from the hot fat kettle, here's for a few quick doughnut do's and don'ts.

First—one of the worst crimes against a good fried cake dough is to fat soak it. It leaves it greasy to the touch, oily to the taste and heavy and solid in texture. Fat soaking is governed by four important factors—the time we fry the cakes, the proportions of different ingredients we have used in the making, the temperature of our frying fat and the amount and type of surface the doughnuts possess.

To explain—usually the higher the cooking temperature the less fat will be absorbed, because, when a good crust is formed at once by hot fat, it protects the inside of the doughnut from taking up unwished grease. Too, the longer we cook the doughnuts, the more fat will be absorbed. Experiments show that the most luscious results come when the cook fries her cakes at 350 to 356 degrees F. or 175 to 180 degrees C.

Also, the greater the surface area in doughnuts, the more fat is absorbed. By this I mean, that the same amount of dough stretched into a larger cake or given more surface by being left rough and torn, will take up more fat than its compact, smooth brother.

The temperature of the ingredients when mixed also plays a big part in tenderness and fat soaking. Eighty degrees F. or a bit under seems to give the best success. Another cause for many of the sad fat absorptions is undermixing of the dough. When the flour has barely been stirred smooth in the fried cake batter, not enough of its strength or gluten has been developed to resist the inrush of fat. Also, since doughnuts are much like butter cakes in their behavior, it is well to cream the butter, sugar, and eggs thoroughly before adding the flour.

As for ingredients, there seems to be a "brother go find your brother" tendency, for whenever a cook thinks to raise the richness of her cakes by increasing the fat beyond the given and tested proportions, she finds that more fat has entered in the frying. Your recipe, if it is high in sugar, may also take up more fat than mine which may be lower. An increase in eggs also gives a chance for fat absorption as the thinner dough seems to gobble up the grease.

Experimentally minded cooks have also discovered that if they allow their fried cake dough to stand for half an hour before frying, it picks up less fat from the kettle and is much fluffier and better in volume than as if it were fried at once after mixing.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Brokaw will take possession of an apartment they have leased in the towers of the Waldorf-Astoria on Nov. 1.

Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Gould Jennings are passing the autumn at Mailands, their home in Greenfield Hill, after a summer abroad.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lapham have left by plane for San Antonio, Tex., where they will remain for the winter.

Miss Mary Louise Hatch, the daughter of Mrs. Ralph Tilden Hatch, has left for St. Paul, Minn., where she will spend a few weeks.

Mr. and Mrs. Granville Barker sailed tonight on the Europa.

Child Suffers if Watched Too Constantly

Needs Some Freedom, Says Mrs. Bevans.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

One afternoon last summer we were sitting on the beach and I happened to glance up just as they appeared at the top of the flight of steps leading down from the pavilion.

Their descent was impressive. In the center was a little blond girl of about 2. Holding her hands and bending over her in a hovering attitude were no less than three grown people, her father and her mother and her nurse. The mother and nurse held one hand and the father held the other, guiding her solicitously inch by inch. I thought I must be mistaken. I looked again. No, down the shallow steps they came, all holding her hands.

Perhaps she has had some trouble with her legs, I thought. So I watched them after the party was settled. She was a perfectly well baby child. She was just being hovered over within an inch of her life.

As they all seated themselves on the sand some one of the three was always touching her, or kissing her, or smoothing her curls. When she went to the water's edge of the safe beach, or even walked about the sand, some one or even two of the three had hold of her hand every second. The gaze of all three was centered on her every motion.

Other tiny boys and girls of the same age were romping at the edge of the water and sometimes in it quite alone, independent as far as they knew of any grown up. There was a sturdy, interesting freedom about them which offered a strong contrast to the too sheltered little blond child. It was an object lesson for any one who found diversion and interest in watching their "beach babies."

Of course, I understand the feeling which makes a small son or daughter seem so precious, so delectable. I understand the instinct to hover. But I've seldom seen such a striking example of people giving rein to that instinct, and of its unwisdom. The child was hampered by it. She did not know it nor did her parents, but she seemed cramped and undeveloped compared with the other children.

If we adore our babies, some of us need to make a conscious effort not to hover. We must express our adoration in a way that is wholesome for them. We may do our "hovering," but we must do it in our hearts.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Appeal to Music Teachers.

"One of the children in a large family is a bright, attractive young ster who has a burning desire to learn to play the piano. There is a piano in the home. Do you think some teacher, a reader of your column, would give these lessons free in her spare time? The family is most deserving, and the father has always had good positions but for the last five years he had been afflicted with 'creeping paralysis' which forced him to give up his work. He tried selling papers and magazines but had to give that up, too, because his fingers are too helpless to enable him to make change. G. M."

The teacher who offers his or her service here will be well rewarded, I am sure, for the child is ambitious, eager to learn, and should make excellent progress if she has any talent. The family lives on the south side.

Hard Drinking Cat from India Placed in Museum Display

The toddy-cat, hard drinking member of the civet family, has been added to the exhibits at the Field Museum of Natural History. The animal, which preys upon the home brew of India, gained its name from the habit of drinking the contents of buckets fastened to trees by natives to catch the sap. Allowed to ferment, the sap becomes a stimulating drink. The toddy-cat remains concealed in the top of a tree during the daytime and comes out only at night to carouse.

The bear cat, or binturong, of southern Asia, the Indian mongoose, and the meerkat of Bechuanaland, South Africa, also have been added to the museum exhibits. The meerkat, according to Dr. Winfred H. Osgood, curator of zoology at the museum, is among the first sun faddists. The animal lies for hours on its back to expose its underside to the sun's rays, Dr. Osgood said. The bear cat is distinguished by its long prehensile tail, used for climbing. The mongoose is noted for its activity as a killer of poisonous snakes.

No Added Cooking Needed

Now, in an instant, you can prepare baby's cereal feeding with the minimum of effort—with every assurance that this cereal is better for baby. Simply season as directed and warm to feeding temperature!

Gerber's Strained Cereal is ideally designed as a first solid food. Made of finely ground whole wheat and hulled oats, plus added wheat germ for extra vitamin B—it provides the natural grain nutrients in abundance. It's cooked in whole fresh milk, which increases the food value and gives it a delightful flavor. M'CARTHY SIGNS $100,000 YANKEE CONTRACT

FOUR ATHLETES FAIL TO HELP FELLOW VOTERS

Dub Chance to Speak for Young Set.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.

[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

New York, Oct. 11.—Apparently not much is to be expected of the younger set in politics. The football players are generally regarded as the finest specimens of young, male American citizenship, but in the present campaign only one gesture has come from this element and that one gesture was a typical act of ballyhoo.

From the nonfootball playing masses of the college set, nothing at all has been heard. The politicians among them, as usual, are engrossed in their own conniving, trading and quiet promoting, with a view to obtaining offices of influence and petty prestige for themselves and their cliques in school.

Just Like the Big Show.

The political system in the colleges is actually a toy model of that of the cities, states and nation, and the nonpoliticians among the students shun it and abhor it very much as the common citizen neglects the political affairs which concern his government. They may vote in the major elections, but in the meanwhile they have had no voice in the selection of the candidates whom they will have to vote for if they wish to vote at all. That is all arranged by the handshakers and other politicians.

So, far from combining into any new and vigorous force while they are in school and exerting that force when they are graduated, the students merely train themselves for acceptance of the established system.

The undergraduate politicians use their fellow students for laboratory experiments in election control and, with this excellent practice, prepare themselves for public careers in later years. The passive majority learns to submit to boss rule.

The one stroke of the younger element in the present campaign was performed by four football players of recent vintage. Albie Booth, Chris Cagle, Eddie Mays, and Shipwreck Kelly called on President Hoover in Washington and told him they were for him.

Well, Hardly——

It is doubtful that Mr. Hoover would have received them and stood for a newspaper story and picture with them if they had called to tell him that they thought he had been a failure as President and intended to oppose him with all their energy. But, of course, the campaign committee made sure that the political views of the four football players were perfectly sanitary from the Republican point of view before the interview was ever suggested.

The importance of the four votes which were thus pledged to the Republican ticket does not seem commensurate with the length of time it took to bring off the meeting and with the cost of travel for the young citizens. If the President were to receive personally all the citizens who intend to vote for him, in groups of four, he would not have much time left for his other duties and the railroads would be cluttered with quartets playing bridge and singing "Sweet Adeline" bound to and from Washington.

I think it will have to be admitted that this visit was in the nature of a testimonial and that, on the whole, it showed considerable gall in the young football players.

Remember the Testimonial Gag?

Time was in the advertising business when a prominent or notorious person's indorsement of any article was deemed sufficient to bring the customers a-running to the stores to buy some of the same for themselves. The mere fact that a famous actor, for instance, smoked a certain brand of cigar implied that everybody else ought to smoke the same brand.

This phase passed, but the football players who called on Mr. Hoover seem not to know it, for in their reported conversation with the President they added nothing to the reasons why any one of doubtful mind as to the election should decide to vote for him. Yet there was an implication that because they were going to, other people ought to; otherwise, why the exploitation?

The boys were in a position to advance some ideas or speak out for the younger element from which so much is always being expected and nothing worth while is ever being heard, but the accounts of their visit suggest that they were just so many tongue-tied, blushing sightseers, too self-conscious and perhaps too dumb to offer anything but the words the committee had arranged for them to say.

A Lot of Nerve!

Having so little to offer, they had plenty of nerve to imply that because they had been famous in football and were voting a certain way, so ought every one else, or at least a good plurality of the citizens. They were good football players and, with their prominence, if they had any political merit at all, they could easily be of some service among millions of people of their age who have peculiar problems not shared by any other group.

Instead, however, they were just exathletes being led by the hand for a ballyhoo appearance which never could have been pulled off at all if the four of them together had had sufficient political dignity or merit to bring up one single issue of the campaign. This is the extent of the younger set's contribution to the campaign. It is pretty childish.

Four flagpole sitters would have had just as much right to the same reception and the same publicity.

BUCKEYES AWAIT WOLVERINE INVASION

Junius Ferrall, end on the Ohio State team, practices tackling on Bill Carroll, while Carroll practices dodges on Ferrall in preparation for the Michigan game at Columbus Saturday.

Hinchman Out as Ohio Girds for Michigan

Columbus, O., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Lew Hinchman, Ohio State captain and half back, was confined to his bed today with lumbago, aggravated by a recent automobile accident.

In the scrimmage against reserve and freshmen teams, using Michigan plays, Keefe took Hinchman's place in the back field with Carroll, Cramer and Vuchinich. Part of the practice was devoted to changing the offense for the Michigan game, in which Ohio expects to continue its recent success against the Wolverines.

Ohio Shakes Jinx.

Once upon a time when one mentioned Michigan to Ohio State partisans, they paled. For it was not so many years ago that the Wolverines thrived on Buckeyes and grew bold. Ohio teams tackled Michigan partially beaten before the kickoff. Folks began referring to Michigan as the "jinx."

And then the tide turned. Ohio won a few games; confidence returned to the Buckeye camp. Ohio soon began to look on Michigan as just another team and more victories were achieved. Last fall a team badly beaten by Vanderbilt went to Ann Arbor the underdog. It won, 20 to 7, the worst defeat Michigan ever received from an Ohio team.

The Buckeyes have won three out of the last four games against Michigan, triumphing in 1928, 1929, and 1931. The completeness of this reincarnation was demonstrated early last May when the Buckeyes met Michigan on five occasions and won on four.

They All Win.

Ohio had never beaten Michigan in track; yet the Buckeyes triumphed last spring 74 1-3 to 60 2-3. In golf, Ohio scored its first victory since the Michigan series was started in 1924. The tennis squad won, 4 to 2, and the baseball team split a doubleheader with Michigan.

Therefore there is but little talk of "The Michigan Jinx" on the Ohio State campus now. The two teams have met 28 times in football since 1897. Michigan has won 20 times, lost 6 and tied 2 games.

Talking it Over

BY ARCH WARD.

H. W. HARGISS.

The University of Kansas has ousted Bill Hargiss, football coach, because of unsatisfactory conditions on the squad. The unsatisfactory conditions developed after Kansas lost to Oklahoma, 21 to 6, last Saturday.

Of course, I do not believe for an instant that the disappointing showing of the Jayhawkers against one of their leading Big Six rivals had anything to do with the dismissal of Hargiss, because I have read repeatedly that the universities expected coaches to model the lives of young men and that victory after all was unimportant.

So it must be that the Kansas academic leaders felt that Hargiss was not doing a good job of modeling.

No doubt there will be some who will entertain the debasing thought that Hargiss was removed for failing to obtain results as measured by victory and defeat. But this is un-American and of course will be ridiculed by the right thinking element.

No matter what the reason for the unpleasantness at Lawrence, you can't escape the idea that a coach's life is no bed of roses. Suggestion that he is entitled to more salary than the average instructor invariably brings forth fierce yelping from educational circles, but have you ever heard of a professor being fired because his boys were outsmarted by a group from a neighboring school in the season's big cerebral test?

Unlike the coach, the professor is not required to give yearly or weekly proof that his work is good. No time is set aside for him to display publicly that his pupils have absorbed the real significance of the Italian Renaissance or the contributions of Hellenic culture to modern civilization.

No professor at Kansas has had to send his charges into the stadium before 35,000 persons to demonstrate their knowledge of the underlying causes for the fall of the Roman republic or to explain why do, dare, dedi, datum take the dative.

So what?

The Catholic Youth organization is making a constructive contribution to boxing. Impressed by the sportsmanship displayed in the Golden Gloves tournament and convinced of the need of more virility in the youth of the land, the Most Rev. B. J. Sheil, with the approval of Cardinal Mundelein, last winter inaugurated the Catholic Youth boxing tournament.

The second meet is now under way. It promises to be even more successful than last year's, which attracted 1,600 entrants.

Amateur boxing can remain amateur only as long as control of the sport rests with responsible organizations.

Outlining the results he hoped the tournament would accomplish, Bishop Sheil said:

"In order to build up character in boys, competitive sports must be operated on a high plane. They must give the atmosphere which tends to bring out in strong relief the qualities of courage and stamina and at the same time emphasize gentlemanly conduct even in the heat of combat.

"If competitive sports fail here, they are useless and futile. So we have decided to surround amateur boxing not only with definite entrance safeguards but with certain rules of conduct which all contestants must live up to. Thus we hope to develop sportsmanship as well as ruggedness and courage."

U. S. Polo Team Complete for Argentine Tournament

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 11.—(AP)—The United States polo squad which will compete in the Argentine open championship and in the international series for "the championship of the Americas" was completed today by the arrival of seven players to join Winston Guest and Michael Phipps, who came by airplane a few days ago. Those who came on the Western Prince today were James P. Mills, Seymour Knox, Elmer Boeseke, J. C. Rathborne, William Post, Stephen Sanford, and Carleton Burke, the team manager.

DAILY DOUBLE PAYS $1,307 AT HALF MILE OVAL

Only Three Hold Tickets on Combination.

BY FRENCH LANE.

A long shot carnival which startled Chicago's regular race goers came off over a muddy track before a crowd of 6,000 at Sportsman's park yesterday.

The headliners were:

Raffle- Con and Dark Star, winners of the second and third races thus completing the daily double. The three folks who hooked 'em up collected $1,307.58, which is pretty quick action and tall profits on a two dollar bill.

Others in the very center of the spotlight were David's Own, winner of the first race, which returned $102.42 to each of the spectators who backed him. Then there was Free Helen, a daughter of Alibi-Helen Atkin, which won the fourth race and paid $27.04.

Happy Fellow Wins Feature.

After all the long shots rolled home, the ranks of the favorite players were so depleted there was hardly a cheer for Happy Fellow when, as the public choice, he won the Goldenrod purse, the best race on the program. Happy Fellow deserved a great big hand when he captured the Goldenrod.

Tom Brown made his first bad start of the season when he sent the field away. A horse was left flat footed when he yelled "come on."

The horse left was Happy Fellow. When he finally began galloping he left the gate with all the tape from the rubber barrier wrapped around his neck.

He was at the clubhouse turn and far behind, before he shook off the tape. Then Jockey L. Feeney guided him in next to the rail and saved ground at each of the short turns. Adsum was cutting out a dizzy pace and it didn't look like Happy Fellow could ever catch him.

Happy Fellow finally nailed him on the final turns and with Feeney riding him hard down the stretch he managed to conquer Adsum in the last stride. Lazy Mary seemed to become dizzy from so much whirling around the track, she went wide on all the late turns but managed to save third money.

Happy Fellow has been a sensational performer around Chicago all season. He's a nephew of Man o' War. His daddy is Play Fellow, a full brother to Man o' War, and he was cut out for a good horse. He never became one, and was running to be claimed for $1,500 yesterday.

Winner Pays $6.88.

With the favorite players weakening he mustered enough support to make him the favorite at $6.88 for each two dollars wagered on him. He ran the mile and seventy yards around the half mile oval in 1:54 4-5, which was quite remarkable time, considering the condition of the track.

It was the second victory Jockey Feeney had scored. This same long legged kid booted Dark Star to his triumph to complete the rich daily double. He had to show just as much skill on Dark Star as he did on Happy Fellow to get the decision. Looks like Feeney will win a lot of races at Sportsman's park.

Old timers had a chance to cheer when Penchant, another noted half mile track performer, won the sixth race. The cheer was for Jockey Will Boganowski, the oldest rider in the jockey ranks at Sportsman's park. He's been smashed up in more spills than any other jockey in America. Yet he's still at it in the hazardous half mile track racing game.

A. A. EXPERTS VOTE CRAWFORD MOST VALUABLE

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Clifford Crawford, who played first base for the Columbus Redbirds during the 1932 season, was named as the most valuable player in the American association. Crawford, who has been recalled by the St. Louis Cardinals, received 41 points from the experts.

Russell Van Atta, star St. Paul pitcher, was voted second place with 34, while Ernie Wingard, Indianapolis, was third with 33. Others were Evar Swanson, Columbus, 27, and Rosy Ryan, Minneapolis, 23.

In the Wake of the News

NORTHWESTERN'S STATUS.

SINCE returning from Ann Arbor several neutral football followers who take their gridiron pleasure at Dyche stadium because of its proximity to their homes have asked us, "Is Northwestern a flop and out of it for the season?"

PUG RENTNER.

Categorically, Northwestern is not a flop. It is not out of it for the season, except, probably, insofar as the championship is concerned.

Northwestern met in Michigan a great eleven, a team of balanced strength. Before the contest the principal questions were whether the Wolverines could violate Michigan precedent by reaching an early season peak and whether they could stop Rentner. They did both. Even without the fumbles, several of which were due to poor passing more than faulty handling, Michigan impressed as slightly superior.

With Michigan victories over Michigan State and Northwestern, the Ann Arbor team figures to go through with a clean slate despite a schedule which includes Ohio State, Illinois, Indiana, Chicago, and Minnesota in the conference. Overconfidence might bring an upset, but Coach Kipke probably will guard against that. Purdue right now is the leading contender and these elevens do not meet.

Northwestern traveled to Ann Arbor as under dog despite a co-championship rating with Michigan and Purdue last year. Its principal hope was in Rentner and Olson. Northwestern's line was under suspicion. The line, on defense, more than held its own. Rentner was not at his peak. Because of an injury he had been out of practice drills part of the time during the two weeks previous to the game. Olson's advantage in punting was more than offset by Newman's running back of punts. The result was just about according to most forecasts.

Northwestern has as future opponents Illinois, Purdue, Minnesota, Ohio State, and Iowa in the Big Ten, and Notre Dame. Purple chances against Minnesota and Ohio State are considered at least even or better. Purdue should be given a shade. Illinois and Iowa to date figure as Purple victories. These estimates are based on comparative showings and readers know how uncertain is football. But Northwestern is far from a flop in the estimation of rival scouts. Somewhere along the line Rentner, if he does not suffer further injury, is likely to have a big day.

Under a thorn tree once I knew—
Out of the sun, out of the dew—
The hush was sweet, no tempest came
That quiet way of simple fame.

Other houses have sheltered me . . .
None so well as the hawthorn tree;
When tile or shingles grow old and thin
The snow blows through and the rain drips in.

The thorn tree solace still beckons me;
The tax is paid and the rent is free;
Under its branches wide and low
Are the dreams I knew in the long ago.

N. U. Warned to Forget Role of Santa Claus

"Throw away your white whiskers, and stop playing Santa Claus."

This was the charge given to Northwestern's football team by Coach Dick Hanley yesterday as the Wildcats got down to serious work for the Illinois game Saturday.

Coach Hanley had specific reference to the frequent fumbles in the Missouri and Michigan games. Against Missouri the Purple lost four scoring opportunities because of fumbles and in the Michigan game fumbles paved the way for both of the Wolverines' touchdowns.

Better ball handling by the backs and improvement in the blocking and tackling of the entire squad was the objective of yesterday's workout. The colder weather accompanied by chilly lake breezes added considerable zip to the daily practice session.

Sutton Rejoins Squad.

Chilly Sutton, hard hitting full back, has rejoined the squad and may be ready to play Saturday. Sutton, who played guard last fall, was changed over to a full back last spring and surprised the coaches by the power he displayed in this position. Sutton's ankle was sprained in the varsity-freshman game three weeks ago.

Several changes in the Wildcats starting lineup may be put into effect Saturday. Paul McDonald may start at center as a result of the performance he turned in against Michigan. His work on pass defense was especially lauded by the coaches. Nifty Kostbade, reserve end, likewise is being considered as a starter because of his play in the Michigan game.

Band to Make Trip.

A large delegation of Northwestern fans will accompany the team to Champaign Saturday. The fact that the game will be homecoming for the Illini has served to heighten the interest. Northwestern's band of 160 pieces also will make the trip.

Jimmy De Forest, Trainer of Ring Champions, Dies

Long Branch, N. J., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Jimmy De Forest, one of the best known trainers in the history of pugilism, died late today at his home here.

De Forest had been ill for some time and recently was a patient at the Long Branch and Hazard hospitals here, but returned to his home shortly before his death.

De Forest was known to millions of fight fans as the man who trained Kid McCoy and who brought Jack Dempsey along the championship trail to the heavyweight title. One of his last appearances in the public eye was when he trained the wild bull of the pampas, Luis Angel Firpo, for his spectacular career in the American prize ring.

Philadelphia, Pa., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—George Strazzieri, who, police said, was struck on the head by a golf ball at the Juniata Municipal golf course, died today.

MANAGER FOR 3 MORE SEASONS; PAY INCREASED

Predicts Good Year for Babe Ruth.

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—A three year contract was the reward which Col. Jacob Ruppert conferred upon Manager Joe McCarthy today for his piloting of the New York Yankees into an American league championship and a four straight world series triumph over the Chicago Cubs.

Announcement of the signing of a new contract was made by Secretary Ed Barrow following a conference earlier between Ruppert and McCarthy. Though the terms were not disclosed, it is understood they provide for an increase of $5,000, giving McCarthy at least $100,000 for the three year period.

Thus was marked another step in the career of the aggressive man who never played a game of major league baseball and yet has hung up an astonishing record as a manager in the last seven years. The first five of those were spent as manager of the Cubs, whom he lifted out of last place and into a pennant winner in the National league in four seasons.

Pilots Yanks Two Years.

Deposed by the late William Wrigley at the expiration of his five year contract in 1930 in favor of Rogers Hornsby, McCarthy was signed to pilot the Yankees. In his first season, last year, he advanced the team from third place to second, and this year he gave his employer a pennant and a world championship.

"Just followed the Colonel's orders," was McCarthy's modest response to the congratulations that poured in on him from his friends.

It was McCarthy's first visit to New York since the windup of the series in Chicago. He had hurried to his home in Buffalo immediately after the fourth game to undergo a minor operation on his nose.

Plans to Take Rest.

Asked what his plans were now that he had been assured of leading the Yankees for three years more, he replied:

"A little rest, boys, and away from baseball. I know you fellows think we had just a breeze, but believe it or not it was quite a strain at that."

Curiously enough, though it gave him considerable personal satisfaction to have scored so decisively over the club that had dropped him two years ago, McCarthy had a kind word for the Cubs.

"They hit our pitching pretty good and but for a few plays that went badly against them they might have given us a much harder fight. However, I expected their pitching, especially from Bush, to be better."

Lauds Herb Pennock.

The outstanding performer of the series in McCarthy's opinion was Herb Pennock, despite the fact that others contributed more glamorous deeds.

"His relief work in the third and fourth games," said McCarthy, "was a masterpiece in the art of pitching. He put every ball exactly where he wanted it and he stopped the Cubs in their tracks."

There was, of course, one more question.

"What about Ruth? Do you think he is good for another year?"

"I don't know why not," was the McCarthy rejoiner. "He still can wallop the ball and as long as he continues to wallop it he'll certainly be our right outfielder."

BARTH, OLYMPIC CHAMPION, WINS FIRST PRO BOUT

Cleveland, O., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Carmen Barth, who won the Olympic middleweight boxing championship by scoring the only knockout in the Olympic finals, made his professional debut tonight by winning a six round decision from Gene Marsh. Although starting poorly, Barth warmed to his work to win the last five rounds easily. Marsh beat Barth two years ago in an amateur contest.

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Cornelius Whitney's Hell Diver, a game juvenile son of Peter Pan, under expert guidance by Jockey Robertson, easily won the major portion of the purse for the $2,000 Oceanus Claiming handicap, six furlong feature, at Jamaica today. Little Lad finished second, two lengths behind and a similar distance in advance of How High, the favorite. The winner stepped the distance in 1:12 4-5 and returned 5 to 1.

Jockey Takes Rail at Start.

Robertson gained the rail at the start and opened up a length lead on How High. Little Lad and Garden Message, an added starter, were rated off the pace until the turn out of the back stretch.

Jockey Pascuma sent Little Lad along and quickly passed How High, but in the final drive could not reach the leader. How High did not show his usual high turn of speed and raced evenly to finish third.

Mareve Wins for Mills.

In a long stretch battle Jockey Mills on Mareve, the favorite, defeated Jockey Louman on Lebam in the mile and seventy yards of the fifth event. Exiled finished third in the five horse field.

Mareve and Lebam dominated the running, with the former holding tenaciously to his short lead throughout the final furlong to score by a half length. The winner opened at 7 to 5 and receded to 11 to 5. The time was 1:45 4-5.

PURDUE PRIMES RUNNING ATTACK FOR WISCONSIN

Back Field Shines in Pass Defense Drill.

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Improving the running attack to match Wisconsin's heavy scoring power occupied the attention of Purdue's coaching staff this afternoon as the Boilermaker squad turned out in force to start intensive drills for the homecoming clash with the Badgers here Saturday.

All of the ailing members of the squad were out in uniform as Kizer launched an extended session in which perfection of blocking details was emphasized. Judging from the afternoon's session, the Boilermakers will line up with practically the same combination that carried the brunt of the battle against the Gophers, although Dutch Fehring may start at left tackle.

Following the offensive drill, considerable attention was devoted to perfection of the aerial defense, with the varsity backs working against a freshman eleven drilled on Badger pass plays. A backfield composed of Hecker, Horstmann, Purvis, and Pardonner knocked down the yearling passes with ease and appeared to be the most alert on a pass defense that it has been this season.

BADGER TEAM UNCHANGED.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Wisconsin began serious football preparation today for the game with Purdue Saturday. Members of the first and second teams scrimmaged for almost 40 minutes, using line plunges almost exclusively.

Except for a few temporary shifts in the lineup, Coach Clarence Spears maintained the team that played the longest against Iowa last Saturday. He apparently has decided on members of the back field. The back field tonight consisted of Nello Pacetti, Joe Linfor, Harold Smith, and Mickey McGuire.

Training of the team in line plays is based upon early reports that Purdue's line is weak, although this was not evident in the Boilermakers' game with Minnesota last week. Various combinations of defensive play were worked against the first team tonight. The second team was used first on the defensive. Later the freshmen and the other teams had their chance.

HOOSIERS STOP HAWK PLAYS.

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Freshmen teams using Iowa offensive and defensive formations opposed the Indiana varsity today. The Indiana first team showed well in breaking up Hawkeye offensive play. The workout was strenuous and included stress on fundamentals as well as drill on intricate plays. Indiana's offensive was given much attention by the coaching staff. Fuqua, Babb, Stickann, and Opasik, back field men, made long gains through the freshman line.

FRESHMEN HIT IOWA LINE.

Iowa City, Ia., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—University of Iowa football players received the second hard scrimmage of the week today following a long lesson of blocking. Freshmen using Indiana plays took the ball during most of the scrimmage and were able to make frequent gains.

Coach Ossie Solem moved Francis [Sud] Schammel, 220 pound sophomore, back to right tackle after trying him at full back yesterday. Kuhn, Schneidman, Laws, and Moffitt made up the first string backfield. Ash and Schmidt, who started the first two games, were sent to the second team.

Kuhn was given a trial at punting and probably will do part of the kicking if Schmidt is out of the Indiana game.

GOPHER REGULARS REPORT.

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—All of Minnesota's regular football players were back in action after a day's rest, but the coaches spent most of today's practice developing reserve strength for the back field. Bill Proffitt of Buffalo, N. Y., who has been third string full back, was moved to a half back position as the reserves put on a strenuous scrimmage with the freshmen.

The regulars were given new plays for use against Nebraska Saturday and then ran through signals for more than an hour. Jack Manders' knee seems to be none the worse for the hard Purdue game. Red Griffin, regular quarter back, was released from the hospital today and watched the workout.

KIPKE STRESSES DEFENSE.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 11.—[Special.] — Michigan's freshmen team scrimmaged the first team substitutes and the B team today while Coach Harry Kipke kept his first 15 men on South Ferry field for further work in the building of an airtight defense.

Tom Austin, sophomore tackle, who played against Northwestern last Saturday, will celebrate his homecoming to Columbus by starting against Ohio Kipke announced. Herm Everhardus will be at right half in place of Jack Heston.

IRISH SCRIMMAGE.

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 11. —[Special.]—Notre Dame began preparations for the Drake game today with the third team scrimmaging against the freshmen.

Canale and Rascher were at ends, Leading and Barstow at tackles, Schiriralli and Pierce at guards and Robinson at center. In the back field Murphy called signals, McGuff and Tobin played half back and Leonard full back. Coach Anderson plans to divide the time against Drake equally among his first three teams.

DRAKE MORALE LOW.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Practice was ragged and spirits were low in the Drake football camp today, partly because of the impending game with Notre Dame Saturday and also because of Barney Myers' broken ankle. Myers suffered the injury at the start of scrimmage today. He was a candidate for a half back post and had filled a blocking rôle in practice sessions during the last five weeks. He suffered the injury the first time he was called upon to carry the ball.

Entire Iowa Conference to Play This Week

Davenport, Ia., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The remaining two members of the Iowa conference, Luther of Decorah and Iowa Wesleyan of Mount Pleasant, which have not yet played conference openers, will see action this week-end. The 12 other teams in the conference also have scheduled games.

Two conference elevens broke into the victory column last week, while Central of Pella, regarded as an early favorite for the championship because of its defeat of St. Ambrose, lost to Simpson.

At the present four teams are tied for first place. Iowa State Teachers of Cedar Falls has the best record with two conference victories, while the remaining three teams have won one each. Colleges tied for the lead are State Teachers, Simpson of Indianola, Upper Iowa of Fayette, and Morningside of Sioux City.

Major Game at Decorah.

The eyes of the conference will be turned toward Decorah Saturday, where Luther college, always a strong eleven, meets State Teachers. Since 1928 State Teachers has been waiting to defeat Luther. This season the Cedar Falls team has its best team in four years.

Other conference games Saturday are Central at Iowa Wesleyan and Penn at Upper Iowa. Friday games will be nonconference affairs. St. Ambrose of Davenport invades Rock Island for its annual Tri-city night game with Augustana college, a Little Nineteen team. Nebraska Central meets Western Union at Lemars, and Buena Vista plays Doana college at Crete, Neb.

Nonconference Games.

Saturday's nonconference games include Columbia of Dubuque vs. Minnesota Normal at Whitewater, Minn.; Simpson vs. Cornell at Mount Vernon, Ia.; Waterburg vs. Dubuque university at Dubuque, and South Dakota vs. Morningside at Sioux City.

The standings of Iowa conference teams follow:

	W.	L.	Pct.	Pts.	Op.
Iowa State Teachers	2	0	1.000	21	0
Morningside	1	0	1.000	32	0
Upper Iowa	1	0	1.000	20	0
Simpson	1	0	1.000	20	6
St. Ambrose	2	1	.667	47	18
Central	2	1	.667	30	33
Parsons	0	1	.000	0	6
Columbia	0	1	.000	0	7
Penn	0	1	.000	0	14
Dubuque	0	1	.000	0	26
Western Union	0	1	.000	0	32

2 BACKS EXCEL IN SCRIMMAGE AT DE PAUL U.

The outlook for the game with Ripon Saturday assumed a more cheerful aspect yesterday despite the continued absence of Denny Reed and John Sexton, 195 pound guards, who were expected to supply the necessary weight for De Paul university's line. This was occasioned by the play of Eddie O'Brien, half back, and Jim Condon, full back, in a long scrimmage.

They looked the part of first stringers and undoubtedly will win the starting honors against Ripon. O'Brien will take the place of Matty Steffen if the De Paul captain is handicapped Saturday by his hip injury.

Harry Engle, half back, appeared in good condition for the first time this season. He has been crippled by a shoulder injury. Another returning member of the hospital corps was Bert Lannon, center, who has been out since the first game with St. Viator.

SIX DAY RACE IS OFFICIAL NOW; REGGIE TO RIDE

Reggie McNamara, the Iron man of six-day bicycle racing, will compete in Chicago's 28th international race at the Stadium Nov. 2. McNamara is regarded as one of the greatest athletes in the world.

McNamara won the six-day race in Madison Square Garden last March and last week won the race in Toronto, Can. McNamara has won 16 six-day races, finished second in seven, third in twelve and fourth in seven.

He has suffered a broken leg, broken ribs, broken nose and jaw, and a fractured skull during his long career.

Maroons Study Indiana Plays in Scrimmage

The Maroons yesterday had one of those typical midseason practice sessions, which consisted of plenty of hard work on fundamentals, topped with an arduous hour of scrimmage with the freshmen. All hands were present and cheerful, with the exception of Bart Smith, injured end.

Two freshmen teams, one decked out to resemble Indiana and another in the jerseys of the Illini, ran through the plays which the Maroons must face in succession after the final practice game with Knox at the Midway Saturday. The "Illinois" team worked against a second string Chicago line without great success.

Varsity back field men spent the early hours in punting and signal drill. Pete Zimmer, whose work so far indicates that he will be the chief fireworks of the Maroon attack, came in for a round of congratulations from visiting alumni for his work in the Yale game. "Every time Pete took the ball Yale nearly had heart failure," Coach Stagg observed.

Knox, with a fairly heavy team, has been handicapped so far this season with injuries, but will be in good shape for the game Saturday, according to reports from Galesburg. Coach Stagg probably will test a number of his reserves Saturday.

KNOX USES NEW PLAYS.

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Work on blocking and tackling and drill on new plays occupied the greater part of the Knox practice session today. Knox college meets the University of Chicago Saturday. The quarter back no longer will call signals, it was announced today. Knox is going back to the huddle system for the Chicago game. Chet Wellman of Riverside, end, will call plays.

Jerry Paul, end, who was tried out in the back field against Augustana last week, performed so well that he has won a permanent job. Lewis and Vitali have been trying out for his old place and it was indicated today that the latter would start along with Wellman.

An epidemic of grippe has struck the team. Coach Earl Jackson and a number of players are ill. Coach Jackson, however, was able to direct practice today.

Corbett, Sisk Will Replace Grange Sunday

Coach Ralph Jones is grooming two new Bear half backs to replace Red Grange Sunday when the Green Bay Packers come to Wrigley field. They are Sisk and Corbett. Sisk probably will start with Corbett relieving him.

It will be the first time Corbett and Sisk have faced such professional veterans as Dilweg, Lewellen, Blood, Michalske, Nash, Earpe, Hubbard, Comstock, Stahlman, Bruder and others who have kept the Packers at the top of the league for three years.

Punting Dual Imminent.

Punting has been an important item in previous games between the Bears and Packers and Sunday undoubtedly will be no exception. In Nesbitt the Bears have one of the outstanding punters in the league. He will be competing against Verne Lewellen and Clark Hinkle, a newcomer from Bucknell.

First place in the league will be at stake. Both teams are undefeated. The Bears have played ties in their three games, while the Packers have won three and tied one. Thus defeat Sunday will mean stepping down, as the Bears and Packers are the only league members undefeated.

Packers Bring Band.

Special trains will bring Packer fans and a band from Green Bay and other parts of Wisconsin. It is expected that 6,000 will make the trip from Wisconsin.

MICHIGAN NORMAL HARRIERS TO MEET KALAMAZOO TEAM

Ypsilanti, Mich., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Deprived of their scheduled opening competition with Ohio Wesleyan last week by the latter's cancellation for financial reasons, Michigan Normal's cross country squad is preparing this week to meet Kalamazoo college, winner of six straight M. I. A. A. titles, over the local course Saturday.

Three sophomores and the same number who were members of last year's varsity, none of them regulars, were selected in last week's tryout for the Wesleyan run. They are expected to earn the starting assignments against Kalamazoo. The sophomores are Jack Caplis, Wayne; Harold Ory, Elmore, O., and Robert Dunn, Royal Oak. The others are Capt. Erwin Foster, Northville; Karl Kahler, Redford, and Walter Bellman, Mount Clemens.

Annual Motor Boat Show Will Be Held Jan. 20-28

New York, Oct. 11.—[Special.]—The annual motor boat show will be held at the Grand Central palace Jan. 20 to 28, it was announced today. The dates and site were chosen at a meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers.

5 Knockouts Mark C. Y. O. Preliminaries

The second group of 100 amateurs to be called for the pre-preliminaries of the Catholic Youth organization boxing tournament demonstrated their qualifications to enter the matches at the new C. Y. O. center last night.

There were five knockouts in the regulation one minute qualifying rounds, which continued from 7 p. m. until 11:30 p. m. Bouts in every weight classification were on the card, the boxers representing practically every parish in the six Illinois counties that comprise the Chicago archdiocese.

A capacity crowd cheered the fighters. No winners were announced by the examining board.

"Best I've Seen," McFarland Says.

"It's the best aggregation of amateurs I have seen," said Packey McFarland, who is promotional manager for the tournament. "These boys are trying to qualify for the tournament and trying hard.

"We're having about 200 rounds a night, or two one-minute rounds apiece for the contestants, and it's a sight for sore eyes to watch them punch."

Before entering the qualifying bouts each amateur must pass a rigid physical test, as well as satisfy the examining board as to his character and other qualities.

Three Fail to Pass.

Only three boys failed to pass the medical tests last night.

The regular preliminaries of the tournament, which is the second held by the C. Y. O., will start Oct. 27 and continue through November. The semi-finals and finals will be held early in December at the Chicago Stadium.

Qualifying bouts will be held nightly the rest of this week or until all applicants for the tournament have been examined and given a workout.

CARROLL COACH CHANGES LINEUP FOR BELOIT GAME

Waukesha, Wis., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—A shift was made in Carroll's line today in preparing for the Beloit game at Beloit Saturday. Howard Calvert, right tackle, was sent to right guard and Oswald Johnson put in Calvert's place. Coach Glen Thistlethwaite believes Johnson is more aggressive and will make a better tackle, while Calvert has the power a guard needs. The latter is one of the heaviest men in the line.

Believing that Beloit is the strongest team in the Big Four conference this season, Carroll is working on an offense for the first contest which will count in the conference standing. Last Saturday's game with Lawrence was outside the conference.

Matt Jordon, full back, who sustained a head injury Saturday, was back with the squad today. Beloit outweighs Carroll both in the line and back field.

St. Louis Sprinter Named Captain at Boston Tech

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Richard Bell of St. Louis, one of the fastest sprinters in the east last season, today was elected captain of the Boston Tech track team. He was chosen to succeed Everett Coon, who did not return to college.

Five More Report to Blackhawks at Duluth Camp

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Coach Emil Iverson of the Blackhawks announced today that five more players have reported at the Blackhawk training headquarters. The newcomers are Tommy Cook, Burr Williams, star defense player of last season's St. Louis Fliers of the American league; Johnny Gottselig, Art Coulter and Art Wiebe. The last named is the amateur defense star of northwestern Canada whom Eddie Shore tried to sign for the Boston Bruins.

Louis Trudel still is being detained at the Canadian border but the Hawks have assurance that he will be released on orders from Washington in time to join the team not later than Thursday.

Taffy Abel is the lone Hawk whose whereabouts are unknown, but Coach Iverson is of the opinion that the heavyweight defense star is motoring to camp and is expecting him tomorrow.

MRS. VARE AND MISS HICKS WIN AT HOT SPRINGS

Hot Springs, Va., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Glenna Collett Vare and Miss Helen Hicks, odds-on favorites for the finals of the Hot Springs fall tournament, progressed one match nearer their anticipated meeting today.

Both won easily, Mrs. Vare defeated Miss Olga Hoefler of New York, 7 and 6, while Miss Hicks won, 8 and 6, from Mrs. Taylor Field of Chicago.

After leading 50 starters in the qualifying round of the men's tournament, Fay Ingalls of Hot Springs was defeated at the 19th hole today in his first round match against Irving T. Smith of the Greenwich Country club. Both had par threes on the 18th, but Ingalls took five on the next hole, while Smith got a par four.

The other three seeded players advanced to the second round. George H. Flinn Jr., of Pittsburgh, won from Clive Alvord, Greenwich, 4 and 3. William H. Platt, Philadelphia, was one up on Otto Madlender of Chicago, and Stanley Stone of Milwaukee took a one-up decision from Arthur Brown of St. Louis.

OUTBOARD TITLES ARE CAPTURED BY NEW SPEED KINGS

Jack Maypole Unhurt in Collision of Crafts.

Bay City, Mich., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Drivers in the fourth annual national outboard motor boat regatta succeeded today in settling the last of twelve national championships.

Today's competition, which included events for both amateurs and professionals in classes C to F as well as several special events, was completed in a raw wind which kept down the speed. The wind also figured to some extent in a three way collision which sent Jackie Maypole, the 15 year old driver from River Forest, Ill., to a hospital after an immersion in the cold waters of the Saginaw river.

Maypole Is Unhurt.

Maypole was found to be uninjured, however, and left the hospital later, declaring he felt as well as ever.

Involved in the accident with Maypole were James Nunnelly, Detroit, and Roger Firestone, Akron, O. In another mishap J. C. Harland, Seattle, pushed a boat into a cement pier in attempting to round a buoy. He escaped serious injury.

After the national championship races, four special events were held. The trophy offered by Aaron Deroy, Detroit, was won by Nunnelly, who survived the Maypole crash to win the amateur class F title. Just behind him was Horace Tennes, Chicago amateur. Frank Harvey, Milwaukee, was third.

Neal Wins Cornelius Trophy.

The trophy offered by Adam E. Cornelius, Buffalo, was taken by Dick Neal, Kansas City, with Hank Ryan, Duluth, in second place. The Gov Wilbur M. Brucker trophy was won by Cal Leeth, Cullman, Ala. He was followed closely by Arrel Reinking, Indianapolis, and Neal. The Harry J. Defoe 20 mile marathon trophy also went to Dick Neal, who averaged 45.332 miles per hour.

The casualties among 1931 champions were heavy. None survived the competitive events. The new champions are:

CLASS A, AMATEUR—Ruth Deroo, Flint, Mich., succeeding H. B. Carter, Los Angeles.

CLASS A, PROFESSIONAL—Ed Hauptner, Island City, N. Y., succeeding Hilda Mueller, Bay City.

CLASS B, AMATEUR—Art Jacobs, Chicago, succeeding Jackie Maypole, River Forest, Ill.

CLASS B, PROFESSIONAL—Frank Vincent, Tulsa, Okla., succeeding John B. Maypole, River Forest, Ill.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 11.—Marquette university's football regulars today went through one of the heaviest offensive scrimmages of the season as Coaches F. J. Murray and Tarzan Taylor further sought to perfect the attack for the intersectional meeting with Boston college here one week from Saturday. Shakeups were ordered in the backfield during the workout. These had Capt. Eugene Ronzani stationed at left half back and William Bell calling signals.

The new assignment appeared to please Capt. Ronzani. Four times in 20 minutes he ripped through the opposition for touchdowns before being given a rest.

Bell looked well enough at quarter back, although he lacked the polish necessary for a perfect field general. Rollie Halfman, as usual, was at full back, while Les Verch, a blocking specialist the coaches uncovered yesterday, held down the right half back post.

The line remained unchanged throughout a greater part of the scrimmage and embraced a bulk of the first stringers, but there were other ball carrying quartets used in addition to the one already mentioned. One of these combinations included Robert Miller, a sophomore, at quarter back; Art Peterson and Don Elliott, half backs, and Arthur Agostini, full back.

The Hilltoppers, it was indicated, will look at Boston college formations beginning next Monday. Freshmen Coach Red Dunn departed tonight for the Massachusetts metropolis to scout the Back Bay Eagles tomorrow.

Boxing Board Lists Violators of State Code

The Illinois state athletic commission announced yesterday that its investigation into amateur boxing had revealed a number of Chicago clubs promoting amateur shows in which the contestants were paid. These clubs, the commission announced, will be asked to take out professional licenses. The boxers who participated on cards sponsored by the offending clubs likewise will be asked to register as professionals.

The clubs and the boxers, the commission statement pointed out, have operated in violation of the state law and are liable to prosecution under this law, which provides for fines of $100 to $1,500.

The clubs blacklisted by the commission are:

Marigold boxing club, Western Stadium Athletic club, Midway Boxing club, Savoy Athletic club, Wilson Athletic club, Northwest Stadium Athletic club, Belle Plaine Athletic club, Johnny Coulon Physical Training club, Ashland Arena Athletic club, Sparta Athletic club and the West End Athletic association.

Twelve Clubs Enter City Chess League

Play in the Chicago City Chess league will start on Nov. 22 with 12 clubs entered. Plans for the 1932-33 season were made last night at the league's annual meeting, at which B. A. Czalkowski was elected president, Charles F. Leech vice president, and William J. Rolfe secretary. Clubs entered in the league are the City, Swedish Chess, Chicago Chess and Checker, Nordic Chess, Irving Park Y. M. C. A., Economist, Reynolds, University of Chicago, Commonwealth Edison, Oak Park, Roosevelt Chess and Bridge, and Hawthorne.

S. L. AVERY JR. ENDS LIFE WITH GAS IN HIS HOME

Acted While Mentally Depressed, Is Verdict.

Sewell L. Avery jr., 31 years old, son of the president of the U. S. Gypsum company, committed suicide while mentally depressed, a coroner's jury decided yesterday afternoon. Avery's body was found in the library of the Avery apartment at 205 Lake Shore drive early yesterday morning, the head lying in a fireplace from which gas was escaping.

Dr. George F. Dick, who had treated young Avery for ten years, testified that Avery had threatened several times to kill himself and once had tried to choke himself to death.

Feared Insanity, Says Doctor.

"He was afraid that he was going insane," said the physician. "His physical condition was all right, but his fear of insanity made his mental condition worse. He was frequently seized with spells of depression."

Neither Avery's father nor mother was at the inquest which was held in undertaking rooms in Evanston. Coroner Walsh said he had questioned them and that they were on the verge of collapse because of the suicide. Theodore W. Robinson, former vice president of the Illinois Steel company, and personal friend of the family, gave the family history for the coroner's records.

Depressed During Golf Game.

"I played golf with Avery last Sunday," Mr. Robinson said. "He appeared so depressed then that I feared he might take his life some day."

Coroner Walsh said that Mr. Avery Sr. had told him of a family dinner Monday night to celebrate the 33d wedding anniversary of the Averys. Immediately after the dinner young Avery became melancholic, his father said.

Some time during Monday night, when the rest of the family had retired, young Avery apparently went to the library and turned on the gas which is used to light logs and sat down in a chair facing the fireplace. As the fumes overcame him he fell forward into the fireplace. The body was discovered in the morning by Joseph Sustek, the butler.

Avery Jr. was general manager of the Philadelphia Gypsum mills. He came to Chicago last spring, at the suggestion of his father, to spend the summer here.

Several witnesses declared that Avery could have had no financial worries and scouted the suggestion that he might have been disappointed in a love affair.

BEG YOUR PARDON

In a list of indorsements of congressional candidates by the Women's Organization for National Prohibition Reform, published last Monday, the names of two Illinois nominees named Allen were reversed. The list should have shown Chester Thompson in the 14th district as a "wet" opposing Congressman John C. Allen, who was described standing by the Republican platform. In the Thirteenth district it should have shown the fight to be between Orestes H. Wright, wet Democrat, and Leo E. Allen, who did not reply to the women's organization questionnaire and is considered a dry.

In an item yesterday concerning the rescue of Theodore Semple and his sister, Patricia, it was erroneously stated that the fire was at 6142 University avenue. The fire in the Semple apartment was at 6147 University avenue.

Along with thousands of other teachers, Miss Honora Loughry of 6137 Kenwood avenue, a teacher at the Douglas school, received a check for two weeks' pay yesterday.

Last night she was walking home with her sister from the University of Chicago library when, at Kimbark avenue and the Midway, three Negroes drove alongside of them in a car and took the teacher's purse.

It contained Miss Loughry's check for $120, and another check for $118 belonging to Miss Mildred Proctor, also a teacher at the Douglas school, which had been given to Miss Loughry for safekeeping.

FORMER SENATOR W. A. SMITH OF MICHIGAN DIES

Grand Rapids, Mich., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Former United States Senator William Alden Smith, whose quarter of a century of service in congress included both the Spanish-American and World war periods, died at his home here this afternoon. He was 73 years old.

His ability to call men in almost every hamlet of the state by their first names was the envy of friend and foe alike. His interest in politics continued even after his retirement from the senate in 1919, after two terms. He had been active in the present campaign in his home city until Saturday. Then he suffered a slight heart attack. He was believed on the way to recovery when the second and fatal attack came late today.

In 1906 he purchased the Grand Rapids Herald. He was a member of a prominent law firm and served as president for several years of one of Grand Rapids' largest banks.

At the time of his death Mr. Smith was president of the Herald Publishing company. The Herald at present is affiliated with two other newspapers under joint ownership of the Federated Newspapers, Inc.

Elected to the house in 1894 he was reelected six times. He was a close associate of Speakers Thomas B. Reid and Joseph G. Cannon.

In 1907 the Michigan legislature elected him to the United States Senate to succeed Gen. Russell A. Alger. Mr. Smith was a member of the senate foreign relations committee. He fought against the Canadian reciprocity treaty and the general arbitration treaty with Great Britain.

OLIVE LAMMERT FOUND DEAD AT DESK AT VASSAR

Dr. Olive M. Lammert was found dead at her desk in the chemistry laboratory at Vassar college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y., late Sunday night, according to word received here last night. Dr. Lammert was professor of chemistry at Vassar. She is the daughter of Ferdinand E. Lammert, 2550 Smalley court, of the firm of Lammert & Mann company, engineers, at 221 North Wood street.

Death was due to heart disease, according to the dispatches. An examining physician said a stimulant contributed to the heart attack, but declined to comment on its nature. Dr. Lammert had been in ill health for several days. She was 55 years old.

Dr. Lammert's father and her brother, Raymond, left Chicago for Poughkeepsie Monday morning, it was learned. Funeral services will be held in Poughkeepsie today. The body will be cremated.

Dr. Lammert received her A. B. at Vassar in 1915 and was graduated at the University of Chicago later. She was a fellow of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

GRUBER, FAMOUS AS 'RATTLESNAKE PETE,' IS DEAD

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Peter Gruber, whose snake lore and successful treatment of poisonous reptile bites and medical use of their venom made him famous as "Rattlesnake Pete," died at his home here today.

The 75 year old ex-saloonkeeper and museum proprietor, whose hands and arms were scarred with the marks of snake bites, survived 35 attacks by venomous snakes to die of a heart attack induced by rheumatism.

Several persons owed their lives to "Rattlesnake Pete's" treatment.

Gruber was born in Oil City, Pa. His museum and dens of live rattlers were known over a wide area.

FORMER PRESIDENT OF COLLEGE ENDS HIS LIFE NEAR CAMPUS

Washington, Pa., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Returning to the scene of his joys and triumphs, Dr. Simon S. Baker, 65, former president of Washington and Jefferson college, sent a bullet into his brain during the night and died.

His body was found by a pipe line walker early today in a field near Washington. There was a wound in the left temple and his left hand clutched a pistol.

The educator left his home in Pittsburgh yesterday after telling his wife he intended to go for a stroll.

Dr. Baker served for a decade as president of Washington and Jefferson. He resigned last year following a five day strike of students who protested against the dismissal of three professors and the threatened expulsion of two football players for fighting in a hotel.

He came to Pittsburgh and lived a quiet life, but his friends said he was depressed and melancholy—a defeated, broken man.

Dr. Baker was graduated from Washington and Jefferson in 1892. In 1921 he returned as president. His friends say that was the proudest moment of his life.

DWIGHT DAVIS' WIFE IS DEAD IN BERLIN; LONG ILL

St. Louis, Mo., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Brooks Davis, wife of Dwight F. Davis, former secretary of war and more lately governor-general of the Philippines, died last midnight in Berlin, Germany, according to cable messages received by her family here today.

Death was caused by complications resulting from arthritis, which she suffered for four years, and which kept her from accompanying her husband to the Philippines. It was largely because of her serious illness that Gov. Davis resigned his post at Manila last January.

Since that he spent the greater part of his time with Mrs. Davis, who was in Paris before her recent removal to Germany. He returned to St. Louis recently, but was not in the city when word of her death was received here.

Mrs. Davis was Miss Helen Brooks of Boston, before her marriage in 1905 to Mr. Davis. She took part in the social life of Washington while her husband was in the cabinet.

SUPERIOR JUDGE WORTH E. CAYLOR DIES IN MICHIGAN

Heart Disease Claims Chicago Bar Veteran.

The death from heart disease of Judge Worth E. Caylor of the Superior court, Monday evening in his summer home at Douglas, Mich., became known yesterday when Mrs. Caylor informed William G. Wise, former law partner of her husband, of his death.

Judge Caylor was 64 years old. He had been in ill health for a number of months and had been unable to hold court since last April when a heart attack forced him to leave the bench.

Graduate of De Pauw.

He was born at Arcadia, Ind., and attended De Pauw university, where he was graduated from the law school in 1891. The following year he came to Chicago and was admitted to the Illinois bar. He served from 1895 to 1897 as an assistant to City Attorney Roy O. West, the beginning of a life long friendship with Mr. West and of Mr. Caylor's connection with the Deneen faction of the Republican party.

He later was a law partner of John J. Healy until Mr. Healy was elected state's attorney and thereafter formed the partnership with Mr. Wise which endured until Judge Caylor was elected to the bench in 1924. For 18 years he was attorney for the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad and its predecessor corporations.

Praised by Commission.

In 1927 Judge Caylor became involved in a controversy with other judges of the Superior court when the court's executive committee assigned him to sit for a second consecutive year in the Criminal court. He refused to take up his duties there until the Chicago Bar association acted as a mediator in the matter, when he yielded. At the end of the year his record in the disposal of criminal cases was praised by the Chicago crime commission.

Besides his widow, Mrs. Katherine V. Caylor, Judge Caylor is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Miriam Bolling. The family home is at 5421 Cornell avenue. The body is to be brought back to Chicago today, when funeral arrangements will be announced.

BEWARE Half-Cured COLDS!

They Expose You to a Weakened System and to the Possibility of Serious Complications!

If there is one thing that is a source of danger, it is a half-cured cold!

A half-cured cold is not only apt to recur again and again, but it is a constant drain on your vitality and exposes you to more serious trouble.

When you catch cold, be sure to treat it quickly and decisively. Don't depend on mere local or outside applications. Remember, a cold is an internal infection and requires internal treatment.

Don't put your trust, either, in a preparation that's good for a dozen things besides colds. Remember, a cold is a specific condition calling for a specific treatment. Many preparations that people commonly take for colds actually make relief more difficult because they are constipating and also make the system acid.

Fourfold Action Important

Because it does four things all at one time, the remedy to take for a cold is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine!

First of all, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine opens the bowels, gently but thoroughly—an important step in the relief of a cold. Second, it kills the cold germs in the system, drives out the poisonous infection and reduces the fever. Third, it relieves the headache and that grippy feeling. Fourth, it tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

This is the treatment a cold calls for, the treatment wherein lies real relief and safety!

Absolutely Safe to Take!

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine may be taken with utter safety by young and old. It contains no narcotics and produces no bad after-effects. It does not upset the stomach, nauseate or make the head ring or swim. It's action is swift and certain, but harmless. Thousands, in every civilized country on the globe, look upon it as their sure relief for colds and grippe.

In the form of dainty tablets, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is convenient and pleasant to take, as well as effective. Comes in handy pocket size boxes, cellophane-wrapped, and sold by every drug store in America. To have Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine handy is to be forearmed against colds. Taken immediately at the first sign of a cold, a few of the tablets will usually expel it overnight and prevent the cold fastening itself upon your system.

PRICE OF CRUDE OIL BOOSTED BY OUTPUT CURBS

3 Companies Post New Schedules.

Tulsa, Okla., Oct. 11.—(AP)—A rise in crude oil prices spread through the entire midcontinent area today as three companies announced they would meet an increase posted last night for the east Texas and the gulf coast area.

As a result, at least four new price schedules will go into effect Saturday, Oct. 15, with a top price of $1.12 per barrel paid for east Texas crude and oil of 40 gravity from various areas of north Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas.

The announcement of increases in the price structure followed by only a few hours word from Austin that the Texas railroad commission had cut the state's allowable production to 747,898 barrels a day, more than 100,000 barrels daily.

Oklahoma Cuts Production.

Then the Oklahoma corporation commission said this state's permissible flow will be held back 17,000 barrels to 379,790 barrels daily.

Late today, Thurman Hill, member of the Kansas Public Service commission, announced at Topeka he was requesting all concerns purchasing crude oil in Kansas to reduce their purchases 12 per cent effective Oct. 15.

If the concerns acceded to the request, the daily taking of crude oil in the state would be cut to approximately 88,000 barrels, Hill said.

Companies Making Advances.

The companies announcing advances today were the Sinclair-Prairie Oil Marketing company, Barnsdall Refineries, Inc., and Phil-Tex Pipe Line company, the latter a subsidiary of Phillips Petroleum company.

Sun Oil company was the first to announce an increase, posting a 12-cent advance for East Texas, to $1.10 per barrel, and a 10-cent advance to a similar top for the gulf coast.

Under the Sinclair-Prairie schedule, Oklahoma crude will range in price from 88 cents for oil of 29 gravity, to the top of $1.12 for best grades produced.

Production Increases.

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Daily average gross crude oil production in the United States increased 1,000 barrels in the week ended Oct. 8, totaling 2,173,000 barrels, the American Petroleum Institute's weekly summary indicates. Daily average production last of California increased from 7,900 barrels to 1,702,900 barrels.

Refineries representing 93.6 per cent of estimated total capacity, operated at 55.5 per cent of their capacity, reported daily average runs of crude oil to stills as 2,005,000 barrels. Daily average the previous week for refineries representing 93.6 per cent of total, operated at 56.9 per cent of capacity, was 2,054,000 barrels.

Predicts Heavy Penalties.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Proration of crude oil production and heavy penalties for violation of quotas were forecast today by W. P. Z. German of Tulsa, Okla., in a speech before the mineral law section of the American Bar association.

CANADA DENIED INFORMATION ON SOVIET OIL DEAL

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 11.—(AP)—"It is not the practice of the department of national revenue to disclose its dealings with any one who does business with it," Hon. E. R. Ryckman told the house of commons today in reply to a request for information on the recent importation of soviet oil.

William Duff, a Liberal, had asked for correspondence between the dominion government, and with the Aluminum company of Canada in connection with importation of oil from Russia.

The Aluminum company of Canada announced it had arranged to trade about $1,000,000 worth of aluminum for soviet oil.

A Canadian oil company agreed to refine and market the petroleum. The Aluminum company agreed to credit the cash received from the Canadian oil company to the account of the soviet government.

The first shipload of the oil arrived last month. Oil is not on the Canadian "anti-dumping" list.

Shares of Old Banks Quoted at Low Prices

The launching last week of the new City National Bank and Trust company to take over the commercial and savings business of the Central Republic Bank and Trust company marks the close of an important chapter in Chicago banking history.

The mergers and consolidations in recent years have removed the names of several historic institutions from the city's financial register. Gradually the larger loop banks through absorption of the smaller institutions and mergers among themselves have been reduced to five.

Two More Pass Out.

As the result of the organization of the new bank the names of two more institutions which have played an important rôle in the city's financial growth are destined to pass out.

The Central Republic bank, which represents a consolidation of the old Central Trust company of Illinois and the National Bank of Republic, has withdrawn from the commercial and savings field. Its business in these fields will be carried on by the new institution. Its deposits have been transferred to the new bank. The Central Republic will continue operation of its trust and real estate loan departments.

Merged Last Year.

Stockholders of the old Central Trust company, the original "Dawes bank," and the National Bank of Republic accepted new Central Republic shares when the two institutions consolidated in June last year. Central Trust holders received 2 shares of stock in the new bank for every three shares of their old stock. National Republic holders got one share of new stock for each 9¾ shares of their old stock.

Present Central Republic stockholders, as such, have no interest in the new City National bank. Capital for the new institution was raised by a group of Central Republic stockholders and outsiders. No exchange of stock took place. Only subscribers of capital for the new bank received stock.

Stock Values Low.

Central Republic stock is currently quoted in the over the counter market at $2.50 a share. This means that stock of the old Central Trust Company of Illinois which sold as high as $780 a share in the boom days of 1929 is now worth, in terms of Central Republic stock, approximately $1.66 a share. For each share of old stock Central Trust holders now have two-thirds of a share of Central Republic.

Old National Republic shares, which reached a peak price of $300 a share in 1929, now have a market value of about 27 cents a share on the basis of present price of Central Republic. One share of National Republic stock is equivalent to a little less than one-ninth of a share of present Central Republic stock.

GAS ASSOCIATION TO SPEND $3,000,000 ON ADVERTISING

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 11.—(AP)—The launching of a giant advertising campaign, to cost a million dollars a year for three years, was announced today at the opening session of the fourteenth annual convention of the American Gas association.

Conrad N. Lauer, president of the Philadelphia Gas Works company, who will head the campaign, told the general session of the convention that it is now ready to get under way and that the gas industry has assured him of its 100 per cent support.

Clifford E. Paige, vice president of the Brooklyn Union Gas company, scored legislation intended to eliminate utilities from the sale of appliances. "During the last year and a half such bills have been introduced in fourteen states," he declared. "In twelve of these states the bills were defeated. Indications are that similar bills will be presented in other state legislatures this winter."

BRITISH ISSUES CLIMB AS GOV'T BONDS ARE SOLD

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 11.—That there is plenty of money available for investment in England was exemplified again today when lists of the new treasury conversion loan at two per cent, amounting to 750 million dollars at par, closed within a few minutes of the opening of business. The effect was electrical on all "gilt edged" stocks, which rose several points after the stock exchange opened.

The new government issue was offered at par and in exchange for the 4½ per cent war loans and other government bonds. It runs from 1935 to 1938.

CANADA'S GOLD OUTPUT JUMPS TO $41,577,342

OTTAWA, Ont., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Canada's gold output for the first eight months of 1932 amounted to 2,011,204 ounces, valued at $41,577,342, according to a statement issued today by the Dominion bureau of statistics.

This was ahead of the corresponding period of 1931, when the production was 1,724,089 ounces, worth $35,640,082.

The output for August totaled 262,500 ounces, an increase of 5.9 per cent over the July production of this year which was 247,894 ounces, and 15 per cent over August, 1931, total of 228,248 ounces.

Foreign Raids on U. S. Dollar Come to End

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 11.—The abortive speculative raid on the dollar, which at the close Saturday had carried leading continental currencies close to the gold export point, was completely deflated today, with foreign exchanges virtually back to the point where the upswing started following President Hoover's Des Moines address.

According to bankers and foreign exchange specialists here, the attempt to raid the dollar and cause an outflow of gold from the United States has come to an end, and there probably will be no interruption to the return flow of the precious metal, which started last June.

Sterling Is Weak.

A flood of offerings of continentals was reported today, coming apparently from the same interests who were the heaviest buyers of the same currencies on the upturn. There was little demand for French or Swiss francs, Dutch guilders, or Belgian belgas.

One of the surprising features of the market was the weakness in sterling, which did not participate in the recent move. Pounds were quoted at 3.44⅛, off 1⅝ cents from yesterday. It is believed there is heavy buying of securities here for British account.

When Great Britain abandoned the gold standard last autumn foreigners began the withdrawal of their balances in the United States, and this movement continued until early June, with the United States meeting all demands.

Return Flow Begins.

Then, when their balances were quite well depleted, the return flow of gold began, and it has continued ever since, although the runup in foreign currencies on Saturday reached a somewhat threatening point.

The following table gives the demand rates for the most active of the foreign currencies on the Tuesday preceding the runup, the highs on Saturday and today's prices, with the parity of each currency:

	Today.	Saturday.	Tuesday.

BUILDING GAINS DOWNSTATE, BUT CHICAGO DROPS

Building permits totaling 961 in September in 45 reporting cities of Illinois showed an increase of 7.3 per cent over the previous month, it was reported today by the division of statistics and research of the Illinois department of labor. The permits call for an estimated expenditure of $1,113,048.

While the estimated expenditure dropped 23.3 per cent in Chicago during the month, there was a gain of 66.8 per cent in cities outside the metropolitan area and an increase of 12 per cent in suburban cities, the report said.

Building for the first nine months of 1932 in all reporting cities of the state was $11,259,339, or a decline of 83.9 per cent from the total $70,099,065 for the same period in 1931.

STEEL DELIVERED FOR CAR BUILDING BY PENNSYLVANIA

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 11.—[Special.]—Thirty-five carloads of steel and other equipment have been received at the big car plant of the Pennsylvania railroad here. The shipment is the first of the materials, coming mostly from the Pittsburgh district, to be used in the construction of steel box cars by the Pennsylvania company for which it obtained a $2,000,000 loan recently from the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

It is expected the work will start within thirty days. It means the employment of at least 700 men during the winter.

PROVINCIAL PREMIERS WILL ASK CANADA FOR BONUS ON WHEAT CROP

WINNIPEG, Man., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Representatives of the three prairie governments and officials of the Canadian wheat pools tonight announced the federal government would be asked for a bonus on wheat production for the present year's crop.

The announcement came after a two day conference, during which it also was decided to suggest to the dominion government the advisability of calling a conference of representatives of governments and producers of the chief exporting countries to consider all phases of the wheat problem.

A statement to be dispatched to Prime Minister R. B. Bennett made no mention of the amount of the bonus, and it was said the federal government should decide the bonus rate.

Dispatches from Calgary quoted Norman F. Priestley, vice president of the United Farmers of Alberta, as declaring that a bonus of at least five cents a bushel should be available to Canadian farmers this year.

The government paid a bonus of five cents a bushel on the 1931 crop, the payments being handled by the board of grain commissioners.

The conference just ended here was called after wheat prices had declined for ten days. Among those in attendance was J. E. Brownlee, premier of Alberta; M. A. MacPherson, provincial treasurer of Saskatchewan, and J. Bracken, premier of Manitoba, as well as several representatives of the western coöperative agencies.

OUTPUT OF AUTOS TOUCHES A NEW LOW FOR YEAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 11.—Automobile production for the week ended Oct. 10 went to a new low level for the year when only 11,990 units were turned out, compared with 14,110 in the preceding seven days and 29,775 a year ago.

At the same time, complete returns for September, according to reliable private figures, showed a reduction of about 43 per cent from last year and for the first nine months there was a drop of 44 per cent from 1931.

Total production for September was estimated at 80,000 units, against 142,651 last year, and for the nine months the output was 1,204,641 against 2,164,953 in the corresponding period of 1931.

Retail demand of automobiles still is reported on the down grade and it is expected plants will curtail further during the remainder of the year, except for work on new models to be introduced in January.

During the week Ford output totaled 7,200, against 8,000 in the preceding seven days; Chevrolet, 900, against 1,800, and Plymouth closed. Total General Motors output was 1,035, against 1,940, and of Chrysler 800, against 410.

BLAME DIVIDEND REDUCTION ON HIGHER TAXES

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Higher taxes now in effect were described today as largely responsible for a 19 per cent reduction in dividends which the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company has apportioned to its policy holders for 1933.

James Lee Loomis, president, announced today that next year's dividends would be 81 per cent of the 1932 rate, due to an increase in federal taxes of nearly 100 per cent and a 50 per cent increase in mutual rates.

President Hoover Greets 100 Bankruptcy Referees

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—(AP)—Delegates to the annual conference of referees in bankruptcy, more than 100 strong, today filed through President Hoover's office, where each was greeted personally. The conference delegates almost filled the lobby of the executive offices before forming a line to file through Mr. Hoover's private work suite.

Principal commodity and security markets in the United States, including the New York and Chicago stock exchanges and the Chicago Board of Trade, will be closed today—Columbus day. Banks also will be closed. The Chicago live stock market will be open. Trading will be resumed in all markets tomorrow.

Charges Home Loan System Aids Investors

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 11.—(AP)—The work of the Federal Home Loan bank system and the economic position of the midwestern farmer were studied today by the Mortgage Bankers' association in convention here.

The bankers, who were told by Hiram S. Cody of Chicago, president of the association, that the Federal Home Loan bank "is a misnomer," also heard that not all signs in the midwestern agricultural mortgage situation are discouraging.

Helps Building Group.

The Home Loan bank, Cody said, actually "is a government institution for the use of building and loan associations to obtain cash to pay off frightened investors."

Cody said "evidence is plentiful that our members have been extending relief to home owners while others have been talking about it."

Discussing the farmers' situation, Dean W. Trick of Des Moines, Ia., said most farmers are doing their best to meet their debts, and that "more than half the farm foreclosures that have taken place during this period of low prices have been on properties that were tenant occupied."

Private Lenders Lenient.

Trick said fewer than 20 per cent of farm mortgages are in foreclosure. Private mortgage holders, he said, were "very unwilling farmers," and foreclosure was resorted to only when the farmer was hopelessly involved.

Discussing the farm picketing situation in the middle west, Trick said one group of pickets of which he had information contained only one real farmer. The others in the group, he said, were a truck driver, two laborers from a state a thousand miles away, an unemployed clerk, and a laborer from an organization which had nothing to do with farming.

WORK ON PLAN TO END DOUBLE STOCK DEAL TAX

Washington, D. C., Oct. 11.—(AP)—A plan to do away with a double transfer tax in cases where sales are made by a broker's branch or correspondent office is being considered by Commissioner David Burnet of the internal revenue bureau.

At present where a branch office sells stock and cannot get the certificate to New York by 2:15 p. m. the day after the sale it is necessary for the broker to borrow the stock from himself for delivery, thus requiring a tax on the borrowed stock and another tax on the sale.

Under the new plan being weighed, the double tax would be avoided through elimination of the tax on borrowed stock where it is an interoffice or intercorrespondent borrowing. While Burnet has not indicated what action he will take, officials today said they believed that he would endeavor to relieve the brokers from the double tax. The loss to the government of this tax, it was said, would be trivial and the action would expedite trading.

Department Store Sales Up More Than Seasonal

Retail business in the United States as reflected by department store sales showed a somewhat more than the estimated seasonal increase, according to statistics compiled by the federal reserve board for September.

Business Insolvencies Smallest Since Nov., 1931

Business insolvencies last week, as reported by Bradstreet's, fell to the lowest total since November, 1931. They numbered 438, compared with 467 in the preceding week and 514 in the corresponding period of 1931.

New York, Oct. 11.—Advances of as much as 4 points were scored by leading stocks in a right-about-face of operations on the exchange today. Railroad issues led the upward movement, just as they had set the pace in the general decline last week. Shares which move easily against the shorts, such as Auburn, Case, Coca Cola, United Aircraft, and Eastman were conspicuously buoyant.

Pre-holiday covering furnished most of the motive power of the market's comeback. Better news from the wheat pit was an encouraging influence, a fact emphasized by the market's rise to the best levels of the day in the last hour, when wheat went to its best.

Little News, but Cheering.

Except the contributions to the bull cause by the wheat and other commodity markets and an improved tone in bond trading, there was little from the "outside" to stimulate the share list in its efforts to shake off the effects of its late performance. Such items as did come in for consideration were generally of a cheering nature, as the maintenance of the Nash dividend.

The utilities section got a "negative" boost of a sort out of the publication of figures showing that the American Telephone system lost only about 90,000 subscribers in September, as compared with a loss almost twice as great the previous month. The stock moved up 3 points after the "good news" came out. The closing sale was recorded at 103 against the par value figure of yesterday's final transaction.

Motors Are Slow.

Oil, motor and copper shares were a cross-section of the general market with gains of a point or so numerous. The motors were held back by disappointing production figures and a realization that the big season for the industry is about over.

In the railroad division activity centered in Union Pacific, Atchison, Southern Pacific, New York Central, Illinois Central, and Baltimore and Ohio with upturns of 1 to 4 points the rule.

Rail Leaders to Decide Fate of Credit Group

BY PHILIP HAMPSON.

The fate of the Railroad Credit corporation is expected to be one of the important subjects to be discussed by the advisory committee of the Association of Railway Executives which is to meet here Friday morning at the Blackstone hotel.

CARL R. GRAY JR.

Immediately after this conference members of the board of directors of the American Railway association are to meet.

Railway circles here yesterday professed ignorance as to what will be discussed by the executives' committee, although New York reports indicated that the chief topic will be the credit corporation. The terms of the credit corporation provide that obligations imposed on the roads subscribing to its financing will not be effective after next March. Thus, if the corporation is to be continued as an active credit medium, action to insure this will have to be taken shortly.

Some Ask Lower Rates.

One of the purposes of the Railroad Credit corporation was to arrange loans to roads in need of financial assistance from funds derived from surcharges on freight rates put into effect by the interstate commerce commission last January. Funds obtained from the surcharges were to be placed in a pool for the common use of the roads.

The roads have obtained only a fraction of the revenue they expected from the surcharges and now there is agitation in some railroad quarters for reduced rates instead of higher ones to meet the competition which has arisen from motor trucks. An example of this is found in the announcement by Carl R. Gray Jr., vice president of the Omaha railway, that as an experiment his road would abolish class rates on less than carload freight in the Nebraska division effective Nov. 1.

Disregard Classes.

Mr. Gray stated that the line would carry ordinary merchandise at a flat mileage charge regardless of classification. The mixing of various classes of freight will be permitted and the rates will be made low enough to meet competition from trucks. The experiment is to be continued for a year.

In many cases the roads have found that as a result of the surcharges shippers have sought to reduce their transportation costs either through use of trucking companies or through their own trucks.

Another subject that is causing considerable discussion among railroad executives is the subject of passenger fares. One group favors radical re-

NATIONAL R. R. COSTS CANADA $924,677,000

Political Pressure Adds to Burden.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Ottawa, Ont., Oct. 11.—It has cost the Canadian taxpayers $924,677,000 to have the dominion government own and operate the Canadian National railways in the nine year period 1923 to 1931, inclusive.

This is the total increase on the debt account credited to the government owned lines by Canada's royal commission on transportation, which, headed by Justice Lyman Duff, spent a year investigating the Canadian railway muddle. Warning was issued that Canadian financial stability is dependent upon some solution.

Political and Public Pressure.

The principal recommendations of the commission, involving the creation of a Canadian railway dictatorship in a three man commission, were made public a few weeks ago, but today's reports to parliament comprise detailed analysis of Canadian railway statistics.

The commissioners find that political and public pressure has influenced unwarranted railway expansion, and that nearly one-third of the existing 42,000 railway miles could be scrapped and the remainder carry 95 per cent of existing traffic.

Bus and truck competition are important factors in present railway losses, the commissioners assert.

Raises Other Points.

A number of other points were brought out by the commission, including the following:

The right of Canadian railways to issue free transportation should be reviewed and in place of free passes for members of parliament the state should pay for the transportation.

Operating costs are higher and construction costs greater on the government owned system than on the privately owned Canadian Pacific railway.

Competition between state and privately owned roads has prevailed on a ruinous scale.

Expenditures of millions of dollars by both roads on hotels is condemned as deplorable waste.

Cites Unwise Expenditures.

The report stated: "It is in the larger sphere of policy that political considerations led to unwise and unnecessary capital expenditures. It is impossible to avoid the conclusion that the management was amenable to political influence and pressure which it would have been in the public interest to have withstood."

It was also suggested that the capital of the Canadian National be written down heavily from its present $2,669,926,372, but not until an opportune time presented itself.

New York, Oct. 11.—Long term United States government bonds provided the only exception to general firmness in the bond market today. The government securities were sold on the possibility of further long term financing and uncertainties on the budget score.

Short term United States governments continued one of the bright spots of the entire securities market. The new 4½ year 3 per cent notes advanced to a full point premium, while Liberties held firm.

Speculative Rails Gain.

Secondary railroad bonds regained composure today after their reaction of this last week and gains amounted to as much as 2 points in such bonds as Baltimore and Ohio 4½s, due 1933, and others.

The better tone in the speculative corporation bond market was attributed generally to the improved sentiment toward the stock market and to the evidence given in recent market sessions of unabated demand for prime issues in the corporation and municipal sections of the market.

Utility Issue Offered.

Reflecting the demand for new security issues a syndicate headed by Dillon, Read & Co. today released for sale an additional issue of $7,500,000 of general mortgage 5 per cent bonds of the Union Electric Light company.

Bendix Aviation Corp.

Will you kindly give me a report on Bendix Aviation?—F. H. W.

Bendix Aviation corporation is a holding company. Subsidiaries supply about 80 per cent of the starting drives used in the manufacture of automobiles, 30 per cent of the brakes, and 12 per cent of the carburetors.

Sales of automobile equipment are about ten times as large as sales of aviation equipment. The company has developed a variable pitch propeller and a supercharger for airplane engines. The company also supplies equipment for the marine industry and manufactures ventilators and safety devices for factories.

The most recent development is a device to shift gears automatically. Other new developments are "Bendix clutch control" and "Startix."

General Motors corporation owns 500,000 shares of the capital stock. On the board of directors are representatives of General Motors corporation, Paul H. Davis & Co., Aviation corporation, Curtiss-Wright corporation, Hayden, Stone & Co., Westinghouse Air Brake company, and Electric Auto-Lite company.

The company first showed the effects of contraction in automobile production in the first half of 1932, when net loss was $52,000, against net of $1,512,000, or 72 cents a share, for the corresponding 1931 period. In 1931 and in 1930 earnings in the first half were the most favorable of the year.

Net income for 1931 was $1,555,000, or 74 cents per share, against net of $1,184,000, or 57 cents per share, for 1930. Net for 1929, including predecessor companies, was $7,416,000.

On Dec. 31, 1931, current assets were $9,803,000 and current liabilities were $2,142,000. Working capital was $7,661,000, against $10,314,000 the year before and $22,031,000 on Dec. 31, 1929.

The company has no funded debt. Capitalization consists solely of 2,097,663 shares of no par common stock.

Quarterly dividends of 25 cents per share were paid through 1931 and the first two quarters of 1932. The July 1, 1932, payment was omitted.

The company is apparently under able management, does not labor under funded debt, and is in a good financial position. Its research department is active. Its trade position is strong.

Because production of automobile equipment represents such a large proportion of total business, no substantial improvement in earnings may be expected until an improvement in automobile sales is evident.

The stock is speculative.

ACTIVE BUYING BOOSTS WHEAT PRICE ONE CENT

Corn Mart Also Displays Greater Strength.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Some influential buying of wheat, coupled with an oversold market, more than offset all bearish developments and brought about an advance of around 1c from Monday's finish. There were aggressive purchases by houses with eastern connections.

At no time was there any material pressure on the market, and sentiment generally was more friendly to the buying side, the action of stocks having considerable influence. May and July wheat sold at a new low for the season at the opening, but all futures rallied quickly, and the finish was about the top. Net gains on wheat were ⅞@1⅛c with December, 49¾@49¼c; May, 54¼@54⅝c, and July, 55⅝@55⅞c.

Winnipeg Wheat Firm.

Winnipeg wheat futures dropped to a new low for the season at the opening, but at 50c for the December delivery there was the same aggressive support which has been in evidence on all declines of late and the close was at the same figures as on Saturday, with the December at 50¼c. Liverpool developed strength and finished ¼c lower to ⅛c higher, with December at 55⅛c, or 6¼c over the same delivery in Chicago.

Heavy hedging sales were in evidence in the Canadian market, while export demand was only fair, the sales in all positions being estimated at 500,000 bu. Nothing was heard regarding demand for American hard winter, and so far this season the clearances of the latter grain have been less than 12,000,000 bu. This is believed to be the smallest aggregate in a great many years, and is regarded as reflecting the recent farm board policy of holding the American market above a world's export level, with the result that the grain has been held at home.

Argentina Needs Rain.

Official reports from Argentina covering the period from Oct. 5 to 11 showed no rain had fallen in that country with the exception of light showers in the southern part of the province of Buenos Aires. Private cables indicated that rain was needed in the northern sections and that locusts were commencing to spread. The latter development is causing apprehension on the part of the trade as a recent official report indicated around 600,000 acres had already been destroyed by the pest.

A better class of local and commission house buying was in evidence in corn yesterday. A small dip early was followed by an advance of ⅞c from the inside figures and the close was at net gains of ⅝@¾c. December finished at 27c, May at 31⅞@32c, and July at 32¼c. The government report issued late Monday showing 2,885,000,000 bu, or 31,000,000 bu in excess of the September returns, had little effect.

Canada Buys Duty-Free Corn.

While the United States is trying to dispose of its surplus corn in Europe, South Africa is taking the Canadian market. It was reported 80,000 bu of South African grain sold at equal to 51c per bu at an Ontario point. There is an import duty of 25c per bu on American corn into Canada, while South African is admitted duty free. The country sold 175,000 bu to arrive during the day.

Commission houses were fair buyers of oats and the close was ⅛c higher in sympathy with other grains. December finished at 16¼c and May at 18⅞c. Rye was ⅝@⅞c higher with December closing at 32¼c, and May at 35¾c.

COLLECTION OF GRAINS IN RUSSIA DIFFICULT

Collection of grain in Russian provinces is most difficult and the soviet government is unable to secure sufficient for requirements. This is indicated by what is said to be a trustworthy report from well informed interest as made to Bartlett Frazier company. It appears that the blame rests largely on the collective farms of the Ukraine, north Caucasus and lower Volga districts. These are the largest export areas, it is said. The Asiatic districts are also very much behind their schedule of delivery. As a result this rural failure to meet government expectations it is also reported that fall work, including the seeding of winter grain and fall plowing, are much delayed.

PROVISION MART NARROW

A little interest in the nearby and deferred futures of lard absorbed the offerings, but prices moved within a narrow range and at the last October lard was off 5c and other months practically unchanged. Bellies failed to attract attention in futures or cash, the latter being $5.37½. Packers and distributors reported a fair trade of cash lard, with regular at $4.32½; loose, $4.20, and leaf, $4.12½. Liverpool lard was a shilling lower on spots and unchanged for futures. Export clearances of lard were again liberal, 1,526,871 lbs, and bacon only 13,000 lbs. Prices follow:

Estimated receipts at Chicago today: Cattle, 10,000; hogs, 17,000; sheep, 14,000.

Hog prices eased a trifle more in yesterday's trade, but there was a healthier tone to the market and better action in most classes near the close. Both the top and average prices showed 10c loss at $3.90 and $3.60, respectively.

Although nothing in the reports from the wholesale trade indicated improved demand because of the colder weather and continued light receipts, there was a noticeable change in the attitude of smaller houses that deal mostly in fresh meats, which traders attributed to the drop in temperatures the last two days. The latter interests were more aggressive and only a well picked over supply of hogs remained at the finish.

Larger local houses raised their later bids to a steady basis, but obtained comparatively small numbers. Bulk of best grades of 175@300 lb. hogs sold quickly at $3.55@3.85, but anything of the "lard" type, exceeding 325 lbs in weight was a drug on the market.

Cattle Trading Drags.

Weather conditions yesterday were favorable to a better cattle market, but buyers showed no particular haste in replenishing their supply of beef. Trading dragged all day at barely steady rates, only a few of the top classes emerging without price changes. The wabbly condition of the market for the plainer types encouraged a paring down of costs of steers valued at $7.00 and below. Offerings of lightweight and medium quality cattle selling from this line down, comprise a larger share of the total receipts. More of the run lately has been of the class to sell at $5.00@6.00.

Common grades of grassy natives and thin steers direct from the range sold at $4.00@4.50, with occasional sales of inferior ill-bred stock as low as $3.00. In all cases buyers called for weight. Steers weighing above 1,000 lbs were the easiest to dispose of without a sharp discount in price. Most of these, when carrying good killing flesh, cashed at $8.00 and above, with choice 1,247@1,287 lb beeves at $9.65, the day's top. Some 1,495@1,510 lb steers sold at $9.20. Butcher stock held almost steady.

Lamb Trade Easier.

Native lambs lost a little of the preceding day's sharp gains despite light receipts yesterday. Range stock held firm and occasional sales were slightly higher. City butchers hand picked natives up to $5.85, getting Monday's $6.00 kinds at that figure, while packing houses bought largely at $5.25@5.50, paying up to $5.75 for the best. One load of range lambs sold to a city butcher at $5.95, the others going at $5.25@5.85, with feeding stock at $5.25 and below. Aged sheep were steady, matured stock selling for slaughter at $2.00.
